

Gala Harvest Ball To Launch Formal Social Season On Lindenwood Campus Saturday

Freshmen Nominate 13 Candidates For Harvest Queen

The Freshman class surprised the student body last week by announcing they would this year sponsor a Harvest Queen instead of the traditional Halloween Queen, whom we remember last year was Carol Clayton. The new Harvest Queen will reign with her court at the Harvest Ball next Saturday evening, Oct. 12, in Butler Gymnasium.

Among the candidates nominated by the Freshmen Tuesday night were: Mary Virginia Gard, Independence, Mo.; Mary Lou Brite, Tulsa, Okla.; Barbara Lou Bender, Des Moines, Ia.; Elizabeth Bates, Omaha, Neb.; Joan Baker, Blue Springs, Mo.; Barbara Lehman, Peoria, Ill.; Patricia Babcock, Clayton, Mo.; Joan Hierholzer, San Antonio, Tex.; Nancy Fanshler, Lake Bluff, Ill.; Joyce Nelson, Mass Point, Miss.; Harriet Deal, Aurora, Ill.; Sally McGehee, Chicago Heights, Ill.; Martha McCarstin, Fort Worth, Tex. These girls were voted on by the student body at Convocations Thursday, although the identity of the Queen will be kept secret until her coronation at the ball.

This occasion should attract every member of the school as none of us will be without dates. This isn't leap year but the Freshmen, nevertheless, are making a "turn-about," and guaranteeing no date will be bored—at least he shouldn't be, with a female stag line at his beck and call. That's right—the Harvest Ball is a "girls take boys" affair with all the girls doing the honors—such as fetching corsages, escorting the men to the ball, and giving them a grand rush. All adding up to a gala evening for any egotistical male!

Mother: "Where do bad little girls go?"

Daughter: "Most everywhere."

Izzy: "What's a drizzle?"

Ozzy: "Two drips going steady."

Thirty-two States, Hawaai and Mexico Are Represented On Campus This Year

Thirty-two states, Hawaii and Mexico are represented in Lindenwood's capacity enrollment this fall. Included in the student body as the college begins its 120th year are girls from both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and from as far north as Minnesota and as deep in the South as Florida.

A few of our students this year are: Miriam Reilley, who was a Freshman last year, is back from Hidalgo, Mexico; Gaelic Ching is with us from Honolulu; and from Oloa, Hawaii, is Anne Margaret Watt.

Beverly Nissley is from Litchfield, Ariz., Margaret Duvant, Sarasota, Fla., and Mary Lois Walsmith, from Delray Beach, Fla. Our New York girls include Eleanor Louise Walton,

Student President

Miss Elizabeth Louise McGraw, who is president of Lindenwood's Student Government Association. She is a Senior and her home is in Sturgis, Ky.

French Classes Visit St. Louis Landmarks

The new French students accompanied by Miss Wurster visited the Old Cathedral, the Rock House, and the museum in the Old Courthouse in St. Louis on September 28. The purpose of the trip was to give the students a better knowledge of the remaining French landmarks which St. Louis has to offer.

Surprise! Lindenwood To Have Thanksgiving Vacation This Year

Lindenwood students will go home for Thanksgiving vacation this year for the first time since the beginning of the war. Vacation will begin November 27, after classes, and will end on Monday morning, December 2, at 11 o'clock. Christmas vacation will begin December 17, after classes, and last until 11 a. m. on January 3.

of Scarsdale, and Joyce L. Garrison, of Westfield. Florence Anne Geist represents Portland, Ore. From Orangeburg, S. C., we have Nancy Ganaway.

Enrollment by states shows that again Missouri is first on the list with 104 girls. Next in order are: Illinois, 80; Iowa, 42; Arkansas, 37; Texas, 30; Oklahoma, 29; Kentucky, 22; Indiana, 20; Kansas, 14; Nebraska, 14; Michigan, 10; Tennessee, 10; Ohio, 8; Colorado, 5; Wyoming, 3; North Dakota, 3; Minnesota, 3; Mississippi, 2; Montana, 2; New Mexico, 2; New York, 2; Wisconsin, 2; Virginia, 2; South Carolina, 2; Florida, 2; Hawaii, 2; Louisiana, 1; Washington, 1; West Virginia, 1; Oregon, 1; Mexico, 1; Georgia, 1; Arizona, 1.

120th Anniversary Of Lindenwood Founding To Be Observed Oct. 26

Lindenwood will commemorate the 120th year of its founding on October 26. The annual Founders' Day Convocation will be held at 10 a. m. in Roemer Auditorium but as yet the name of the speaker has not been announced.

Continuing a tradition of former years, the graves of the founders, Major and Mrs. Sibley will be decorated on the campus by the students.

Lindenwood, the oldest college for women west of the Mississippi River, was founded by Major and Mrs. George C. Sibley. Lindenwood's purpose in the educational world is to train young women for a useful life, offering them a distinctive training for leadership in every phase of a woman's world.

Thirteen New Members Are Added To College Faculty This Year

Thirteen new members have been added to the faculty at Lindenwood this year. Mrs. Marguerite Ahrens, whose home is here in St. Charles, and Mrs. Sophie Kaufman from St. Louis are teaching in the Home Economics Department.

Miss Hilda Kelly, who taught in a girls' school in New Jersey before coming here, is in the History Department.

Walter Grundhauser teaches in the Biological Science Department. Last year he taught in St. Louis. Before this he spent two years doing research work in Chicago.

Miss Martha Boyer, who was formerly with the Board of Education in St. Louis, and Miss Glo Rose Mitchell, who taught English and Speech in Havana Community High School in Illinois, are teaching in the Speech Department.

Dr. William Parkinson of the Bible Department was recently discharged from the Navy, in which he served as a chaplain. Miss Dorothy Ross of the Physical Education Department taught at Wellston High School in St. Louis.

Miss Zilpha Colee, who is with the English Department, last taught in the Junior College at Brainerd, Minn. Mrs. Georgine Hendricks, last taught in Quincy, Ill., she is in the Art Department.

The following persons are associated with the Music Department: Miss Virginia Winham, who taught in Bethel Women's College last year; Miss Allegra Seingen from Mason City, Iowa; Miss Alice Beardsley, who taught at Bridgewater College, in Bridgewater, Va.; Mr. Milton Rehg, who has taught in Ohio and Indiana recently.

Quonset Huts Being Built; Relieve Housing Shortage

Due to the present housing condition Lindenwood has constructed two quonset huts next to Roemer Hall to serve as temporary homes for Mr. and Mrs. Milton Rehg and Dr. and Mrs. William Parkinson.

Although the huts are small, they are compact and have two bedrooms, a bath, a kitchen-dinette, and a living room. They will remain a part of the campus until the end of the housing shortage.

The construction of the huts is the familiar one of a rectangular floor plan with a semicircular corrugated metal roof.

The residents of the northeast side of Butler Hall watched the proceedings with interest, but were happy that the pounding ceased at nightfall.

Lindenwood Students Work As Well As Play During Summer Vacation

Vacationing, summer school, visiting, and playing around, occupied the attention of Lindenwood girls during summer vacation. The girls who have had jobs are definitely the ones who have something to talk about when they return to the campus. Here is what some Lindenwood girls did last summer:

Keltah Long worked in the Veterans Hospital in Louisville, Ky., as a medical technician.

Martha Jane Patterson worked as a supervisor in the telephone office in Lebanon, Ind., training new operators.

Mary Morriss worked as a music and dramatic instructor in Lima, Ohio, at a Girl Scout camp.

Fanny Straus worked as a camp counselor in Naples, Me.

Alyce Cross worked on the assembly line manufacturing pottery in Scio, Ohio.

Dorothy Fink worked as a secretary in Pine Bluff, Ark., at Grant's Variety Store.

Carmen Chandler worked as a dental assistant in Ft. Collins, Colo.

Nancy Fanshler worked at the Marshall Field Department Store in Lake Forest, Ill.

Deane Thomason was the private secretary for the Moyer Brothers Construction Company at Camp Breckenridge, Ky.

Virginia Franks Is New President Of Sophomore Class

Betty Hunter, of Kansas City, Mo., was elected president of the Senior class on September 23. Betty is a Sibley girl and active in many campus organizations. She presides as president of the Missouri State Sociology Society on Lindenwood campus, and is a member of International Relations Club, Future Teachers of America, League of Women Voters, and choir. Much of her time has been given generously as Student Counselor and to U. S. O. shows given by the Lindenwood group.

Other Senior officers are: Erle Bass, vice-president; Betty Hardy, secretary; Jo Ann Liebermann, treasurer; and Mary Ruth Platt is the Senior Student Council Representative. There will be no faculty sponsor for the class this year.

The Freshman class officers will not be chosen until the latter part of the first semester. Their faculty sponsor is Miss Jane Marker.

Louise McGraw, of Williamstown, Ky., who was elected last spring, is the president of the Student Council. Other officers of this organization are: Erle Dean Bass, vice-president, and Janet Brown, secretary.

Janie Horton was on the college board at Harzfeld's in Kansas City, Mo.

Helen Hartzog worked for an X-ray, skin, and cancer specialist, developing X-rays and doing clerical work in St. Louis.

Joyce Creamer worked as a receptionist and bookkeeper for her father's machine and supply company in Durant, Okla.

Barbara Troth was on the college board at A. Harris Company in Dallas, Tex.

Shirley Griffiths worked as a dental assistant in Kansas City, Mo.

Janet Brown worked at the Veterans Administration at Washington University in St. Louis.

Margy Crawford worked in a needle-craft shop teaching customers to knit in Rolla, Mo.

Beverly Bacon worked on the college board at Marshall Field Department Store in Chicago.

Lois Schatzan worked on the college board at Famous-Barr Department Store in St. Louis.

Carol Clayton worked on the college board at Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Department Store in St. Louis.

We Make Our Bow

The new staff of the "Linden Bark" proudly presents its first edition for the 1946-47 school year. Realizing the excellent quality of the work of the staffs before us, we shall sincerely endeavor to maintain their high standards of achievement.

"Gracie Gremlin," "Hall of Fame," "Linden Trees Are Whispering," "Molly Freshman" and "Bark Barometer," popular features of former years, will again appear in "The Bark." We hope to add several different features this year. If anyone with suggestions for new features, or improvements for the Bark will drop a note in Box 420, it will be brought to the immediate attention of the staff.

The publication of the "Linden Bark" is made possible by our advertisers. Remember them when you are shopping in St. Charles.

Which Path To Peace?

What do the present day students know about the Wallace vs. Byrnes situation that erupted on September 17, when Mr. Wallace in his Madison Square Garden speech publicly denounced Secretary of State Byrnes' "get-tough" with Russia policy.

Three questions were asked by reporters of the Linden Bark to a cross-section of students last week. The first question was: "Do you believe we should give Russia the secret of the atomic bomb?" Ninety-six per cent said "No."

Mr. Wallace unlike Mr. Byrnes, believes in letting Russia hold its own reins. He dislikes opposition to military defense and therefore believes it is safer for us to reduce our armaments as well as Germany's.

The second question asked was: "Which policy is more likely to lead to peace with Russia?" Again the majority of the girls agreed with Mr. Byrnes.

When London and Paris heard of Mr. Wallace's resignation they were greatly relieved, but the Russian radio declared: "Wallace was a progressive fighting against Anglo-Saxon world domination." Mr. Byrnes' policy seems to hold better with England and France, but doesn't Russia seem more friendly to us through Wallace's policy?

The last question asked was: "Do you believe Wallace is justified in being soft with Russia?" This question brought some compensation for the previous two answers, for the majority was "yes."

These questions, perhaps worded differently, have been spreading over the country. People everywhere are concerned, but are we? Remember ours is the generation which must live in the kind of a world that is being fashioned now.

Founders Day 1946

In 1827 Lindenwood College was founded. Major and Mrs. George C. Sibley founded it with the purpose of giving young women training, not only of an academic stature, but with the purpose of helping them to build a background which rests upon fine principles, strong convictions, high ideals, and true culture.

As we approach the 120th Founders' Day, we find ourselves wondering about the many girls who have gone before us; what they were like, and what they did. We wonder if they too, succeeded in getting the drumstick off the ebony turkey on Thanksgiving, or if they ever had the experience of living above the Head Resident for a whole year.

On Founders Day we will think of Major and Mrs. Sibley and let them remind us to carry on the fine tradition which they gave us.

"Within the portals of thy door,
Ideals were made and wills made strong.
Thy honored rule was ever good,
O Lindenwood, O Lindenwood."

It Is Fall Again

There are crisp smells of autumn; the leaves are turning and summer is waning as the Lindenwood girls return to a campus adorned in Mother Nature's most beautiful costume.

In the chilly gray dawn the skies are hidden by fall mist, and each evening the sun sinks as a huge ball of fire. This is ideal weather and setting for not only the "White Apron Jamboree," Scavenger Hunt, and Street Supper held during orientation week; but also for the other outdoor activity that will come in the near future.

Some fun-times to look forward to will be the Halloween bonfire, climaxed at the stroke of midnight, by the appearance of Mrs. Sibley's frail, thin ghost floating up from the cemetery to play familiar old hymns on the chapel organ. Too, Founders' Day is close at hand; the day when we pay tribute to the men and women who dedicated their lives toward making Lindenwood what it is today. And soon the Freshman class will be busy selecting some pretty maid to preside as queen over their annual Harvest ball.

This season of the year is one of happy lively times. Because of its nature and mood it has often been compared to a gypsy, bright and flaming in color; wild, joyous, and reckless in temperament; and still, at times, sad and lonely.

GRACIE GREMLIN

Hi people! And a warm hello to the new students. I'm sure this is going to be a happy and memorable year. No one looks as if the road-map of the future bewilders her, or that any horizon seems too difficult to reach. You will be seeing me throughout the year, and even if I'm cross sometimes, remember that I love you. See you in two weeks!

FROM THE OFFICE OF THE DEAN

A cordial greeting is extended to the student body of 1946-47. The Freshmen, particularly, are to be congratulated on the way they have adjusted themselves to college life. My best wishes for a most happy year.

ALICE E. GIPSON

A Welcome From Mr. Motley

"We have gathered under the shadows of the Lindens for another college year at Lindenwood. As you walk about the campus you think of the many generations of Lindenwood women who have gone before you.

"These are trying days following a great war, but we are happy the guns are silenced and we no longer need fear dreadful notices about relatives and dear ones. The officers of the College will be glad to help you; little problems that seem big to you will soon be solved.

"We have a wonderful campus and throughout the years wonderful women have come to Lindenwood. As the years come and go we know memories will linger of gracious college days. We hope that you will enjoy the year, have good health and lots of enthusiasm, and that you will put forth your very best efforts."

—GUY C. MOTLEY
Assistant to the President

Dr. E. J. Canty Returns To The Health Center

Dr. Canty is back! The former college physician has returned to Lindenwood after seeing duty with the U. S. Navy for two and one-half years in the South Pacific area. Many interesting things happened to Dr. Canty during his term of duty. The one tale in particular that he mentioned was having the ship shot out from under him at Lingayen Gulf while performing an emergency appendectomy.

After being discharged from the Navy, Dr. Canty entered medical school for a "Refresher Course."

The college is very happy to have Dr. Canty back at the Health Center—together with the two nurses, Mrs. Agretha Hall and Miss Ernestine Hageman.

ALL BARK AND NO BITE

by Janet Brown

Mrs. Sibley rose from her comfortable grave Wednesday, Sept. 11, to welcome the upperclassmen to her cold arms. The next day she danced with delight as the class of '50 entered the campus, for never, never has she seen such a wonderful bunch of Freshmen. According to the faculty, they are the most poised and mature group we have ever had. She loved the way they have of turning out for all the parties and sings! Yes, this would be a good year—the Seniors are off to a flying start, and the Juniors aren't far behind. Mrs. Sibley loves Lindenwood; it is one of the few campuses where ghosts are well received.

As you know, Mrs. Sibley is the long-dead wife of the founder of Lindenwood. For years now her spirit has been manifested in the sudden, unaccountable silences in the dining room. Her only public appearance is made each year when, on Halloween, at the stroke of 12, she floats from her home in the ancestral graveyard to Sibley Chapel, where she plays the organ.

Mrs. Sibley has become lonely, though; so this year she has invited the Bark staff to tea every Wednesday at 2 a. m. We had a pleasant time, the tea table was laid out on the headstone, and tea proved to be a pleasant combination of formaldehyde and dishwater—did she swipe it from the dining room? Mrs. Sibley was our only hostess, the residents of the other graves were long ago intimidated by the "new generation."

After her opening remarks about the Freshmen, Mrs. Sibley went on to complain about her two ancient rivals, Mattie Evelyn and Florella Sue, those two obstreperous shades who live on fourth Butler. They are the ghosts of two Lindenwood girls who were expelled for speaking to a man unchaperoned. After their deaths of broken hearts—the men got away—they returned to haunt Lindenwood in general and Butler in particular. Their favorite occupation, next to annoying Mrs. Sibley, is riding horseback—astride!—down Butler stairs every morning at 7:30. Both Mrs. Sibley and the Butler ghosts unite in their dislike of Ed, the night watchman. It seems he cramps their style—hiding behind every tree and under every bench. Mrs. Sibley hopes that her loneliness will be alleviated this year, though; she is anxious to meet Mr. Clayton's pet—Mr. Meganphropus—the pre-Pithecanthropus erectus cave man. She has begun a correspondence with him, via the AH—the Associated Haunters—the lovelorn column of the ghost newspapers. From her confidences on her latest Romeo, Mrs. Sibley switched back to a discussion of campus affairs.

She really enjoyed the talk Dr. Clarke gave at opening vespers. And doesn't he have the cutest way of saying "Well, gurrlls"?

Who will we have for our next president? She hopes it is someone who can speak as well as Dr. Clarke. So many exciting things have happened on campus these first few weeks that Mrs. Sibley simply could not talk fast enough. Did we know that the Bell Telephone had established a wireless telephone station on top of the water tower by the greenhouse? Soon St. Charles citizens will be able to dial the radio to a certain station and phone home, without leaving their cars. And had we seen the Biology students studying the trees on campus? There is certainly no better place to study trees, for Lindenwood has the mostest and the prettiest collection of trees in the country.

The students certainly were thrilled about the pond trips, too. They wouldn't have enjoyed it as much if they could see the collection of insects she had around her grave every night. But it did look like fun, dipping in the nets and exploring the mud for tiny animals. The French class has been doing its share of tripping too; last week the members examined the St. Louis cathedrals thoroughly. It seems as if every class starts off with a bang.

She, like most of us, is looking forward to the presentation of the Harvest Queen at the Harvest Ball. At last the queen will really be presented properly, with an orchestra and dancing. With a sigh of pleasure at the prospect, Mrs. Sibley gathered her sheet around her and bid us goodbye.

Bark Barometer of Campus Opinion Lindenwood Students Overwhelmingly Against Sharing Atomic Secret With Russia; Majority Favor Firm Foreign Policy

Secretary of Commerce Wallace's resignation has brought before the American public, more urgently than ever before, the problem of living at peace with Russia.

This problem of whether or not we should share the atomic bomb with our ally, Russia, has been a pressing question since the war's end, and is constantly being discussed on college campuses. Our campus is no exception, and with this in mind, the Bark Barometer has taken a cross-section poll of the Lindenwood College faculty and students, concerning our future policy with Russia.

The result of this poll shows that 94 per cent of the students believe we must not divulge the atomic bomb secret to Russia, while 6 per cent are of the conviction that Russia should be given the atom bomb formula.

When confronted with whether or not they believe in a friendly policy with Russia, 64 per cent of the girls asked, answered affirmatively and 36 per cent answered negatively.

The last question asked during the poll was, "Which policy is more likely to lead to a peaceful settlement with Russia, Byrnes' 'tough policy' or Wallace's appeasement policy?" The returns from the poll indicate that about 59 per cent of the students believe in Byrnes' policy, and about 41 per cent held the opinion that Wallace's appeasement policy is the answer to lasting peace with Russia.

Jackie Foreman has prospects of becoming the Longfellow of her day. This hidden talent was brought to light by the plumber. (Only the inhabitants of Ayres Hall will appreciate this amazing fact.)

THE CLUB CORNER

The following officers were elected at a recent meeting of the International Relations Club: Ann Nichols, president; Sue Perry, vice-president; Lois Schotzmann, secretary; Lucette Stumberg, treasurer. Everyone is welcome to join this club.

Kappi Pi, the national honorary art fraternity on campus, had its formal initiation of new members October 23, 1946, in the Memorial Arts Building. Officers for the new year are as follows: Marilyn Magnum, president; Jane Faust, vice-president; Marie Koch, secretary, and Doris Fay, treasurer. The social chairman is Mary Ellen Priest and Miss Watts is their sponsor. They are looking forward to a successful year.

Home Economics majors are invited to join the Home Economics Club. The officers were elected at a recent meeting with these results: Louise Ritter, president; Ann Nichols, vice-president; Marilyn Merx, secretary, and Marie Steiert, treasurer.

Sigma Tau Delta, the national honorary English fraternity on campus, elected as their officers for this year Margaret McKinney, president; Coy Payne, vice-president; Mary Swilley, secretary, and Keltah Long, treasurer.

Alpha Sigma Tau, the highest scholastic honor Lindenwood College confers upon students in the College of Arts and Sciences, has elected Peggy Kendall president; Marilyn Pendarvis, vice-president, and Esther Parker secretary-treasurer.

This year's Poetry Society elected Jane Morrissey president; Jackie Foreman, vice-president; Mary Neubert, secretary, and Jane Horton, treasurer.

The dramatic club, Alpha Psi Omega, held their election recently with Barbara Henke, president, and Marilyn Magnum, secretary-treasurer. Miss Watts is their sponsor.

In a recent meeting of the Triangle Club Jackie Foreman was elected president; Elenor Hedrick, vice-president; Jodie Shroeder, secretary, and Arminta Harness, treasurer.

The Iowa Club unanimously elected Julie Paul as their president for this year. Eloise Macy was elected secretary-treasurer. The Iowa girls plan to sing Christmas carols again this year for the patients in the city hospital.

At the Tennessee-Kentucky club meeting Bonnie Lumpkins was elected president; Jo Ann O'Flynn, vice-president; Jodie Schroeder, secretary-treasurer, and their sponsor is Marilyn -Magnum.

The German club, Der Deutsche Verein, has elected officers for the year 1946-1947. Jean Heye, president; Barbara Wenner, vice-president; Mary Trimble, secretary; Genevieve Elliott, treasurer, and Joyce Heldt, program and publicity chairman. At the last meeting the members made plans for a Christmas party, and also made plans for the members and their friends to attend the concerts in St. Louis. Dr. Sigmund Betz has promised to talk to them about his experience with prisoners of war.

Milton Rehg Directs 60 Voices In New Choir

The Lindenwood College Choir has been organized this year under the guidance of Director Milton Rehg.

The organization, consisting of 60 voices, sings on Sunday evenings at vesper services. In addition, the choir will soon begin preparing a Christmas concert.

Eight O'Clock Classes Replace Reveille For Dr. Sigmund Betz

After four years of army life, Dr. Sigmund E. Betz has returned to the Lindenwood campus. His 8 o'clock English class now serves as an eye opener, instead of the Army's customary reveille.

One of Dr. Betz's greatest tasks was the re-educating of German war prisoners.

"All students are primarily alike," he laughed, "even German war prisoners and Lindenwood college women."

Performing the duties of the Chief of the Review Branch of the Special Projects Division, Dr. Betz supervised the censorship of all books and reading matter circulated to the German prisoners. He also authorized the publication of educational materials. For this, Dr. Betz was awarded the Army Commendation ribbon.

Stationed at Enid, Okla., Dr. Betz was the Director of Orientation. There he was responsible for our own soldier's education.

"Lindenwood students have a more disciplined attitude than my former army students," remarked Dr. Betz,

Drs. Bernard Begin Work On New Publications

Dr. Jessie S. Bernard has begun her book, "American Community Behavior," this summer. Her other work includes assistance in the Missouri Welfare Association on relationship between the size of relief grant and tuberculosis.

A paper written by Mrs. Anna Recker and Virginia Moerschel who are in her research class was published in the Missouri Welfare Association bulletin. To keep up the tradition of the course, Dr. Bernard is proud to say that one paper from her class is published each year.

The translation of Dr. L. L. Bernard's book, "Social Psychology," into Spanish has just been published in Mexico. Reviews have come in from Buenos Aires, Brazil, and other regions, which ascertain that this book has a large circulation throughout Latin America.

Dr. Bernard is also writing a series of about 30 articles for "Nelson's Encyclopedia" in the new American edition. This encyclopedia has been an English publication up to this American edition which will feature the latest developments of science and humanities.

Miss Bonnie Jean Lumpkins is typing the shorter text in Sociology which he is now preparing.

Faculty Reception Opens Campus Social Season

The annual Lindenwood College faculty reception was given Sunday evening, Sept. 21, in the Memorial Arts Building. The reception, which took place at 7:30 o'clock, immediately followed Lindenwood's opening convocation.

Dr. James W. Clarke of the Second Presbyterian Church in St. Louis, was the guest speaker. Dr. Clarke, Mr. Motley, Dean Gipson, Dr. Schaper, the faculty, and the directors received the students informally in the Memorial Arts parlors. Punch and cookies were served.

Music for the reception was provided by a group from the Instrumental Association. Performing in the Ensemble were:

Elizabeth Bates	Piano
Katherine Williams	Tenor Saxophone
Patricia Babcock	'Cello
Emily Heine	Clarinet
Irma McCormac	Flute
Jo Ann O'Flynn	Cornet
Betsy Peaveyhouse	Oboe
Mary Jo Sweeney	Violin
Peggy Kendall	Violin
Pat Turtle	Trombone
Patricia Milroy	Alto Saxophone

"amazing as it may seem."

First stationed at Coffeyville, Kan., he was a weather forecaster. During his leisure time there, he wrote a history of Coffeyville.

Dr. Betz is a favorite with the faculty and students alike. He has served on the Lindenwood faculty since 1935, until his military leave of absence in 1942.

"I am happy to be back," said Dr. Betz, "college life is just the same, with a few minor changes of course, no meat."

Linden Bark Again Wins First Class Rating

The Linden Bark received a First Class rating in the annual contest for college newspapers for the collegiate year 1945-46. This is the second consecutive time the Bark has been awarded this honor. The contest is sponsored by the Associated Collegiate Press, an organization of university and college newspapers throughout the country.

New Faculty Member Does Research In Effect Of Atom Bomb

This year Lindenwood's faculty boasts of an eminent biologist and physicist, J. Walter Grundhauser. After four years of graduate work at the University of Chicago and the St. Louis University, Mr. Grundhauser has joined the faculty to teach General Biology.

A member of the metallurgical laboratory at the University of Chicago, Mr. Grundhauser examined the biological effects of radiation from the atom bomb. The purpose of this research was to examine the health conditions of the personnel working on the atom experiments.

Mr. Grundhauser carried on further investigations with the treatment of leukemia using plutonium, one of the newest elements of the atom bomb. This treatment was temporary, however, and the absolute dosage was never discovered.

Mr. Grundhauser is continuing his graduate work at St. Louis University, studying phosphorous metabolism using radioactive phosphorous.

C. C. Clayton To Speak At Illinois Press Meet

C. C. Clayton, instructor of Journalism at Lindenwood, will be the principal speaker at the annual convention of the Illinois Collegiate Press Association on October 12, at Illinois Wesleyan University, in Bloomington. Mr. Clayton has chosen for his topic, "The Truth Is A Weapon."

OF ALL THINGS

He was the frail type; she was sweet and receptive—but still realistic.

"When I crush you in my arms like this," he whispered, "what are you thinking of?"

Without hesitation she replied: "The manpower shortage!"

The L. C. faculty members claim the older generation thought nothing of getting up at 5 each morning. For that matter, the younger generation doesn't think so much of it either.

The Seebring (Ala.) News tells how the dean of women at a large co-educational college severely criticized the moral laxity of the students, announcing to the student body on Wednesday, "The president and I have decided to stop necking on the campus."

THE LINDEN LEAVES ARE WHISPERING

By Catherine Jones

How in the world do these Freshmen get dates with St. Charles boys so fast? How about giving the upper-classmen lessons on "How to Get Dates With St. Charles Boys.?"

Mary Schwartz has just 80 days in which to decide whether she wants a Sigma Alpha Epsilon pin.

Joy Squeers and Clyde Frischel must have had a grand time.....picking out the ring. From what we hear, Nan Amis has quite a case on a certain Joe Barmueller.....He's even gone so far as to place a ring upon her finger, so everyone knows the feeling is quite mutual.

Jo Griebeling still has her thoughts centered on "that boy back home." That's really the best motto.

Pat Patterson, Shirlee Wagner, and Lucette Stumberg, are dating fellows from St. Louis, University of Missouri, Washington University. They say they're dated up Friday and Saturday to come.

Carolyn Coons is dating the Republican candidate for County Clerk.

Gale Leeb, a Freshman, is dating Johnny pretty often. Again..... Freshmen, how DO you do it?

Jan Brown has a perfectly darlin' man who comes to see her quite often. OHHHHHH!

Friday the thirteenth began with a bang for Dorry Thomas. Gentleman Jim's picture crashed to the floor, leaving him with a split personality, and a broken nose.

Linden Leaves Staff Gets Early Start On Next Year's Annual

Work on the 1947 Linden Leaves has begun under the direction of Helen Horvath, the new editor-in-chief.

Janet Brown will fill the position of literary editor, Virginia Beazley is the advertising manager, Margaret Marshall is the business manager, Margaret Kinkade serves as art editor, and Marian Pendarvis as organization editor. Appointments for the rest of the staff have not been completed.

Carlos photographers have been engaged to supply the pictures for the annual. Appointments are being made for group and individual pictures.

Miss Horvath is the second day-student in two consecutive years to be chosen as editor of the Linden Leaves.

Lindenwood Freshman: "You're an expert at bridge. How would you have played that last hand of mine?"

Lindenwood Junior: "Under an assumed name."

Dr. Clarke Urges Students To Hold True To Ideals

Three truths are essential to success and happiness, the Rev. Dr. James W. Clarke told the Lindenwood students at the opening vesper convocation on September 22. He is pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in St. Louis and is president of Lindenwood's Board of Directors.

Dr. Alice Gipson, Dean of the college, presided. Dr. Parkinson, professor of Bible and philosophy, read the scripture and introduced the guest speaker for the evening.

"This will be the greatest year thus far in Lindenwood's history," Dr. Clarke said.

"The Hands on the Hilt" was the subject of Dr. Clarke's address. Explaining how some great men of the Bible achieved success, drawing fully on their own resources, he urged that students not limit their own abilities.

The first truth, a method to acquire success and happiness, is one's attitude toward fellow students, faculty, and various curricular activities. This point was stressed by Dr. Clarke in his reference to Christ. "Jesus did good," he explained, "because he had a natural enthusiasm for his work and his heart was burning with love for his fellowmen."

To attain success and happiness, one must have a propelling power behind him, Dr. Clarke said. In our case, as humans, that power is God. The sword we grasp should have two hands upon the hilt, our own and the Lord's.

Regardless of circumstances, our ideals should never be altered. The speaker cited an example of a sailor during a storm praying to Neptune, God of the Sea. The seaman vowed that whether or not he sank he would hold his rudder true. According to Dr. Clarke, that should be our motto in life. He ended his address by saying, "Sink or swim, hold your rudder true."

Lindenwood Students Attend Radio Writers Conference In St. Louis

Several members of the Radio Class of Lindenwood College, accompanied by Miss Martha Boyer and Miss Juliet McCrory, of the Speech Department, attended the Radio Writer's Conference, September 27 and 28, at Washington University, St. Louis.

Some of the well-known personages on the program included: Dorothy Blackwell, assistant to the Division of Audio-Visual Education of St. Louis Schools, gave an interesting demonstration on FM broadcasting. FM broadcasts will eliminate static or interruptions over the new radios especially made for this new broadcasting system. These radios are out of the laboratory, and they are being used in some cities, and they are to be incorporated soon in St. Louis.

Dr. Bertram Hughes, news analyst, Radio Station KXOK, was another noted speaker. Dr. Hughes insisted that students have a good general background in radio if they plan to enter the field of radio. Dr. Hughes also stated that in preparing a fifteen minute news broadcast, a person must spend at least twelve hours in preparation.

Rev. Elmer Knoernschild, who is production manager of Radio Station KFUF, is one who has been kind in allowing Lindenwood girls to broadcast on Station KFUF throughout the year.

Don Lochner, program director of Radio Station WEW, gave an interesting talk advising the students how to market their scripts.

Ben Wilson, director of continuity, Radio Station KMOX, gave some valuable tips on the important points of radio writing.

Hollywood Scouts Have Fertile Field As Lindenwood Lassies Primp For Camera

By Mary Jo Griebeling

Any Hollywood scouts hiding out on Lindenwood's hallowed ground? I haven't noticed any strangers in disguise, of late, but here's a confidential word to pass along in the event that a horde storms our Alma Mater's stately portals. The bevy of beauties you're bypassing along the corridors, studying one biology textbook with, gnawing "chicken every Sunday" with, and literally spending your every waking hour with prove only to be your formerly recognizable friends who have gone in for the glamor.

Even the classrooms sparkle these days. I've heard that concentration in such an atmosphere is becoming increasingly difficult. Just as you're about to listen attentively to your professor's viewpoints concerning the government's anti-inflationary measures or his opinions as to Russia's aggressive policy concerning possession of the strategic Dardanelles, you cast a casual glance to your immediate neighbor who has suddenly become a first-class competitor for next year's Miss America, and decide that you, too, can be in the running. Therefore, the remainder of your class period is devoted to concentrated study of your own potentialities.

At this late date, the greater majority of you have, in all probability, experienced the thrill of a newly-captured loveliness. However, for the benefit of the remaining few who may be oblivious of their enchanting surroundings, here's the good word. The sudden clamor for glamor is the result of that annual event that period of photographic modeling, which this year, is under the tutelage of Carlos and his crew. Isn't that statement self-explanatory? The mascara, eye shadow—the radiance in general, have an immediate bearing upon the subject. You see, you can all relax now. There is no denying that Lindenwood possesses an over-abundance of pulchritude, but after this wholesale endeavor has subsided, how about lavishing the stuff upon your fortunate, susceptible males while the rest of us dig into the Dardanelles dispute?

FROM THE SIDELINE

By Mary Jane Horton

The Athletic Association officers are: President, Jeanne Sebastian; vice-president, Jo Ann O'Flynn; secretary, Nancy Kern; treasurer, Frances Jones; intramural chairman, Ruth Waye; publicity chairman, Jo Liebermann. These officers were elected at the close of last year.

Lindenwood's Faculty Find Variety of Interests During Summer Vacation

Members of the Lindenwood College faculty enjoyed a varied and eventful summer vacation. Miss Juliet McCrory flew to New York with her parents. While there she attended several plays including "Born Yesterday," "Carousel," and "Voice of the Turtle." Later they drove up through the New England states visiting the Yale campus, the University of Vermont, and Breadloaf. On an excursion up the Hudson River, Miss McCrory visited Hyde Park, the home of the late President Roosevelt.

Miss Grace Albrecht and Miss Zilpha Colee drove to California and then on into Mexico. Dr. Elizabeth Dawson spent part of the summer in Tarrytown, N. Y., later going up into Canada.

Paul Friess studied organ in New York City under Norman Coke-Jephcott, organist of the Cathedral of St. John in New York. Miss Elizabeth Isaacs studied at the University of Washington in Seattle. Miss Rachel Morris was a representative at the work shop of the North Central Association at the University of Minnesota.

HALL OF FAME

The Campus Hall of Fame presents as its first candidate for 1946-47 Helen Horvath, 1946-1947 editor of the Linden Leaves, the Lindenwood annual. You will probably recognize her as the girl who makes the announcements about pictures and schedules in Student Assembly every Tuesday. She can most often be found in the Tower Room of the Library, hemmed in by schedules, papers, and annuals dating back to 1900. Helen has had experience with annual and writing; last year she not only worked on the Literary Staff, but wrote a prize-winning Christmas story as well.

Helen, whose home is in St. Charles, is a member of Pi Gamma Mu, Alpha Sigma Tau, Sigma Tau Delta, League of Women Voters, German Club and choir. Beta Pi Theta considered itself lucky to have Helen as president. Besides her interests in school activities, Helen is in frequent demand as a soloist at St. Charles luncheons and church services. Good luck to you, Helen, we know you and the annual are going places!

Mr. F. G. McMurry attended the University of Oklahoma on a faculty scholarship. Mr. Henry Turk and Miss Elizabeth Watts studied at Washington University in St. Louis. Miss Agnes Sibley is on a leave of absence, studying for her doctor's degree at Columbia University in New York.

Molly Freshman Discovers That College Life Is Crammed With Surprises

Dear B. J.

Can you imagine a welcome mat at every door, a cheery hello and an invitation to chat from everyone you meet? It hardly seems possible—and especially after my cold feet were quaking in their moccasins all summer wondering what college life would really be like! Now I know, and all I can say is I love it. From the moment I got off the train until now I haven't had a minute to spare. Whoop dee doo, what a life! We were made right at home; that is, we had time enough to unload our trunks and stuff things away before the delightful Freshmen tests began. Since then we have been rearranging our rooms, getting acquainted with roomies and others, receiving hints from student counselors on how the modern college girl behaves, exploring the campus and the city of St. Charles, fretting over what courses to take, and finally getting down to the everyday schedule. I just grin and bear it and honestly, the days are just whizzing by.

Sundays are my favorite. It's just like turning the pages of Vogue to see the Lindenwood girls all arrayed in the latest styles. It is also a day when relaxation is in order. No wonder it is my favorite!

You should have been hiding in my hip pocket Saturday, for that was the day we all trekked off to St. Louis.

The Postman Always Rings Twice

Five of us piled in a taxi and went directly to the Statler hotel, which is the old stamping ground. From there we proceeded to the big department stores to see what trash we could buy with our cash. We came back worn and weary with our arms loaded and a glow on our faces.

Just wait until next summer when I shall take you up on your offer for an early morning tennis match. In the first place I'll be so used to getting up early that my constitution can take it. And second, I am learning how to play honest to goodness, by the rules, correct tennis. Today we learned the footwork—now all I need is instructions on how to hit the ball! This place is a paradise for the athletic type. Not only do they have tennis courts to burn, but a golf course, swimming pool, riding paddock, hockey field—chances for ping pong, archery, and badminton. Can't you just see me bulging out with muscles next spring? Muscles! It will more likely be bulges from sandwiches, cokes, cake and other luscious food we get both in the dining room and the Tea Room.

There are clubs to join too. Save some space in the hometown paper for when I grab all the honors and get into one of the honor societies! Just sitting here chewing the fat with the other girls over a bridge game makes me feel intellectual. Let's hope I feel the same for my eight o'clock tomorrow. Which reminds me, I haven't even started the assignment. Oh, golly, twenty pages and a theme to write! Will you excuse me while Shakespeare takes over?

Love, MOLLY
