Lindenwood's Autumn Celebration Half-Holiday of Happiness at 106th Anniversary

Autumn leaves of Lindenwood's campus, singularly beautiful this dry fall, helped gorgeously in the platform setting for Founders' Day, Thursday morning, October 20, when Dr. Roemer, commemorating the dead, gave an historic address. Autumn asters in rich colors, and daisies, were the flowers used, while the national flag draped the life-size portrait of the late Dr. S. J. Niccolls, so well remembered by the older alumnae.

Lindenwood's vested choir, all in white, sat in the midst of the color. They entered, singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers," and they left, at the close of the service, with Lindenwood's hymn, "School of Our Mothers," on their lips.

In the audience were the many guests, alumnae and friends. The St. Louis Lindenwood Club turned out in a body, with Mrs. Arthur Krueger at the head. The senior class of 47 had been deputed to act as guides and personal companions for the guests, and there were none too many seniors; each found herself responsible for several guests. Crowning the day was the elaborate luncheon, good in every detail, after which the club held its own meeting, to be followed by a student dance revue which was grace itself. A faculty music recital ended the day.

The Founders' Day address by Dr. Roemer this year was different from all that have gone before. He dwelt especially on the personality of Dr. Niccolls. The picture he painted of this good friend of Lindenwood was unforgettable. Dr. Roemer said:

"There is a story 'way back in the book of Genesis which is the most beautiful story in the Bible. It is the story of Joseph. It is filled with romance, pathos and triumph over untoward circumstances. Of all biographies of modern times none surpass it in victorious living.

"'He believed in God' might well be inscribed upon his tomb in Shechem. The story is one that gives inspiration and hope to youth in these troubled times that are ours. In this day when the God of the ages, as some believe, can be subordinated to the god of materialism, Joseph stands out as a living example that the secret of true success is still the secret of a living faith in the God of the ages.

"There is an incident in the closing chapter of Joseph's life that is very attractive. In it is found a life lesson for today.

“When he was nearing the end he made a dying request: ‘I die, and God will surely visit you, and bring you out of this land unto the land which he swore unto Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.’ (Gen. 50:24.) ‘And he took an oath of the children of Israel—Ye shall carry up my bones from hence.’ (Gen. 50:25.)

“It is the request of a dying man to be made part of the events subsequent to his passing from the flesh. Joseph knew the Egyptian custom of carrying the embalmed body as an inspiration and a hope. He wanted ever to be one with them, the dead among the living.

“When Moses led the children of Israel out of Egypt the record tells us of the fulfillment of the promise to Israel. ‘And Moses took the bones of Joseph with him.’ (Ex. 13:19.)

“For a long period of time Joseph was ever in the presence of his people, for not until after the death of Joshua, several hundred years later, is his burial recorded in Shechem. (Joshua 24:32.) The triumphal march of Israel with the consciousness of Joseph’s presence is suggestive of the march of the men of yesterday with the men of today.

“No generation can make progress in this world without taking with it the memory of the life and work of those who have gone before. We are not the product of our own labors. Every improved piece of machinery, every new architectural plan, every progressive movement of the world has an ancestry. We are constantly building on foundations laid by others. Since the world began, man has been transmitting wisdom, work and possibilities to succeeding generations. The history of the world is the story of people and their accomplishments in relation to the present. Yesterday marches side by side with today. Joseph, with the men of faith; Joshua with men of conquest; Paul with men of Christian consecration.

“When Handel was at the end of life, he went one day to the English cathedral to hear his Messiah produced. When they led him to his carriage the organist of the Abbey spoke of him coming back for next year’s Christmas music. Handel replied: ‘I expect to hear my Messiah here in the Abbey for another thousand Christmas seasons.’

“The men of yesterday have a claim on the men of today. Joseph felt that way. He had done a distinctive work for his people. He was interested in having it successfully carried on.

“The claim is one of partnership. One cannot dissolve the relationship which he has sustained during active life. He is the silent partner in the world work.

“The claim is one of fellowship. This fellowship with the dead was manifest by bringing the mummified body of the departed to the banqueting table.

“On the monument to the Wesleys in Westminster Abbey is this inscription: ‘God buries the workers, but he carries on the work.’ When Moses dies, Joshua carries on. When Elijah steps into the chariot that is to take him to glory, Elisha is in readiness to receive his falling mantle.

“The business of the men of today is to honor those of yesterday.

“Today is Founders’ Day. We go back to the earliest history of Lindenwood College. Illustrious names are before us—the Sibleys, the Watsons, the Butlers illumine the pages of our history.

“There is another name which we desire especially to honor. For more than fifty years he was pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of St. Louis. No clergyman was more pre-eminent in the years of his pastorate. In the busy affairs of his church he always found time to work and pray for Lindenwood College. For more than a generation he was President of the Board of Directors. Never a commencement that found him absent except for imperative reasons. Never a need that he did not try to supply. To the speaker he once said; ‘God has always been with Lindenwood. He has brought forward some generous soul when most needed.’

“At that time Col. James Gay Butler had made known his intentions to finance the College.

“No one was more important than Dr. Niccolls in identifying Col. Butler with the school, but Dr. Niccolls only considered his valuable work in the light of an opportunity to manifest the will of the Master whom he loved and served. To his dying day his interest never ceased. Before the last summer’s earthly vacation he ever took, he called the speaker to the old Mercantile Club for luncheon. His sole topic of conversation was about Lindenwood—the prospects for the coming year, the building prospects, and many other topics of vital importance to what he called the Newer Lindenwood.

“Officers, students and faculty were always refreshed by his visits to the campus. When his death was announced there was but one sentiment—‘We have all lost a dear friend.’

“The building put up by his friend, Col. James Gay Butler, which is now called Niccolls Hall, was but a small tribute to the man who had given his best efforts to sustain and nourish in times of need the College so dear to his heart. The honor due his name cannot be paid by a less price than honoring him with the best we have of Christian ideals and service.

“Dr. Taylor once said that at one time he stood on a Highland hill in his native land and marked a spot upon the landscape greener than all else around. He inquired the reason and was told that for many years there had been a village there, and that the gardens of the villagers so long under cultivation kept unwonted verdure still. The earth is always lovelier where God’s servants have been at work, though his servants have long since passed.

“The men of today, on the morrow, will be the men of yesterday. What we do today will be of the greatest interest tomorrow. The world of time will be carried into the timeless ages. The incentive to best endeavor is the immortality of our work. The grave may claim our mortality, it is powerless to take our immortality.

“Joseph saw what we need to see—the God not of the dead but the living—the God of the ever present—the God of all the ages. When we shall realize the power of an endless life, then we shall know the meaning of the call: ‘Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from the beginning.’”

Dr. Ralph T. Case, of the College faculty, and Dr. John C. Inglis, of St. Charles, assisted in the service. Dolores Fisher, of Shawnee, Okla., sang a solo.

Remembered in a Painting

Lindenwood is full of memorials, and it is a joy that Sibley Hall will have now a beautiful painting in memory of the one who at the time of her death last spring was Lindenwood's oldest alumna, Mrs. Libby Edmonston Thompson. The visit of Mrs. John Carlton Jones, Mrs. Thompson's daughter, a few weeks ago, was vivid with memories. Accompanying her was her own daughter, Mrs. Patterson Bain, who through her husband's mother, Mrs. Bain (Ella Lee Ustick, 1880-83) had known of Lindenwood, as well as through her loyal and much-beloved grandmother.

The painting will be a Colorado scene, rich in color, and will bear the inscription, "In Memory of Mrs. Libby Edmonston Thompson, Presented by Her Children, Clara Thompson Jones and Burton Thompson."

Mrs. Jones was much entertained by relatives while in St. Louis, and after visiting here she has gone to Washington, D. C., to spend the winter with her son, Major Lloyd Jones.

Deaths

Much sympathy is felt for Miss Kathryn Hankins, the popular teacher of the classics, whose mother died after a long illness, on October 17, at her home in Webster Groves. Mrs. Hankins is survived by her husband, her sister, her daughter, Miss Hankins, and a son. Dr. Skilling, vice-president of Lindenwood's Board of Directors, officiated at the funeral, as she had long been a member of his church.

A figure that is missed on the campus is that of the aged Mr. Frederick Ordelleide, late custodian of different buildings and aid to his son, the superintendent of grounds at Lindenwood. His death occurred in the early fall.

Miss Jacqueline Vanderluur, who did notable work in music at Lindenwood, 1931-32, recently gave a pipeorgan recital in the First Presbyterian Church of St. Charles, La., at the invitation of the pastor of the church, assisted by other musicians from De Ridder, La., her home town. Newspaper accounts of her performance say: "Miss Vanderluur executed the organ numbers exceedingly well, playing with great refinement and delicacy, yet with sufficient strength and depth to develop the heavier numbers selected. She gave the sympathetic support to the violinist that makes a well-balanced program."

Mrs. Frank T. Koeneke (Ella Fairman, 1873-74) had the misfortune to break her hip, and is a patient in the Deaconess Hospital in St. Louis. Her presence has been greatly missed, as she has been a staunch promoter of all Lindenwood activities.

From Lindenwood to Deanship

Dean Pearle Aiken Smith, of the University of Southern California, who attended Lindenwood and received a collegiate course diploma in 1895, came back in late vacation for a visit to the college. She was entertained by Dr. and Mrs. Roemer, and noted with pleasure Lindenwood's advance and improvements through the years.

Mrs. Smith is faculty advisor of the Y. W. C. A. at the University of Southern California. During the summer, on a six weeks' motor trip, she visited her father's alma mater, Muskingum College, and various universities, as well as Lindenwood. She was a guest in James Whitcomb Riley's old home at Greenfield, Ohio, her host being a cousin of the late poet.

* * * *

Mrs. Fred H. Fox (Gertrude Bird, 1921-25, B. S.) has changed residence in Lakewood, Ohio, to 2117 Mars Ave. She formerly lived on Nicholson Ave.

Mrs. Charles Augustus Rehbein (Mildred Burns Dickey, 1925-26) writes from her home in Hammond, Ind. (15 Roseland Ave.), "It was such a treat to learn of the Chicago Lindenwood Club."

St. Charles city auto licenses are to help advertise Lindenwood in the next year. The City Council has adopted the new kind of "sticker" license, made out of a glazed, imperishable material, in an attractive oval which carries the words, "St. Charles, Missouri: Home of Lindenwood." Two thousand of these have been ordered for 1933.

Alumnae in City

Linked with Founders' Day for Lindenwood was the semi-annual meeting, a few days previously, of the Alumnae Association. This took place Saturday afternoon, October 15, in Vandervoort's Auditorium, St. Louis, with Miss Agnes Adams, the alumnae president, presiding.

Of especial interest to the earlier alumnae was a brief memorial service which was part of the program. Names of three well-known alumnae, now gone to their reward, were particularly remembered. Remarks on the life and personality of the late Mrs. Arthur H. Gale (Stella Honey, 1872-73) were made by Mrs. David M. Hardy, of Waterloo, Ill.; on Miss Clara C. Pullis (1874-77), by Mrs. Robert Ryan, of St. Louis; and on Mrs. Lulu Thurman Hynson (1883-85), by Mrs. W. K. Roth, of St. Louis.

Dr. Alice A. Linneman, alumnae association advisor, was hostess at a charming luncheon in the Busy Bee Tea Room to the official staff of the Association, and to Dr. and Mrs. Roemer and Dean Gipson. The officers who were guests were Miss Agnes Adams, president; Mrs. Edward Gray, vice-president; Mrs. Joseph White, secretary; and Mrs. George Null, treasurer.

A Christmas art class, to meet on Saturdays, has been organized under Dr. Alice Linneman, to make pretty things for Christmas gifts, in enamels, gesso, lacquer, glorified glass, tied and dyed, stenciling, leather tooling, batik, wood-block printing, parchment lampshades and other novelties.

Weddings

Cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Pat Thomas, of Greenwood, Miss., announcing the marriage of their daughter, Laura Lee (1925-27), to Mr. George Dowain La Rue, on Monday, September 19, at the home of her parents. At Home announcements give the future residence of Mr. and Mrs. La Rue as 5465 Everett St., Chicago, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Taylor, of Scottsbluff, Neb., have announced the marriage, on Saturday, October 8, of their daughter, Helen (1929-30), to Mr. George Selden Davey. Mr. and Mrs. Davey's new home will be at Hampton, Neb.

Cards of invitation were received from Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrence Tobin, inviting Dr. and Mrs. Roemer to the marriage of their daughter Thelma Margaret (1922-23, Academy Certificate '23), to Mr. Hill Morrison Reynolds, on Thursday evening, October 20, at 7 o'clock, at the residence of her parents, 503 Vandervoort Ave., De Queen, Ark.

Cards were received from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Douglas Russell announcing the marriage at their home in Kimmswick, Mo., of their daughter Evelyn (1927-29), Saturday evening, October 15, at 8 o'clock, to Mr. Frederick William Webber, of St. Louis.

Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Stephen Priest, of Petersburg, Ill., have sent announcement cards for the marriage of their daughter Marye Elizabeth (1931-32, president of last year's freshman class) to Mr. Kenneth Hugh Read, on Saturday, October 1. It was a church ceremony, in the First Christian Church, of which her father is pastor, and he officiated. The three bridesmaids were Lindenwood girls—Marion Tobin, who is a sophomore in the college and president of Irwin Hall; and Misses Maude Dorsett and Drusilla Aden, who were freshmen here last year. At Home cards were enclosed, "after October 15," for Milwaukee, Wis., at 3323 North Summit Ave. The bridegroom was graduated from the University of Wisconsin with a B. S. degree.

Announcement has been received of the marriage of Miss Corabell Rowland (1919-20) to Mr. Frank Cromer Traver, of Clinton, Iowa, on June 15. The bride has been teaching social science for the last few years in the Clinton High School. They will reside in Clinton, on Hart's Mill Road.

From Oklahoma City, Okla., come the cards of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Gay Thomas, announcing the marriage of their daughter Bernice (1930-31) to Mr. Robert Henri Miller, on Saturday, October 15. At Home announcements are for 2325 North Douglas Ave., Oklahoma City.

Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Walsh have announced the marriage of their daughter Mary Ruth (1926-27) to Mr. Cecil S. McDonald, on Saturday, October 15, at their home in Kansas City, Mo. They will reside in Kansas City, their At Home announcement being for 5101 Wyandotte St., after November 1.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Snyder, of Sparta, Ill., have announced the marriage on Wednesday, October 12, of their daughter Silva Jeannetta (Bachelor of Music, 1928), to Mr. Paul S. Blair. Mr. and Mrs. Blair will be At Home in San Antonio, Texas. The bride spent four years, 1924-28, at Lindenwood, and received a diploma in piano and a certificate in public school music, besides her final degree.

"Speaking of Brides!"

As a frontispiece appears the bridal breakfast-table set by the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club, which won popular award in a novel contest in Stix, Baer and Fuller's china department. The contest was open to all federated clubs of the district, and Lindenwood was one of fourteen to participate. This department store permitted the table-setters to go to any department of the store and select linen, silver, candelabra, fine glassware—any and everything that might go to the makeup of the ideal "soul of the dining-room."

Through the courtesy of Stix, Baer and Fuller, a fine photograph of the table was taken. Through the courtesy of another friend of the club, Mr. O. K. Sanders, florist, whose wife was one time president, the beautiful flowers, white bride roses and lilies of the valley, were provided.

The St. Louis Club went at the contest systematically. The members set three tables in all. For this winning bridal breakfast-table the club committee consisted of Mrs. Arthur Krueger, Mrs. O. K. Sanders, Mrs. John G. Vogt and Miss Agnes Adams. There was a luncheon table set by a Lindenwood committee of Mrs. William K. Roth and Mrs. Lorraine T. Bernero; and a dinner-table for which Mrs. Krueger and Misses Janet and Adele Stine were responsible. It was customers who cast the vote, and the bridal charm, it is thought, was the impulse which turned the vote to the breakfast rather than the luncheon or the dinner-table; each one was very attractive.

Lindenwood girls will like to hear the details of this bridal breakfast-table. It is an Appenzell cloth. The china is white wedgewood, and the silver is "Her Majesty" pattern. The grapefruit bowl and other glassware has the novelty of possessing green glass stems beneath the clear glass cup. The small glasses are for the "Bridal Toast." The candle-sticks with pendant prisms are designed in the crane decoration, and the candles are white.

The prize for the table-setting contest—a 26-piece set of flat silver on a mirror tray—has been presented by the St. Louis Lindenwood Club to the club-room of the college, for the use of the girls at the various teas and parties given in this room. This action was taken by the St. Louis Club at its meeting on Founders' Day at the college. At this meeting, Mrs. J. G. Vogt of the committee, gave a word-picture of the flowers, china, silver and linen used for the "bridal breakfast."

Mrs. Frank J. Keiser, President of the Eighth District, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, was a guest at this meeting. There were many out-of-town members and guests attending, as well as a number of mothers of Lindenwood students whom the club has invited to become associate members.

Class Elections

One of the joys of Founders' Day, to the old students, was to see the ensemble of the classes of today, as effected by successive grouping around the piano in the dining-room of each class, from senior to freshmen, all so proud of themselves and newly officered for the year. Each sang its own song.

The seniors have elected Elizabeth England, of Kirkwood, president; Martha Duffy, Trenton, Mo., vice-president; Harriette Gannaway, Mt. Vernon, Ill., secretary; Shirley Haas, Monroe, La., treasurer. Mrs. Roemer is honorary sponsor, and Dr. Gregg, sponsor. It will be remembered that the senior class, with 47, makes the biggest showing in Lindenwood's history. Three members, who went to other schools last year, are back again for the last year; two girls are quite new, having come from other institutions.

In the junior class Sarah Louise Greer, of Denison, Texas, is president; Nancy Watson, Camden, Ark., vice-president; Katherine Erwin, Newport, Ark., secretary; Jane Tobin, Springfield, Ill., treasurer; Frances McPherson, St. Joseph, Mo., pianist; Kathryn Eggen, Sedan, Kans., cheer leader. Miss Parker continues as sponsor of this class.

Sophomores elected Mildred Keegan, Lawton, Okla., president; Ruth Cooper, Aurora, Ill., vice-president; Allie Mae Bornman, Clarksdale, Miss., secretary; Joanna Achelpohl, St. Charles, treasurer; Peggy McKeel, Blytheville, Ark., song and cheer leader; Kathryn Burkhardt, Hurst, Ill., pianist. Miss Reichert is the class sponsor.

In the freshman class, Helen Lightholder, Streator, Ill., is president; Sarah Nelle Pickett, Joplin, Mo., vice-president; Nancy Culbertson, Kansas City, Mo., secretary; Betty Hoover, Springfield, Ill., treasurer; Jane Goethe, Omaha, Neb., pianist; and this class has two leaders for its songs and cheers— Louise Paine, Houston, Texas, and Evelyn Brown, of St. Louis. Miss Frances Stumberg is the class sponsor.

Iris-Planting at Lindenwood

(From St. Louis Globe-Democrat.)

Gardeners at Lindenwood College are beautifying Reservoir Hill, at the southwest of the college grounds, with a new planting of thousands of iris tubers, under the direction of Dr. B. Kurt Stumberg of the Board of Directors, who is an authority on the varieties of this flower. "We shall have more than forty varieties in bloom next spring," Dr. Stumberg said.

The rare blue varieties of Siberian iris, which shade into palest azure, will crown the summit. "Queen of the May," an iris of rosy pink hues, is also to encircle the top of the hill. The downward range will follow architectural rules as to a deep-toned base. "Lord of June," a blue-purple iris, will be succeeded by the deep-blue "Storm King," and the "Lent A. Williamson" variety, distinguished by a violet tint at the base of its purple petals, will come below. The smoky brown "Alcasar" is to be near the base. Besides these mentioned types, there will be variations of iris.

Reservoir Hill will make a colorful background for the campus greenery. The other side of the hill touches Highway 40.

St. Louis in Full Swing

Among the good acts of the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club at its meeting of September 26, at the home of Mrs. Arthur W. Goodall, 7228 Greenway Blvd., was the establishment of the Roemer Student Aid Fund, "in appreciation of the inspiration and many kindnesses of Dr. and Mrs. Roemer to the St. Louis Club."

At this meeting a certificate of enrollment was placed on display which had been received from the American Tree Association, in official recognition of the Club's planting a tree, April 15, in Forest Park, at the tree-planting ceremonies held by the Eighth District, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs at that time, in honor of the George Washington Bi-Centennial. Forty-seven clubs participated in these ceremonies.

Mrs. Frank J. Keiser, president of the Eighth District Federation, presided at the September meeting at the installation of the St. Louis Lindenwood Club's new officers. The ceremony was an impressive one, composed by Mrs. Keiser. With a few changes from the staff as recorded in the September Bulletin, the list stands for the coming year: Mrs. Arthur J. Krueger, president; Mrs. J. H. Dickerson, first vice-president; Mrs. R. R. Wright, second vice-president; Miss Adele Stine, recording secretary; Miss Janet Stine, corresponding secretary; Mrs. C. L. Becker, treasurer; Mrs. Lorraine T. Bernero, auditor.

Mrs. Keiser was the speaker of the afternoon, and told of the work of the Eighth District in St. Louis and in the State. She mentioned the many departments under the supervision of the Eighth District and the work of the Public Welfare Committee among the crippled children of Missouri as especially worth while. The Education Committee is of interest to our Club because the president, Mrs. Arthur J. Krueger, is chairman of this committee for the Eighth District.

Appointment of the following names to Eighth District Committees was made: American Citizenship—Miss Agnes Adams; American Homes—Mrs. Harold C. Aekert; Art—Mrs. J. H. Dickerson; Education—Mrs. R. R. Wright; International Relations—Miss Janet Stine; Junior Membership—Mrs. J. H. Monteith; Legislature—Mrs. Victor Rhodes; Literature and Reciprocity—Mrs. L. T. Bernero; Motion Pictures—Mrs. Arthur J. Krueger; Music—Miss Anna Petri; Press—Miss Adele Stine; Public Welfare—Mrs. H. B. Kooser.

Standing Committees of the Club will be: Membership—Mrs. R. R. Wright, Mrs. J. H. Dickerson; Program—Mrs. Oliver K. Sanders; Hospitality—Mrs. John G. Vogt; Publicity—Miss Adele Stine; Scholarship—Mrs. Wm. K. Roth.

Mrs. Arthur S. Goodall (Euneva Lynn), daughter of the hostess, accompanied by Mrs. George W. Parker, sang a group of songs.

Mrs. Roemer presided at the tea table and assisting the hostess were Mrs. Arthur S. Goodall and Mrs. J. H. Dickerson.

Guests from the College were, Dr. and Mrs. John L. Roemer, Dean Alice Gipson, Dr. Alice A. Linneman, and the housemothers, Mrs. Effie L. Roberts of Ayres Hall; Miss Edna Hough, Irwin Hall; Mrs. Mary B. Wenger, Sibley Hall; Miss Mary C. Blackwell, Butler Hall; and Mrs. Elizabeth LeMaster, Niccolls.

Sociology Doctorate

Miss Florence W. Schaper, head of the department of sociology, has received the degree, Ph. D. in Educational Sociology, from the University of New York. An early interest in Dr. Schaper's scholastic advancement is claimed by Lindenwood, as it was here, in junior college days (1916-18) that she began her college studies, at which time she had numerous distinctions in the student body—president of the Student Council and editor of "Linden Leaves," among other things. She has been a member of the Lindenwood faculty for ten years, and apart from her splendid classroom work has earned the gratitude of many a student as vocational advisor.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. George Milburn (Vivien Custard, 1924-25), of Medford, Okla., have sent the cards of their little daughter, Janet Milburn, who came to this world September 26. Mr. and Mrs. Milburn will make New York City their home for the coming winter.

Through Dr. Linneman comes the announcement of the advent on August 10, of little Julia Durre Blackwell, whose parents reside in Evansville, Ind. Her mother, Jannette Durre Blackwell, will be remembered as a student at Lindenwood in 1930-31.

"Wouldn't you like to know this little rascal?" queries the brightly decorated card introducing young John Clancy King, Jr., to this world. He arrived October 6, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Clancy King, Waverly Woods, Helena, Ark. His mother was formerly Miss Hazel Wells of Helena, who attended Lindenwood, 1926-27.

Mrs. Emerson Carey, Jr. (Margaret Slavens, freshman attendant to the May Queen of 1924), of Island Park, Hutchinson, Kans., writes telling of her two small children, whose coming has not hitherto been chronicled here. She is the proud mother of a boy of three and one-half years, named Emerson Carey III, and a daughter one year old, named Anabelle. A pretty story hangs about this name, as it is thus that Mrs. Carey remembers her roommate at Lindenwood, Miss Anabelle Couper (1923-25).

An interesting arrival on September 19 is Robert Charles Whitman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Whitman (Dorothy Towers, 1922-26), of Dexter, New Mexico. There is no doubt about this home being well kept, as the young mother's B. S. at Lindenwood was in Home Economics.

'Tisn't fair to give a baby to the wrong mother, as was done in this column with little Louise Wade McHenry, who arrived September 2 at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Spencer McHenry (Louise Hudson, 1926-28), in Clarksdale, Miss. Who would think that there had been two "Louise Hudsons" at Lindenwood within a dozen years? Mrs. McHenry writes: "I am very interested in Lindenwood, and have praised it to all girls I know, who are considering a college education."
