Seniors the Centre

All Lindenwood Shares Distinction With the Graduates

It is the season of seniors, and never before were there so many, nor did they ever seem to have so good a time together. The annual Senior Luncheon given by Dr. and Mrs. Roemer, May 20, at the Missouri Athletic Association, struck the key-note for the 16 days which are following.

This was a party in which congenial souls all sat together, the decorations were superb, and the food, ah, the food! It began with an abundant fruit cocktail of most delicate flavors; then came rich, juicy steak with a rare sauce, asparagus and other vegetables; then a choice salad; and finally a delectable combination of strawberries and ice cream, with lovely cakes and coffee.

The table arrangement required considerable contriving, but it was managed and the difficult achievement accomplished of having 48 seniors and about 20 other guests, class sponsors and student activities committee — all seated at one board, within conversational distance of the speaker's table and of each other.

Talisman roses, uncounted for abundance, combined with smilax in a beautiful centerpiece and in lavish bouquets which afterwards were distributed among the girls. The tall candles were golden, and there were white sweet peas here and there, to carry out the colors.

It seemed to be the general conviction that this was about the handsomest class Lindenwood had ever graduated. At least this fact was unblushingly stated by several of the speakers (not members of the class). Dr. Roemer led the ranks with a pleasant talk, and Mrs. Roemer followed with a few words of appreciation of the high standard of these 48 girls. The class sponsor, Dr. Gregg, was the bearer of warm good wishes. Dr. B. Kurt Stumberg, Director John Thomas and Secretary Guy Motley each gave characteristic talks most enthusiastically received. Elizabeth England, class president, spoke the sentiment of gratitude felt by all the seniors.

These girls, with the degrees which they are receiving on June 5, are: Helen Atwill, of Iberia, Mo., who entered from another school and will receive her degree next year; Agnes Bachman, Salem, Ill., B. S.; Jane Bagnell, Nelson, Mo., A. B.; Anna-Marie Balsiger, Kansas City, Mo., A. B.; Marie Blaske, St. Charles, B. S.; Evelyn Brougher, Hoopeston, Ill., A. B.; Mary

B.; Lillian Webb, Clayton, A. B.; Elizabeth Wheeler, Galena, Kan., A. B.; Isabelle Wood, Auxvasse, Mo., A. B.

Alumnae Officers, 1933-34

On May 22, the Alumnae Association of Lindenwood, meeting at the college, elected as president for the coming year: Mrs. George M. Null, (Florence Bloebaum, 1902-05), of St. Charles; vice-president, Mrs. Harold Evans (Lucile Allen, 1912-14), of Kansas City, Mo.; secretary, Mrs. E. P. Baldwin (Elsie Porth, 1913-16), of Pattonville, Mo.; and treasurer, Mr. J. G. Vogt (Tonina Carr, 1905-07), of St. Louis.

At the luncheon of that day, Dr. Roemer called for representatives of the various classes by years to stand. Mrs. Clara Christy Mellor of St. Louis, was the oldest graduate present, representing the class of 1875. Mrs. D. M. Hardy of Waterloo, Ill., and Mrs. Douglas V. Martin were of the class of 1876, and Mrs. Charles W. Wilson of St. Charles, 1877.

Board Approves Music Hall

When the Board of Directors held its annual meeting in the parlors of Roemer Hall, in mid-May, every one heard with real pleasure the formal announcement and approval of the purchase of the T. C. Bruere estate which from August 1 will be known as Lindenwood's Music Hall. This house of 12 rooms, which Judge and Mrs. Bruere and their large family have made into such a beautiful home for about 30 years, "entirely surrounded by Lindenwood campus," will readily be adapted to the uses of the music department; few changes are required. The Bruere family is closely linked with Lindenwood's history. Their two daughters have been students here, and their sons have married Lindenwood girls. It is only natural that Judge Bruere should have made generous terms with the college, and the college in turn appreciates the spirit of sacrifice which must be felt in giving up a home of so many associations.

The Bruere plot of ground contains a little over two acres, 350 feet front on Butler drive by 300 feet deep. In its title deed the proportions are recorded in "arpens," the old French term which dates the ground back 100 years ago and more, older than Lindenwood itself. An apple orchard, other lovely trees and many beds of fine flowers enhance the place.

The board meeting was an encouraging one, and it was generally felt that this has been a successful year for the college, in spite of the depression. Appropriations were made for the coming year, and for such work as is necessary to be done in connection with the new Music Hall.

Board members were re-elected, in the class of 1939 as follows: Dr. John L. Roemer, Dr. Harry C. Rogers, Dr. David M. Skilling, Mr. Charles Tweedie and Mr. Lee Montgomery.

California Tea and Luncheon

From Los Angeles comes news of several gala affairs of the Southern California Lindenwood College Club, most recent of which was the luncheon on April 15.

On that day the club was entertained at a 12:30 o'clock luncheon at the spacious home of Mrs. Robert Eastlick, 790 Oak-Knoll, Pasadena. The luncheon table was ornamented with an artistic center decoration of an Easter chicken pulling an egg-shell cart filled with mammoth pansies from the Eastlicks' own garden. Mrs. William Martin Sorey (Helen Chesbrough) gave a talk on her recent trip to Lindenwood, followed by her impressions of the "Century of Progress" buildings in Chicago. Jigsaw puzzles furnished entertainment for the rest of the afternoon.

Mrs. H. B. Simcox of 1337 Rossmoyne avenue, Glendale, who has a daughter in Lindenwood, became a member of the club.

On March 15 the club was entertained at a tea at the home of Mrs. W. G. Smart, 1908 West Sixth street. Mrs. C. H. Baker and Mrs. Ben Cunliff poured. The table was most elaborately decorated with spring flowers, gleaming silver and sparkling glassware. Miss Cora Coogle was elected to make the social calls of the club.

Apropos of the "lovely afternoon" already spoken of at Mrs. Eastlick's came Miss Coogle's letter to Dr. Linne-mann, telling more about it. "I just wish," said Miss Coogle, "I could come back to dear old Lindenwood, and see all the new buildings. I was there in the fall of 1908, my last time. (My years were 1904-07, and Mother was in Lindenwood, 1879-81. Her name was Nettie Graham. Mrs. Clara Richards Trixon was mother's roommate.)"

Miss Coogle jotted down the names of everyone at the April meeting, which may awaken memories among many who read this. They were: Mrs. Cora Hubbard, Mrs. Smart and her sister, Mrs. Brewer, Miss Nellie Boal, Mrs. Nellie Baker, Mrs. Nettie Coogle, Mrs. Helen Sorey, Mrs. Lota Fetty, Mrs. Lankford, Mrs. Serita McAdams, Miss Glen Prouty, Mrs. Van Arsdale, Miss Ella Schuerman, Miss Grace Irwin and her mother, Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. Simeox, Miss Alma Kinkaid, Mrs. May Stelle and Miss Cora Graham Coogle.

Miss Coogle gives news of Louise Martin Johns, who is in Y. W. C. A. work in San Diego, Calif.

New Illinois Club

Miss Lorraine Robie (A. B., 1931), sends the following newspaper account of the forming of a Lindenwood Club in Illinois: "A Central Illinois Lindenwood Alumnae Club has been organized by former Lindenwood students. Officers elected are: president, Mrs. Lawrence Flinn; vice-president, Mrs. William Shorb; corresponding secretary, Miss Lorraine Robie; recording secretary, Miss Christine McCoy; and historian, Mrs. Curtis Buscher.

"Regular meetings will be held the third Saturday of each month and the meeting on May 20 will be held in Decatur. Present at the organization meeting were Elizabeth French, Marian Meyerstein, Lorraine Robie, Mrs. Roy Beard, Mrs. Paul Overaker, Margaret Roberts, Elizabeth Higginbotham, Mrs. Lawrence Flinn, Lorraine McNamar and Christine McCoy of Springfield; Mrs. Curtis Buscher, Mrs. William Shorb, Mrs. Helen Todrick, Mrs. W. D. Bodman and Miss Dorothy Fogwell of Decatur."

Miss Robie says, "We are calling ourselves The Lindenwood Club of Central Illinois because we expect girls from Lincoln, Jacksonville and Taylorville to join us. We've received letters from several who are enthusiastic about the club."

Miss Malvina Olecott (1928-30) writes from her home in Omaha, Neb., that both she and her sister, Miss Faye Olecott (who came to Lindenwood a year later) are employed in Omaha. Miss Malvina is teaching in the Dickinson Secretarial School, and Miss Faye has a stenographic position that she likes very much. Other former Lindenwood girls who have taken or are taking business training, she says, are Mary Elizabeth Sawtelle, Dorothy Hull, Virginia Droste and Louise Condon. They all attend the Lindenwood College Club meetings whenever possible, and enjoy them.

Miss Margaret Brainard, of Dickinson, N. Dak., who received a diploma in music (piano) at Lindenwood last commencement, after being here two preceding years, has sent a program of a fine recital which she gave April 28, at the State Teachers' College, which she says "went off very well indeed." Miss Brainard "misses Lindenwood very much, and is trying to get new Lindenwood students."

Mrs. E. H. Warner, of Fort Collins, Colo., whose daughter, Miss Jane Warner, was a student at Lindenwood last year, writes that she has happy memories and regards the Lindenwood year as "a great satisfaction," although now she is enrolled in another school, where she is vice-president of her class.

A letter from Mrs. Ralph E. Foster (Katherine Hoeker, 1923-25) brings her present address, 1045 Pleasant Street, Oak Park, Ill. She says she "enjoys the Bulletin and its news."

Offer of Awards

There is an offer afloat to present and former students, authenticated in Secretary Motley's office, that a generous financial honorarium (enough to buy several hats and maybe a dress or two) awaits the one who may bring in another to the benefits of Lindenwood in the coming year. Handpicked students always turn out to be admirable additions, and there's a long summer in which to act upon the suggestion.

Miss Lena Lewis, A. B. 1932, writes to Miss Hankins from Lancaster, Pa., of work which she is doing as Technician in the General Hospital at Lancaster. "I certainly was happy when I received the appointment," she says. "It is very interesting, being both routine and research."

Remembered in Art

Not often is a memorial so exactly suited to the one remembered as is the new oil painting by the gifted artist, Paula Fenske, in Lindenwood's Art Studio. This work of art, entitled "The Sentinel," which shows life on the Maine sea-coast, is placed in memory of Dr. Alice A. Linnemann, placed so that she may enjoy it, as well as everyone else, in the years that she remains at Lindenwood. The funds for this memorial consist of money given by the Lindenwood Alumnae Association to Dr. Linnemann in 1931, on the occasion of her thirtieth anniversary, with the request that she buy therewith something to put in her department. Because of her friendship for Miss Fenske and the latter's interest in Lindenwood, it was possible to obtain "The Sentinel" at a price much less than it would have received if placed on the market. Miss Fenske is renowned for her work, having studied in this country and in France. She is a member of the St. Louis Artists' Guild, of the Shikari Society, the St. Louis Art League, and the Independent Society of Artists of St. Louis. She received the Tom B. Barnett prize for landscape at the St. Louis Artists' Guild exhibition in 1924, and at a similar exhibition in 1925 she gained the Chamber of Commerce prize for a St. Louis subject, besides receiving honorable mention at the exhibitions of the St. Louis Artists' Guild in 1929 and 1932.

A tablet below the painting bears an inscription written by Dr. Roemer:

"The Sentinel," by Paula Fenske
Presented to the Art Department of Lindenwood College
In Loving Remembrance of the Efficient Service of
Dr. Alice A. Linnemann,
By the Alumnae Association, 1931.

Making Their Own Clothes

Lindenwood is turning out well-groomed girls, no less than studious and accomplished girls. The Style Show of several weeks ago, in the Home Economics department, was enjoyed and praised by many in and out of the college. The three shown are (from left to right) Madeline Hansen, Theresa Crispin and Ethel Gard Barry.

There were also exhibiting, in suits and dresses equally stunning the following: Jacqueline Ward, Martha Pearl, Ellen Jane Phillips, Margaret Perry, Dorothy Meyer, Myra Massieon, Alice Kube, Jane Hawkins, Mary Belle Grant, Mary Elliott, Virginia Ellis, Margaret Conger, Francile Clark, Mary Frances Butler, Virginia Blevans, Freda Belford, and Betty Bear.

Weddings

Mrs. Cora V. Taylor sends announcement of her daughter Marjorie's marriage, April 16, in Hot Springs, Ark., to Mr. B. Allen Morgan.

On April 12 another graduate of 1932, Miss Willa Dawes Waters, B. M. in Violin, was married, "Wednesday at Sunset," to Mr. Victor Henigar Ledbetter of Benton, Ark. Cards come from the bride's parents, Rev. and Mrs. Charles Albert Waters, enclosing an At Home announcement for Amity, Ark. Mrs. Ledbetter's charming recital numbers will never be forgotten at Lindenwood.

Lindenwood's Dr. Eleanor Tupper, who is to be married June 21 to Rev. George O. Bjerkoz, minister of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Bellaire, Long Island, will have two of the faculty, Dr. Beulah Ennis and Miss Marion Mitchell, as two of her bridesmaids. There will be two other bridesmaids from the east, also a matron of honor, the ceremony taking place in the Wesley Church at Worcester, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Clark Varner have sent cards announcing the marriage of their daughter Lalla Stinson (1926-28), on Friday, May 5, to Mr. John Robertson Clagett, at St. Joseph, Mo. At Home announcements after May 15 are for 2800 Independence boulevard, Kansas City, Mo.

* * * *

Mrs. Caddie B. Allbritain, who attended Lindenwood's Centennial, writes from Jefferson City, Mo., of seeing many Lindenwood girls at the Stephens-Otto wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Brian, of Mt. Carmel, Ill., have sent cards announcing the marriage of their daughter, Maurine, (1928-32, B. S. in Home Economics) to Mr. Wendell I. Vangilder, on December 25, 1932.

Invitations to the wedding of Miss Sara Norinne Stuck (1929-31) to Mr. Joe Clay Young, Jr., on Tuesday, May 23, were received in cards from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Charles Stuck, announcing the ceremony at 8 o'clock in the evening at the First Presbyterian Church of Jonesboro, Arkansas.

Cards from Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson Wisdom announce the marriage November 12, last, of their daughter, Helen Harvey (1924-26, A. A.) to Mr. Harvey Alfred Redman, at Kansas City, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. Redman are at home at Excelsior Springs, Mo.

One of the pleasant social events was a dinner which Dr. and Mrs. Roemer gave to the Student Council, in the College Tea Room, on a May evening. Besides several members of the administrative staff, all the students making up the Council were present: Isabelle Wood, Marietta Hansen, Margaret Love, Jane Bagnell, Melba Garrett, Theo Frances Hull, Marion Tobin, and Mary Margaret Bates. Each one received a gift of a handsome initialed bag in leather or white linen.

Freshmen Choosing Careers

Dr. Florence Schaper, with her distinctive aptitude for giving good advice to the student to aid in choosing a vocation, and her constant study of economic conditions through her Sociology department, was commissioned to meet the freshmen of Lindenwood, if they wanted to be met, in the last few days of the college year, with a view to planning work of subsequent years so as to fit in with the "useful life" of the particular sort which each one may have in view. It speaks well for the interest which these girls take in "doing their bit" in the world, that virtually every one of the 150 freshmen in the college took advantage of this opportunity, which was not in the least compulsory.

The purpose of these conferences being to "assist the freshman to discover for herself her particular interests and activities in life," Dr. Schaper found each freshman eager to evaluate the best methods for her own physical, intellectual and emotional development, following the line of careful educational planning which enables any young woman best to develop her abilities for her own satisfaction and for useful contributions to society.

Dr. Schaper found that the vocations that particularly interest Lindenwood freshmen may be divided into four classes: fine arts, health vocations, social vocations and business vocations. Under fine arts were included music, dancing, writing, dramatics, graphic and plastic arts. Under health came nursing, medicine, dentistry, dietetics, physical education, hospital laboratory technique, and industrial laboratory technique. The social vocations in favor were home-making, education, social work, law and religious work. Under business, such things were proposed as advertising, secretarial work, department store work and accounting.

Counsel was given along each of the varied lines, with the parting word from Dr. Schaper that "Lindenwood offers pathways to all these vocations and also a liberal education during four years of college life."

The International Shoe Company has greatly stimulated the old-time accomplishment of "essay-writing" by an offer which it made through Dr. Roemer for the best setting forth of "What a Woman Desires in a Pair of Shoes." The Lindenwood girls set to work, and five of them were rewarded with the finest pair of shoes to be found in the International Shoe factory, of their own selection. The five who won this honor and are now wearing these shoes valued at around $15 per pair are: Elizabeth McSpadden, Eleanor Hibbard, Betty Reed, Marietta Hansen and Alice Kube.

Honors came last month at the commencement exercises of the Lanckenau Hospital Training School for Nurses in Philadelphia, to Miss Marguerite Reiter (1928-30), a graduate, who was awarded the Lentz prize for "high grades in theoretical work, and outstanding general efficiency." She was one of a class of 30 in the Lanckenau training school. The award was a fine case of surgical instruments. Her father, Mr. Frederick A. Reiter, writes from Quakertown, Pa., "We are rather proud of both our girls!" as the other daughter, Miss Florence, is gaining honors in music.

New Wisconsin Club

A letter from Miss Mary Hart (1930-31), newly elected secretary of the Wisconsin Lindenwood Club, gives the following account of the forming of this club: "Our first meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Fitschen, on March 3. Mrs. Fitschen, Mrs. Ewell and I planned our second meeting for March 25, at the home of Mrs. Ewell. This second meeting brought better results and there were more in attendance; six of the twelve Madison girls were present. Most of the hour was spent in pleasant Lindenwood reminiscences.

"However, our second meeting was more definite in that we accomplished two objects: Mrs. J. A. Fitschen was unanimously elected our President, and a state-wide Lindenwood luncheon was scheduled for Saturday, May 13. And too, at this meeting, we planned the invitations and the publicity for this Spring Luncheon which is to be an annual affair. We have sent thirty-two invitations out to L. C. girls in Wisconsin and hope to have a fine attendance then."

The mails brought, a little earlier, an invitation to Dr. and Mrs. Roemer to be present at the Wisconsin Club meeting. This was unfortunately impossible.

The Poets' Guild has made it possible for Lindenwood students' poetry to be a part of the literary exhibit at the Century of Progress Exposition this summer in Chicago. Poems by the following undergraduates will be shown: Sarah Louise Greer, Margaret Jane Duvall, Elizabeth Combs, Julia Ferguson and Betty Hart.

Miss Eleanor Hill (1926-27), of Tulsa, Okla., received three first awards and one sweepstakes award for her exhibition of iris at the Tulsa Flower Show of early May. Best of all, she offered to bring some of her beautiful varieties to help make up the iris garden which is developing on Reservoir Hill, when she should come, the last of May, for a breath of the Commencement festivities.

Theta Xi chapter of Beta Pi Theta, national French honorary fraternity, has announced Erna Louise Karsten, of St. Charles, as winner of the scholarship contest for this year. This is a $75 scholarship for the Pennsylvania State College French Summer Session. She also receives the fraternity ring. Miss Karsten is a senior, and will be graduated with her class.

Miss Betty Birch, A. B. 1928, Lindenwood's one-time May Queen, playwright, actor and journalist, visited all her friends at the college over Sunday, May 21, with her mother, Mrs. Chester Birch (Lura Maud Welty) who received Lindenwood's diploma in 1892, and who was doubly welcome. Queen Betty, after experience in different departments of writing for the Toledo (Ohio) Blade and Times, has received a substantial promotion, even in these times, and is now Society Editor, which in a paper of the recognized rank of the Blade and Times gives her a good deal of prestige. But, said everyone, "She hasn't changed a bit." They were driving to Kansas City, Mo., for Betty's grandmother who will make her home with them.

Honors to St. Louis Club

When the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club enjoyed the hospitality of the college for its May meeting on Monday, May 22, the members were extremely interested in the handsome scrapbook, with white and gold trappings, which was handed around, showing press and publicity work for the club as prepared by Miss Adele Stine. This book, it was announced, had received first Honorable Award in a competition of the various clubs affiliated with the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs when the Federation met in St. Louis the first week in May. The blue ribbon testifying to this is now attached to the cover of this book which Miss Stine intends to continue if not "ad saecula saeculorum," at least for a considerable time in the future. It is illustrated and contains much of interest to every lover of Lindenwood.

About 60 members of the club came out to the college, besides several members of the Eighth District Federation, who had been invited by Mrs. Arthur Krueger, president of the St. Louis Lindenwood Club. Every one regretted the absence of Mrs. Krueger, who is ill, but her place was well filled by Mrs. J. H. Dickerson, first vice-president.

A bountiful luncheon, with Dr. and Mrs. Roemer as hosts, was the outstanding event of the day. The club inspected the new Music Hall and other improvements, under the guidance of the seniors, who were just numerous enough to furnish guides almost literally one by one.

At the business meeting which came in the afternoon the main proceeding was the giving of reports on the State Federation meeting, in which the Lindenwood Club took a conspicuous part. At this meeting Miss Adele Stine was courtesy chairman of press and publicity, taking the place of Mrs. P. Casper Harvey, State Chairman of this work. She told of the delightful press breakfast the morning of May 3, attended by the club editors of the various St. Louis newspapers, who put on a skit written by Miss Edna Warren, of the Globe-Democrat. Miss Stine was also time-keeper for the convention.

Mrs. Krueger as Eighth District Chairman of Education had charge of the luncheon arrangements for the State education luncheon. A basket of flowers was presented to her by the Lindenwood Club, which she passed on to Mrs. Luella St. Clair Moss, State Chairman of Education.

At the American Homes luncheon on May 5, at the Castilla, Lindenwood was proud of the fact that its own Mrs. Walter W. Seymour (1889-91), of Chicago, took a leading part as chairman of the American Homes department of the General Federation. Mrs. W. K. Roth presented her with a corsage of gardenias in the name of the Lindenwood Club of St. Louis. Among the guests were Mrs. Roemer and Dr. Linemann of the college.

Mrs. W. K. Roth and Miss Janet Stine were members of the automobile committee of the convention. Mrs. O. K. Sanders was on the flower committee, and Mrs. J. G. Vogt on the information committee.

The Lindenwood College Choir, under Miss Gieselman, sang several selections, by invitation, on May 5, when the General Federation President spoke.

Chicago Invites Everyone

In an account of the April meeting of the Chicago Lindenwood College Club comes a warm invitation for visitors, as follows:

"The Club wants to extend a special invitation through the Bulletin, to any present or former Lindenwood girls, who are in Chicago this year attending the World's Fair, to visit our Club. The meetings are held the second Friday of each month, and we are planning our May, June and July meetings especially for guests. Anyone who is in Chicago during these months will please notify Mrs. Byron Downing (Mary Rudy), Corresponding Secretary. We hope to have Dr. and Mrs. Roemer, at any time they find convenient, for our annual luncheon. But we are sending them a special invitation."

The Chicago Club enjoyed meeting at the Georgian Hotel in Evanston on April 14, with Mrs. Huff and Mrs. Joice serving as hostesses. A delightful meeting was arranged, with Mrs. Pulsifer giving a most interesting talk on the "Century of Progress" exposition.

Mrs. Roemer has also received letters from Mrs. Carey Culbertson, president of the Woman's University Club of Chicago, inviting any and all of the Lindenwood students and faculty to stop between-times, when visiting the Exposition, at the University Club headquarters which are within a block of Marshall Field. Mrs. Culbertson says this will be "an ideal place to meet friends, to entertain them at luncheon, dinner or cards, or to rest a bit between the strenuous sight-seeing of the day and the evening entertainment."

Miss Mary Sue Wisdom, A. B. 1930, who has been teaching this year, was a delightful week-end visitor.

Births

"Here's the Good News in a Nutshell" says the gold-tipped card of young Burton Kready Werner, who arrived April 24, weighing 8 pounds, 9 ounces, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Werner (Helen Kready, 1921-25, A. B.) of St. Louis. His mother, it will be remembered, had many honors while at Lindenwood.

In silhouette on her announcement cards comes a "pragmatic" portrait of little Susan Catherine, whose advent on April 11 is proclaimed by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rogers (Catherine Edwards, 1925-26), of Milwaukee, Wis.

From Wichita, Kansas, comes announcement of the advent of little Nancy Lew Cohen, a probable new Lindenwood girl, on April 19, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Cohen (Dorothy Solomon, 1925-27).

With the new address of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Blackett at 1817 Cambridge Road, Ann Arbor, Mich. (Ruth Rodda, 1923-26) comes the announcement of the arrival of their little son, Walter Ben, on April 6. Her mother, Mrs. Ben F. Rodda, writes from her home in Arma, Kansas.

Leon Jackson Coker, Jr., sends a small card of his own, attached by blue ribbons to that of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Coker (Lorraine Lyster, 1924-27, B. S.), of Naples, Texas. He arrived in this world, May 12.
