No. 10

The above is a scene in the musical comedy, "Brass Buttons," which was given by the members of the Lindenwood College Athletic Association, on Friday night, March 8, in Roemer Auditorium.

This scene was supposed to be a highway where the three persons were riding. From left to right they are: Margie Bright, as "Cactus Brown," a young West Point cadet; Lucie May Sharon as "Dixie Bell Stevens," the most popular young lady among the cadets, and Helen Henderson, as "Tommy Harper," suitor for Miss Stevens' hand. A Farmers' Chorus later added to the amusing qualities of this scene.

All-Original Athletic Association Play

Old Students Far and Near Came Back for "Brass Buttons"

The Athletic Association of Lindenwood in coming events again takes the center of the stage with its grand and glorious banquet which will be given the latter part of April. This banquet, long anticipated, and long remembered, comes as the crowning event of the series of college activities which the A. A. sponsors each year.

The Musical Comedy, "Brass Buttons," written by two of the senior members, Mary Alice Lange, Leavenworth, Kan., and Lucie May Sharon, Carrollton, Ill., "shone" to a full house on March 8. The all-star cast and choruses, including every member of the Association, were directed by Miss Anne Duggan and Miss Marie Reichert of the Physical Education Department, and Miss Mary Gordon of the Oratory Department.

Lucie May Sharon played the leading part, Dixie Bell Stephens, and was ably supported by the firm-chinned West Pointer Tommie Harper (Helen Henderson, Little Rock, Ark.). How the Collegiate Ford, the picture of which forms the frontispiece for this month's Bulletin, was transported bodily on and off the stage in fifteen minutes is a mystery of the stage hands. Its lights blinked solemnly as the curtain rose in the second scene of Act I and it rumbled convincingly when Tommie descended to crank it. The signs which covered its shining surface provided entertainment both for the audience and the "Rube Chorus," who with clumping boots and wagging whiskers clogged a new version of the Barnyard Hop.

All of the choruses were cleverly costumed, from the Military Tappers in their uniforms covered with rows of bright brass buttons, to the Mounted Police who danced in at the words of Kitty Kirkpatrick, the pseudo soda "jerkess," who said she had taken their motto, "Get your man." Joan Lytle, McPherson, Kan., played the part of Kitty in such a captivating way that she succeeded in capturing the handsome author La Von Blunt (Adeline Brubaker, Springfield, Ill.). Mary Alice Lange, the playwright, was disguised as Spaghetti Joe, the detective. The theme songs of the play were "Brass Buttons" and "We Know a Secret" (music by Lucie May, words by Mary Alice).

Many old girls came back for the night: Page Wright, '24, Webster Groves, Mo., who is both a former president and treasurer of the Athletic Association, and Sue Campbell, '28, Bowling Green, Mo. Ruth Lindsay Hughes, Kansas City, president of the sophomore class of last year, was on hand to play the piano in the dining room in her old inimitable way. More of the last year sophs were counted in Louise Lamb, Salisbury, Mo.; Eugenia Morris, Farmington, Mo.; Virginia McClure, Webster Groves, Mo.; Lallah Rookh Varner, St. Joseph, Mo.; Mary Dix, also of the class of '30, and Gertrude Webb, '28, made a special trip out from the city for the important first night production.

A recent editorial of the Linden Bark lists some of the many achievements of the Athletic Association. First of all, to belong to this second largest organization on the campus (Y. W. ranks first) one must have an M average and 125 points in athletics, the points gained in various ways. One of the beautiful cups which the Association prizes was given by Gertrude Webb, '28. Gertrude was a most active member and has been for some time one of the players on the St. Louis Hockey Team.

The members of A. A. excel in other things besides athletics as is shown by their officers. Margery Bright, Wichita Falls, president, who had an important part in "Brass Buttons," is president also of Alpha Psi Omega, National Honorary Oratory Fraternity of Lindenwood, and of the Texas Club. The secretary, Lucie Spence, La Crosse, Wis., is also secretary of the Student Board; and Catherine Orr, Danville, Ill., treasurer of A. A., holds the office of corresponding secretary in Beta Pi Theta, the National Honorary French Fraternity on the campus.

Miss Duggan and Miss Reichert, the new "gym" teachers, have added some new sports to the list. Fencing is becoming one of the most popular. A tournament, the first one in the history of Lindenwood, was staged in Roemer Auditorium between contestants of rival dorms on March 20. The Natural Dancing Class appeared in a clever skit at the May Queen party in January, and these same dancers will take part in the May Day celebration which is an annual commencement affair.

Linden Tree in Honor Grove

There is to be a thriving linden tree in the "Grove of Honor" which is to be established in the California Botanical Gardens. Other clubs may choose elms and maples and poplars, but the Lindenwood Club of Los Angeles paid tribute to its Alma Mater by planting the linden on March 16. Each member gave a short talk and greetings from the college were read by the secretary of the club, Mrs. Cora Donlin Hubbard (1882-1884).

Dr. Roemer's Six Sermons

With the end of March came the closing of Dr. Roemer's much appreciated Lenten sermons on Sunday mornings at 11:30 o'clock. The last was a very solemn discourse suited to Holy Week, on the theme, "Why Christ Came."

One new bit of co-operation by which the Y. W. C. A. and all the girls showed their interest in these services was shown in the memorial gifts of flowers to grace the pulpit for these Lenten services. Some of these represented recent bereavements.

Early in March, within the period covered by these services, the Y. W. C. A. had elected new officers, and on the latter Sundays of Lent these officers had charge. Mary Sue Wisdom, Lincoln, Mo., is the new president, whose term will extend into next year; Helen Weber, of Kirkwood, Mo., is vice-president; Georgie Daniel, Springfield, Mo., secretary; and Lorraine Robie, Springfield, Ill., treasurer.

It would have been a joy to the old Lindenwood students to have been able to sit in chapel and listen to the unfolding of this series of sermons. One may not speak of all of them, but perhaps something may be felt of the real impression which they made, by the quoting from one of them, under the title, "Not by Bread Alone," which suggests the text of the morning, Matthew 4:4. Dr. Roemer said:

"The impossible man is of little interest to one burdened with weight of sin and temptation. He is nothing more to him than a picture of despair—something that intensifies his own burdens and offers no relief. Man finds inspiration and strength when he comes in contact with someone who knows him as he is and who out of his same experiences has become a victor.

"Jesus lived a life so full of toil and trial, so full of knowledge and experience, He is bound to us all as our universal Brother, yet He is 'the Sovereign Seer of Time.'

"Sometimes we hear it said, 'Jesus was never tempted as I am.' It is the statement of student, business man, and artist. He was tempted as all of us are tempted. The story of His temptation is a real story of a real man.

"1. He was tempted as to His appetite. 'Command that these stones be made bread.' The senses were appealed to, as are ours.

"2. He was tempted as to His intellect. 'If Thou art the Son of God, cast Thyself down.' The appeal to pride is a powerful temptation, one common to us all.

"3. He was tempted as to His will. 'All these things will I give Thee, if Thou wilt fall down and worship me.' An appeal to power, ambition — that 'last infirmity of noble minds.'

"'In all points' He was tempted as we are."

Then reviewing Jesus' reply to Satan, "It is written, man shall not live by bread alone," Dr. Roemer showed the things by which man lives. He lives by memory, by experience; by hope, by faith.

"Man lives by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

"He ordained the laws of the universe and man lives by them. He proclaimed the sovereignty of man with its limitations, and man has dominion in the world by using his power to control it for his use.

"He appointed man's death hour and man bears in mind that at death his power ends.

"He gave the hope of the resurrection morn and man abides in the hope of immortality.

"Man does not live by bread alone,
His soul is pierced and quickened with Bright shoots of everlasting-ness."

"Outwardly man is perishing, inwardly he is renewed day by day.

"We live by the things we build up invisibly, by memory, experience, hope, and faith; by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. We are thus 'builded together for an habitation of God through the Spirit.'"

Word From a Court Reporter

"Though I spent only one short year at L. C.," says Miss Hazel A. Schaefer, who now holds the position of Court Reporter in her father's court, Pekin, Ill., "I feel as much a part of it as though I had attended four. I have visited L. C. since I left in 1926 and was more than delighted to see how Old Sibley had been dolled up. Everything looked so good to me—just like returning home after a long voyage."

The Small College

James Weber Linn, a newspaper columnist of Chicago, gives convincingly his tribute to the small college:

"If I named all the useful small colleges, all the important small colleges, all the dear small colleges, it would take a great deal of space. There are a few people who think that buildings and paraphernalia are important in a college education. Maybe they are, indirectly; they educate the community to give money for educational purposes. But directly, the only thing that educates men and women is men and women. Sometimes I think the sun of promise never shines so warmly as through the plain glass windows of the college; sometimes I think the 'dear moonlight of love' (as Bathhouse phrased it) and of association never sleeps so sweetly as on the narrow, dusty paths of small college learning. What is Oxford but a collection of small, yes, even tiny colleges? The State Universities are noble department stores; the small colleges are 'gift shops.'"

Mrs. Plemon's Death

Lindenwood has received the sad news of the death, March 3, of Mrs. Mary Lence Plemon, wife of Postmaster T. H. Plemon, of Jonesboro, Ill. She had attended Lindenwood in 1905-

06-07, and Mary Kethleen Lence had many friends. She was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Lence, of Anna, Ill., and granddaughter of Judge John H. Mulkey of Illinois. Mrs. Plemon is survived by her husband and two sons, five and six years old. She was a member of the Lutheran Church, and took an active part in church and Sunday school work as her health permitted. She had been ill but a few days, and was taken to a hospital in Anna, Ill., where an operation was performed in a last effort to save her life. Her death, which was caused by albuminuria, occurred on the eighth anniversary of her wedding day.

Dr. Irwin's Grand-Daughter

Many friends were shocked to learn of the death, March 7, of Dr. Irwin's granddaughter, Mrs. Mary Irwin McDearmon Warren, wife of Captain George S. Warren of Scott Field. Her death was caused by tumor, from which she had suffered for two years. Mrs. Warren was a gifted teacher and gave service to handicapped students in special schools and soldiers at training camps.

For New Library

Ground has been broken, with the breaking of spring, for the new $150,000 Library Building which is soon to rise just east of Roemer Hall. This involves a new residence already completed for Lindenwood's expert auto-driver and his family, who until now have lived in the old Sibley Cottage now torn down to make room for the new library on its site. "Frank" has a new and better home, on the brow of the hill west of Roemer Hall, overlooking the athletic field.

New Catalogue's Ideas

The new view books and catalogues are Lindenwood's harbinger of spring, in their robin's egg blue coats which replace the canary yellow of last year. The text of the catalogue is even more radically changed. The calendar shows two new dates: Faculty Convocation on September 9 and Registration of Students September 10. The distinctive literary features are the article on Aims and Purposes, written by Dean Gipson, and a short description of the new Library building.

No more will anxious mothers protest that daughter's bathing suit is just a trifle, well, brief, to be taking to college, for henceforth the Post Office will sell a special gray cotton tank suit to all who would go swimming in L. C. pool, and for the delight of the beginning swimmers there will be bright red shiny caps to distinguish them from the more experienced ducks.

So many new fascinating courses are offered for 1929-1930 that the Juniors are contemplating making it two years instead of one so they can squeeze in everything. The Department of Biological Science will give a course in "Morphology of Plants" for advanced students. The Classics are expanding their scope with an opportunity for "Rapid Reading in Latin Prose and Poetry from Representative Authors of Latin Literature," and joy to the majors, "Tacitus, Pliny and Cicero."

Sociology is adding two more "ologies" in Anthropology and Ethnology. Those who are getting certificates will be glad to note that the new state requirements are listed in full by the Board of Education.

"Tea Room Management" is the name of the subject which will be studied by some of the Home Ec. Department. The view book shows a charming scene of the interior of the tea room.

If you've ever had a hankering to direct a pageant you will have a chance next year in the "Pageant Organization and Production" course offered by the Physical Education Department.

All these new improvements are a proof that each year Lindenwood is preparing her students to enter any field of activity that they may choose when they have achieved an A. B. degree.

To Study Peace Plans

Lindenwood is to have a very important representative in Europe this summer in the person of Miss Mary Elisabeth Ambler of Maplewood, Mo. Miss Ambler, who will receive her A. B. degree with the class of '30, is president of the local chapter of the International Relations Club. She has been chosen by the National Organization as one of the college students to go abroad this year under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

"The party," reads the letter from the National Secretary, "will sail in July and will spend about six weeks in England and Europe. London, Brussels, Paris, The Hague, and Geneva will be the principal centers of visit and study. In each place the students will be privileged to see the operations of the peace organizations and to meet prominent men of the government and the League of Nations and the World Court."

Mrs. Don Smith (Ramona Hubbel, who entered in the Freshman class of Centennial year) gives her address as Shelton, Neb.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Wachter, Joplin, Mo., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Frances Anita (Lindenwood 1927-28), to Mr. Walter D. Robinson on Tuesday afternoon, February 12, in Memphis, Tenn. Mrs. Robinson's new address is Route 2, Box 335, Raleigh, Tenn.

Miss Jessie Schaper (1922-24), who is a sister of Miss Florence Schaper of the Lindenwood faculty, was married on February 22, at Washington, Mo., to Mr. Charles Luther Long. Mrs. Long will be at home after June 1st in St. Louis.

Another change of address is noted in that of Nina Bennett (1922-23), Benton, Ill., who changed her name last June to Mrs. W. W. McAfoos. In her letter to the Bulletin she says that Constance Levy (Home Ec. Diploma, '24) taught in the same high school last year and they had glorious times discussing Lindenwood.

Another Missouri wedding recorded is that of Miss Miriam Eloise Garver, grand-niece of Mr. Henry Edward Hanford, St. Louis. Miss Garver, who attended Lindenwood 1924-27, was married to Mr. George Willard Ewing on February 12. She will reside at 6044 Kingsbury Boulevard, St. Louis.

Miss Ann-Marie Nelson, who received her A. A. degree in 1926 from Lindenwood, was married on February 16, in Auburn, Neb., to Mr. Dolph Collins Simons. They have chosen Lawrence, Kan., as their new home.

On Vacation

Dr. and Mrs. Roemer are on vacation, too. On the very night of the opening of the recess, March 26, they left for Hot Springs, Ark., to spend the entire week. They will be at the Arlington Hotel. One of the old Lindenwood girls is owner of one of the health enterprises in Little Rock. Dr. and Mrs. Roemer made plans to see her and convey greetings from the college.

Dread Examinations? No!

Celebrating the end of certain recent examinations a Pep Party was a little diversion sponsored by the Linden Leaves Annual Board, with its editor-in-chief, Ruth Bullion, Little Rock, Ark., as master of ceremonies. Each guest, clad in becoming checked apron, or white duck trousers, was met at the door by a dignitary who took her ticket and stamped a red "attendance sign" on the back of her hand.

The "students" were examined on their knowledge of the word pep by "Professor Ruthie." The questions, ranging from a demonstration of the evolution of the dance to "How to Keep Young," were most difficult, but all the students lustily insisted that the only proper definition of pep is: "Ruth Bullion-Plus." The program was enriched by Joy Carson's eloquent interpretation of "The Highwayman," and a clever solo dance by Natalie Loeb. More dancing to the peppy music provided by the college orchestra, and the new girls, who have entered for the second semester, were properly introduced to the true Lindenwood spirit.

View Book to Library

Miss Bernice Edwards, '27, writes to Secretary Motley from her home in

Joplin, Mo., signing herself "Always a Lindenwood Girl":

"I would appreciate very much if you would send me a copy of the Lindenwood College view book for my high school library. I am sure that some of the Senior girls would be interested in seeing our college. I received the Bulletin this morning and I surely absorbed all of the news. It seems so strange to be at home this year after spending the four happiest years of my life at L. C. I now hold the position of high school librarian in my own home town.

"I enjoy my work but I miss my Alma Mater and I am planning to return for the homecoming in June. I would be very glad to receive any kind of literature from L. C. for our high school library."

* * * *

Personals

Secretary Guy Motley was Lindenwood's doughty representative at the inauguration of President Hoover, and came back from Washington in high feather. With him he brought an all-yellow (gold perhaps) and otherwise ornamented "key to Washington," nearly a foot in height, all bejeweled in colors, which he presented formally to President Roemer at an amusing platform ceremony.

Also the student body was represented for the first time in Washington at an inaugural. Ruth Fuller, of Lindenwood, went as one who has a right, for her father, Mr. C. A. Fuller of Eureka Springs, Ark., had just been elected Congressman from his district, and she was his guest. Of course, she saw things well.

College Club of Chicago

The Lindenwood College Club of Chicago met with Mrs. Pindell (Alma Wagner, '97) at the Hotel Ambassador March 8. Mothers of the girls of today, students of Northwestern University, as well as many of the members attended the luncheon and business meeting. Final arrangements have been made for a benefit card party for the Mary Easton Sibley Scholarship Fund to be held in the Wedgewood Room, Marshall Field's, April 5.

"French Spoken Here"

"What's Doing in Beta Pi Theta" in its February number for 1929 gives places to three articles "from Theta Xi Chapter, at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo." One article has for its head, "French Christmas Program of Theta Xi." Another is entitled, "French Students Active at Lindenwood College," and a third, "Theta Xi Chapter to Present 'Le Malade Imaginaire.'"

Beta Pi Theta is one of the most active organizations on the campus. It is soon to be host at a banquet to be given at the New St. Charles Hotel. The members recently put on a three-act play, entirely in French.

* * * *

Another change of address noted by the Bulletin is that of Mrs. Jack B. Deahl (Mary Elisabeth Kniseley, 1924-1925), who resides in Wellington, Texas.

Mrs. Myron G. Peers, 533 Norwood Avenue, Collinsville, Ill., a Lindenwood girl of 1878-79, has written her appreciation of the Calendar and Bulletin, though she says there are very few familiar names in the latter.

"America's Ancestry"

In the recent season of national birthdays, Dr. Roemer was requisitioned for a patriotic address on "Our Ancestry" at a day of celebration at the Roosevelt High School in St. Louis. He began with the forceful phrase, "America was well born. We have no apology to offer for the one whom we call the Father of our Country." Dr. Roemer took no stock in the smallness of certain modern biographers "whose principal occupation is belittling great characters, trying to remove reverence for those who have become the nation's heroes and ideals." On the contrary, he presented a Washington whom all may revere. He said:

"George Washington was human. We rejoice that he was just an ordinary man. It is not his intellect, his wealth, his genius that attracts.

"In the light of modern warfare his military genius is not supreme. When he crossed the Delaware he did not have to contend with machine gun fire. Airplanes did not threateningly hover above him. Communication was imperfect. Telegraph, telephone, radio, were unknown. He did not have the knowledge so familiar to the youngest high school student."

Among the things to be admired in George Washington, Dr. Roemer said, were that "he made the most of his opportunities; he had one unwavering aim; he had something more than personality." Explaining these traits, he said:

"Washington came into life in a plain fashion and lived his boyhood days in plain fashion. His early education was something like that of Abraham Lincoln, the only other American who is able to stand life-size by his side. Neither of these two ever saw inside of a university. Washington went to a low grade school, taught by the parish sexton. He learned the three Rs but never studied grammar. His farewell address, like Lincoln's Gettysburg address, is nothing short of a national classic.

"Washington and Lincoln were enriched by the poverty of their opportunities. Their ambition was to make the most of what they could command. This is the secret of true greatness in every age and under most favorable conditions.

"The secret of Washington's power over the public mind was the belief in the man. There was no ulterior purpose in his make-up than service to his country. The man in whom people believe is the one who has an unwavering purpose. He may not be elected today, but he is respected.

"One of his maxims, 'Endeavor to keep alive in your bosom that little divine spark called conscience' — this maxim of the boy explains the man. The genius of Washington was the genius of character."

Dr. Roemer suggested that those who would follow Washington should maintain the ideals of world peace and world brotherhood. "Be intense Americans," he said. "We need George Washington with us today. We need him as inspiration that service is above self. We need him as a teacher of patriotism — preferment is not for private gain; that the love of country is not expressed in words but works."

Among popular lecturers of the month were Dr. Ernest R. Kroeger, of St. Louis, in his piano recital, and Miss Gertrude Praek of the Second Presbyterian Church, St. Louis, in a chapel talk about the problems of young people. There were also fine concerts.

St. Louis Tea

The St. Louis Lindenwood College Club held a reciprocity tea at the Gatesworth Hotel on March 21. The program was given by students of the college under the direction of Mr. John Thomas, dean of music. The school quartet sang the Lindenwood hymn, "Twilight," "To the Spirit of Music" and "Sweet Miss Mary." Miss Naida Porter gave two violin solos, accompanied by Miss Letha Bailey, and Miss Marjorie Smith sang "The Bijou Song," by Gounod, and "Moon Marketing," by Weaver. Miss Smith was accompanied by Miss Mary C. Craven. Miss Mary McKenzie Gordon of the oratory department faculty read "A Minuet," by Parker.

Mrs. Arthur J. Krueger, president of the club, welcomed the guests and introduced Mrs. Charles A. Houts, president of the Eighth District, M. F. W. C. The program closed with a short history of Lindenwood College by Dr. John L. Roemer. Mrs. John G. Vogt was hostess and was assisted by Mesdames Arthur Goodall, R. J. Davisson, O. K. Sanders and Miss Lillian Zacher.

Aims and Purposes

The following article on the "Aims and Purposes" of Lindenwood College is being distributed:

Over one hundred years ago the founders of this college had as their conception of a school for young women an institution that could "enlighten, enoble and elevate our daughters, that it might secure the approbation and patronage of the public; not a frivolous boarding school, which would unfit its pupils for the trials and duties of life, but one in which solid attainments should be acquired, and one in which young women should be prepared to occupy with eminent honors the sphere in which they may be placed." No better aim could possibly be stated for a college founded today. The college looks upon each student as an individual who should be encouraged to develop to the highest and best of which she is capable, and receives as students only those young women whom it believes to be capable of a high standard of college work and of upholding the reputation of the institution as a school "Christian in influence, discipline, and instruction." It then endeavors to give each girl an opportunity to develop herself in a spiritual and a cultural way; to receive a liberal education and to gain through it both intellectual and social poise; to limit the number of students that each student will have an opportunity for advice and aid from instructors of training and experience; and finally to recognize the right of a girl to choose a vocation and receive training for it, in addition to her education along more liberal lines.

* * * *

Lucille McFadden, of Cadiz, Ohio, was presented by Lindenwood's oratory department in a graduation recital within the last month, and Jean Cameron, of Guymon, Okla., a few days later.

Mrs. A. T. Seymour, Jr. (Geraldine Smythe, 1921-23), who was secretary of her sophomore class, has changed her address to 620 East Meyer Boulevard, Kansas City, Mo.

Coming Back

Letters from old girls are always appreciated by Bulletin readers. The following are from two of the "Roemer Girls" who are looking forward to the Anniversary Celebration of Dr. and Mrs. Roemer at Commencement:

"Dear Lindenwood: I'm so happy about the reunion and if possible I shall be there. Who could ever forget the spirit of dear L. C.! My address is 2410 Iowa Street, Davenport, Iowa. Love to you and my school.

"Sincerely,

"Gerry Schwartz Citron, '25-27."

This other letter is post-marked Collinsville, Okla.:

"Dear Friends: Each month as I read the Lindenwood Bulletin I feel a pang of regret due to the fact that my days at Lindenwood (1925-26) are over.

At present I am a 'cranky old music teacher' in the Junior and Senior High Schools of Collinsville. As this is my first attempt in the teaching profession I feel myself ageing rapidly.

"I never think of Lindenwood days without the best of these memories being those connected with Dr. and Mother Roemer. As I missed the Centennial I anticipate with pleasure the coming reunion, and realize that it is only a slight token of the love and regard we have for them.

"I sincerely hope that I may be one of those present from the class of '26.

"Very truly yours,

"Elizabeth Burke."

Births

Little Patricia Anne Price arrived on February 25 to gladden the home of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Connell Price. Cards were received from St. Louis, attached with white ribbon.

A "Babygram" has been received from small Sara Helen Denman, who "arrived safely" on March 2 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Denman, 1013 Wood Street, Apt. 9, Wilkinsburg, Pittsburgh, Pa. Mrs. Denman was formerly Helen Scott, Lindenwood, '21-23.

A tiny cardboard shoe reveals when opened the name Tommy Gene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Coker, Naples, Texas, whose birthday is given as February 26. Mrs. Coker (Lorraine Lyster) graduated from Lindenwood with the Centennial class of '27.

A delft blue card gives the message of Lloyd Lynd, Jr., who arrived on March 1. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Lynd, Bartlesville, Okla. In 1917 his mother, then Lois Margaret Hanna, received an A. A. degree from Lindenwood.

Mr. and Mrs. David Bertell Wileox, Liberty, Mo., have announced the birth on March 8 of a small daughter, Janet Mary. Her mother (Mary Banks, 1924-26), writes: "We are hoping Janet will attend Lindenwood and love it every bit as much as I did and still do."

Paul Albright, Jr., is the name of the new baby whom Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Blessing, St. Charles, Mo., proudly announce as arriving on March 20. His mother is remembered as Eunice H. Willbrand, who attended Lindenwood in 1922-26.

The petite visiting card of Shirley Ann Padgett is attached to that of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Padgett, Decatur, Ill. She made her debut on March 13. Her mother was Florence G. Holben, 1922-23.
