New Employees

A hearty welcome to Dean Russell, maintenance, Tim Wilson, director of maintenance work & learn, and Holly Paschal, undergraduate admissions counselor.

Registration/Open House

Registration for Spring Semester, Winter Quarter and Spring Trimester is going on now. The first Open House/Registration Day for new students is scheduled for Friday, November 18.

Photography Panelist

Hans Levi, associate professor of photography, was a featured presenter at the Society for Photographic Education Midwest Regional Conference in October. He was on a panel of eight professors from all over the country, each with a different approach to teaching photography. The conference was held in St. Louis.

Adjunct Achievements

Jan Garden Castro, adjunct professor of humanities in LCIE, has been a featured contributor to two national magazines. Her essay "Mad Ireland Hurts Her Too," an historical analysis of Eavan Boland's poetry book In A Time of Violence, appeared in the June 6, 1994 issue of The Nation. Castro's interview with novelist Darryl Pinckney, award-winning author of High Cotton, appears in the November/December issues of American Poetry Review. Castro's name was listed on the front cover of both magazines. Her photo was taken by Lindenwood graduate Adelia Parker-Castro. Jan Castro also gave two art history lectures at UMSL in September.

Georgia On Their Minds

Congratulations to the Lady Lions soccer team for earning a berth to the 11th Annual NAIA National Women's Soccer Championship in Berry, Georgia. The women have posted eight straight winning seasons. They finished this season with a 19-2-1 mark and were ranked seventh in the national standings. Good luck to the women, and to coaches Tim Champion and John Guffey!

Quote of the Month...

"I try to take one day at a time, but sometimes several days attack me at once."

--Ashleigh Brilliant
