Around the Horse-Shoe Table

Dr. and Mrs. Roemer's Luncheon Brings Out Volumes of Data

Lindenwood girls who attended the State Teachers' Convention in St. Louis were entertained on Friday, November 15, at a luncheon given in a private dining room of the Lennox Hotel, by Dr. and Mrs. Roemer, assisted by Dean Alice Gipson and Mr. Motley.

Around the long horseshoe table circled the questions and answers of old friends reuniting. "You're married! Where did you say Jeane is now? Well, I can't feature her teaching." Lindenwood songs brought forth the same old enthusiasm with Mr. Motley as director and Helen Roper, '28, as accompanist.

After the turkey and the last bite of dessert were finished Dr. Roemer gave the first of the two-minute talks. He spoke of the loyalty of the old girls in sending new members to their Alma Mater, congratulating them on the fact that 72 per cent of the freshman class of this year is picked from the upper third of the high schools of the country. Mrs. Roemer welcomed the familiar faces, and spoke of the joys of reunion. Dean Gipson expressed her pleasure in meeting those who came before her administration, and in renewing friendship with the others.

Miss Florence Jackson of Wellesley, Massachusetts, well known vocational leader, and the vespers speaker of November 17, spoke of the fact that so many girls are entering the vocational field. Mrs. Arthur Krueger, president of the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club, brought greetings from that organization.

The song may be paraphrased for the old girls to "Oh, the girls all go from Lindenwood to north, south, east and west for education." Miss Elizabeth Arveson, '25, is a job analyst in the Industrial Engineering Department of Ralston Purina Co., St. Louis; Mrs. Louise Child Jones, '23, is a journalism and social science teacher in Richmond, Mo.; Helen Riordan, '23, teaches Physical Education in Hannibal, Mo.; Mrs. Margaret Morris Pinet, '21, is librarian in the junior high of Jefferson City; Ruth Mayfield Gilbert, '20, is History and English teacher in junior high of Lebanon, Mo.

Three are in constant touch with Lindenwood, all teaching in St. Charles: Helen Hammer and Helen Diehr, '29, and Viola Karrenbrock, '25. Helen Wisdom, '28, is teaching history in California, Mo., and Helen Roper is there with her as a music teacher. Marion Kaiser, '29, instructs in sewing at Soldan High, St. Louis, and Esther Schumacher, '28, is located in Normandy, Mo.

Margaret Koop carries on in mathematics and social science in Marshall, Mo., and Miriam Schwarz, '24, at University City High in commercial work. Frances (Babe) Caskey is surrounded by books in Doubleday Doran, Book Shop, St. Louis.

Not all the guests admitted a profession. Gladys Campbell, '24, gives her address as 6115 Westminster, St. Louis; Virginia Foristell, '26, University City, 7535 Westmoreland; Mrs. Euneva Lynn Goodall, '28, 7315 Kingsbury Boulevard, St. Louis. Elvira Gluck, '31, is resident in St. Louis; Mrs. Mildred Grimmet, '24, is of St. Louis; Adele Stine, '22, and her sister, Janet Stine, '20, are in Webster Groves. Miss Florence Schaper not only went to Lindenwood, but she has been a member of the faculty for several years. Miss Benson Botts, Lindenwood's St. Louis representative, completed the guest list.

Hoover Aprons

It betokens not politics, but industry, that nearly thirty students at Lindenwood, in the home economics department, have been fitting themselves out in "Hoover Aprons." These garments, first called "Hoover Dresses," were invented in war relief days, when Mr. Hoover, then a plain citizen in Red Cross work, approved the garment as the most suitable working uniform that a woman could wear. So the class of this fall has worked out the style in gingham, and girls from Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Arkansas, Nebraska, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Iowa, Kansas, and Wisconsin, make a bonny, be-aproned bunch of which the President might well be proud. * * * *

The first students' recital of the season, in Roemer Auditorium, brought out vocal and piano selections at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, November 19, by Doris Oxley, Katherine Ann Disque, Winifred Williams, Tearle Seiling, La Vern Wright, Eulalia Geiger, Eleanor Kriekhaus, and Mary Virginia Sterling.

The Choral Club concert on the night of November 22, given in Roemer Auditorium, fulfilled all expectations. Miss Gieselman was director, and Mary C. Craven accompanist, in a satisfying program. The solo part in "The Weaver" was taken by Mary Louise Bowles. Katherine Davidson played the violin, with Betty Leek as accompanist, and Genevieve Lott gave a Moszkowski number.

Annual Freshman Party

The Freshman class of 1929-30 entertained with a formal dance in Butler gymnasium, November 15, at 8 P. M., in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Roemer, the faculty, staff, guests and upper-classmen of Lindenwood College. In the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Roemer, Dean Gipson, Miss Virginia Sue Campbell, the sponsor of the Freshman class, and the class officers: Dolly Kircher, president; Catherine Carper, vice president; Betty Blue, secretary, and Ruth Roselle, treasurer.

The gymnasium was very artistically decorated in four autumn colors, shading from a pale yellow to a burnt orange. The walls were a profusion of early fall leaves, and the ceiling was divided into five large arches of rustic colors. The program consisted of a play which was called a "Fall Fantasy." This was written by the entertainment committee, and directed by Miss Duggan of the physical education department and Miss Gordon of the oratory department. The scene of the fantasy is in a forest, where a shepherd boy and girl are looking for their lost sheep. Wearied with the search and afraid of the cold and bitter fall, the children lie down to rest and fall asleep. As they sleep the spirit of fall transforms through their dreams their ideas of her season from one of fear and dread to one of beauty and gaiety. In the dreams the children see a series of dances, consisting of the lady in the moon and the moonbeams, the wind and leaves, Jack Frost and his helpers, the sun and the brownies. The little boy and girl awake to find their sheep, and they now look forward to fall with all its pleasures and beauties.

After the grand march, clever favors were presented. The men received boutonnières, and the ladies were given small crepe paper dolls. During the evening everyone went to the dining room for refreshments. The party was one of the prettiest and most enjoyable of the season, and the Freshmen have certainly proved themselves to be splendid entertainers.

Greetings From Afar

The Chicago Lindenwood College Club met at the Harriet Hammond McCormick Memorial Residence, October 11. Mrs. L. A. Fritze (Corinne Tie-mann, 1918) presided at the business meeting. Mrs. L. C. Funkhouser (Eugenie Mermod, 1880) read a very interesting letter from his daughter, Mrs. Colegrove, in which she described a wonderful trip which she made through the Chateaux country in France. Mrs. Fritze brought greetings from the Kansas City Club, the Los Angeles and the San Francisco Clubs, as she had recently returned from a visit to California.

Mrs. P. S. Mason of Newkirk, Okla., writes that her daughter Persis Mason (1927-28), who is now now in Los Angeles, has "pleasant memories of her year at Lindenwood" and is an interested member of the Lindenwood Club of Southern California.

A faculty recital at the Thursday assembly in Roemer Auditorium, November 7, gave the students opportunity to hear the director of music, Mr. John Thomas, in a delightful repertoire which ranged from Beethoven to a phantasy of his own composition, also charming violin numbers by Miss Isidor, with Miss Rhodes as accompanist.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

In a Chillicothe, Ohio, newspaper, under the popular modern caption, "Twenty-five Years Ago," appears a bit of history concerning Lindenwood's Dean of Students:

"October 25, 1904: Mrs. J. L. Roemer is entertaining her Sunday School class this afternoon at her home on East Fourth street."

A strain of memory carries one back to still earlier days, remembering the fact that Mary Easton Sibley, founder of Lindenwood, established "the first Sunday School in St. Charles."

London Lecturer

Lindenwood reaps obvious rewards from its students' diligence in history. Through the affiliation of the college International Relations Club with the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, an eminent speaker from London, England, Mr. G. Douglas Booth, was brought for an address in Roemer Auditorium, Tuesday night, November 26. Mr. Booth spoke on "Anglo-American Relations of World Peace," based on his own manifold experiences internationally. A Canadian who served with the British forces as a major during the war, he has lived in Morocco, Egypt, Rhodes, Patmos, and other countries, gaining such experience that he is now, under the Royal Institute of International Affairs in England, making a five-years' study of international problems as affecting Italy. His address was one of the intellectual high lights of the year at Lindenwood.

Armistice Day

Lindenwood's principal Armistice Day service was on the night before, which was Sunday, at vespers, when Dr. R. Calvin Dobson, pastor of the St. Louis First Presbyterian Church, preached a comprehensive sermon with the title, "The Maker of Peace," and the choir sang.

On Armistice Day proper, the Board of Directors was meeting at Lindenwood for its Fall session. The president of the board, Dr. John W. MacIvor, spoke briefly but fittingly to the girls at noon chapel, on "Womanhood," and each and every member of the board was presented on the platform. It might be mentioned that after luncheon the board took an active interest in Lindenwood's farm, paying a personal visit thereto. The board found the entire college prospering, and every department "carrying on" with full work and enthusiasm.

Miss Betty Birch, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Chester Birch of Toledo, Ohio, and a 1928 graduate of Lindenwood, is still being honored for her ability as a play writer. In the Toledo Blade of November 9, there appeared an excellent picture of Miss Birch, and an article telling that her play "Patricia" is to be presented under her direction on December 13, at the Collingwood Avenue Presbyterian Church, of Toledo. Miss Birch, while at Lindenwood, wrote several prize plays and musical comedies, which were given here, and it is with much pleasure that one hears of her success in other places.

All Business Women

So many complimentary reports have come in from former girls in the business department that Miss Allyn may well be happy. Stenographers, secretaries, teachers, even a few managers of the business end of companies!

Among the ranks of teachers are Miss Ruth Sprecklemeyer, teaching commercial work in Esther, Mo., and Miss Miriam Schwarz, '22, commercial teacher at University City, Mo. From New York comes word of Miss Sarah Levine, '22, who is an accountant in a large electrical contracting company and "more in love with her work than ever." Miss Winifred Bell has complete charge of the Bell Chevrolet Sales Company in Ishpeming, Mich., and in addition, takes charge of her father's veterinary business.

And then we come to the stenographers. Miss Theresa Cahn is in Montgomery, Alabama, stenographer for a wholesale dry goods company, while Miss Helen Sweeney is in the Bell Telephone office at Kansas City, Mo. An Odin, Illinois, bank claims Miss Mary Farthing, '28, while Miss Susan Buckwell is in an insurance office at Carthage, Mo. Miss Margaret Giddons now is in St. Louis, bookkeeper for the Giddons Clothing Company. A Kansas City insurance company has Miss Janice Greene as stenographer, and the teller at the First National Bank, Winona, Mo., is Miss Guinevere Briggs, '28.

* * * *

Miss Evelyn Shirley, A. A. 1927, writes from Pontiac, Mich., that she is enjoying the teaching of shorthand and typewriting in a business institute in that city, and has entire charge of the typewriting department which contains ninety students. Her sister, Dorothy, she says, who was in Lindenwood, 1925-26, is in Boston, studying oratory, and her address is 373 Commonwealth Avenue. Evelyn lives at 113 Henry Clay, Pontiac.

Gaining Early Souvenirs

The Lindenwood graduates of the classes 1870-1880, under the leadership of Miss Clara C. Pullis, '77, of Kirkwood, Mo., have undertaken the collection of souvenirs and portraits of three women important in the early history of Lindenwood—Mary E. Jewell, Anna Priscilla Keith, and Mary Henderson Moore.

Miss Pullis and her co-workers held a meeting at Lindenwood on Founders' Day, October 18. They gave their reports on the lives of these three women, and presented to Dr. Roemer the portraits and souvenirs collected by their efforts to preserve the memory of these women.

Miss Pullis summarized the life of Miss Jewell in the following report:

It was in 1870 that a young woman came from the state of New York to become Lady principal and teacher of the sciences at Lindenwood College. She had put herself through college, receiving degrees, which in those days were not shovelled out so plentifully as today. She began her teaching career in a girls' school in the state of New Jersey. For ten years she served Lindenwood faithfully and well; first as Lady principal, and later assuming the responsibilities of President. In 1880 she resigned her position, for she had made other plans. Married, and after a few years becoming a widow, she has lived an absolutely retired life, living in a beautiful home, surrounded by all that is beautiful and lovely, in keeping with her beautiful character—with her flowers and shrubs, her works of art, her beloved books and her God. Her girls adored her and today they wish to demonstrate that fact, in a desire to bring her back to the place where she reigned with a wand of love, therein to remain forever.

Dr. Roemer, in the names of a few living representatives of the years from 1870 to 1880, we will present the portrait of Mary E. Jewell, the beloved and perfect teacher.

Mrs. Nellie Drury Hardy read her "Tribute to the Memory of Mrs. Anna Priscilla Keith, who passed on January 4, 1920, aged 95 years." This is her report:

It is natural to admire and revere the memory of the Christian Educators of our youth. They hallow the positions they occupy, and lift up not only those who live in their time and with them, but those who live after them. As for institutions, however good in themselves, they avail but little in maintaining high morals. It is the individual leaders and the spirit that actuates them, that determines the moral standing of a college. Mrs. Keith was Matron and Mother at Lindenwood from 1870 to 1878, and I take the liberty of quoting from a letter written recently by one of the students of her time: "I am sure that none of the hundreds of girls who have come and gone since we were there, love Lindenwood any better than I. I almost shed tears over the picture of the Tablet and its surrounding chaperones, so vividly did it bring back the days of yore and the girls with whom I wintered and summered for five happy, carefree years. You know I was motherless and just twelve when that refuge was found for me. I loved and revered Mrs. Keith as the finest type of woman. If the years were lean and hard at Lindenwood little did we care or know, for we felt that we were associated with the highest type of man and woman."

Miss Pullis read the letter she had received from Mr. Edgar Moore, of Los Angeles, on his forwarding of the souvenirs she requested on behalf of the school:

This is in reply to your letter concerning the diploma of Miss Mollie Henderson and other early Lindenwood souvenirs kept by my mother.

I am sending by registered mail her diploma, the 1859 commencement programme, the opening announcement printed in 1857 when Dr. A. V. C. Schenek was president and her photograph, the last one she had taken.

While we prize these souvenirs very highly, my brothers and I are glad to forward them to you for the purpose you request. The letter written on the back of the circular was written by Rev. John W. Robinson, a Presbyterian preacher, in reply to a letter from Mr. A. H. Henderson regarding a college for his daughter, Mollie Henderson, to attend.

I wish to thank you for the picture of the memorial tablet to the early presidents you enclosed.

My brothers and I appreciate your letters about Lindenwood College. As far back as I can remember I have heard my mother speak of her college days at Lindenwood. She used to sing her children to sleep with the Lindenwood College hymn, "Loving Kindness." This hymn was sung every morning in the chapel when she attended there as it was the custom then for the students to select one hymn to act as a reminder of Lindenwood ever after when they heard it sung.

The life of Mollie Henderson portrays a beautiful character and I doubt not that her college days at Lindenwood contributed largely to develop her high ideals.

Consequently, Lindenwood now includes among her souvenirs of the past: a portrait of Mary E. Jewell, a framed photograph of Mrs. Keith, a framed picture of Mrs. Mary Henderson Moore, a framed diploma (Mollie Henderson's) awarded in 1859, a framed commencement program from 1859, and a framed announcement of the opening of Lindenwood College for the year of 1857.

Those interested in gathering these relics, who attended the Founders' Day meeting were: Miss Clara C. Pullis, '77; Mrs. Nellie Drury Hardy, '76; Mrs. Ambler and Miss Keith, '73 and '76, daughters of Mrs. Anna Priscilla Keith; Miss S. A. McElhinney, '79; Mrs. Clara Christie Mellor, '75; Mrs. Emma McElhinney Brouster, '75; Mrs. Ella Fairman Koeneke, '73; Mrs. Douglas V. Martin, '76; Mrs. William M. McVeigh, '87, and Mrs. Charles W. Wilson, '77.

Personals

President Roemer filled the pulpit of Grace Methodist Church in St. Louis, on a recent Sunday, pending the arrival of that church's new pastor from Seattle. Apropos of St. Louis and Lindenwood's president, one wonders if all the old Lindenwood girls noted the fact that a Sunday magazine writer of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat selected Dr. Roemer, with his picture and the picture of Roemer Hall, as the subject of a full-page article on October 20.

The St. Louis Club of resident students will give a party at Christmas. Betty Weinert is president.

St. Louis Party

The St. Louis Lindenwood College Club entertained at bridge at Hotel Chase, on Saturday afternoon, November 2, as a benefit for the Mary Easton Sibley scholarship fund.

Mrs. Roemer, Dean Gipson and Miss Linnemann were honor guests. The general chairman of arrangements was Mrs. J. H. Dickerson (Eva Seiber), and committee chairmen were Mrs. Lorraine Thompson Bernero, Mrs. Clarence Becker (Martha Richards), Mrs. O. K. Sanders (Ethel Chadsey), and Mr. Edgar Blankenmesiter (Helen Adamy).

Homemade candy was sold by Misses Natalie Sanders, Dorothy Ann Krueger and a group of their friends.

Announcement was made that Mrs.

Arthur S. Goodall (Euneva Lynn) would be hostess to the club on November 25, at her home, 7315 Kingsbury Boulevard.

College Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving Day, as always, was a day when each student, like Goldsmith's "village preacher," never "changed nor wished to change his place." Everyone stayed gladly at home.

Next issue will announce the outcome of the hockey game which began the day, and in which was emphasized the new college idea that sports are for recreation and refreshment, chiefly.

Dr. Donald C. MacLeod, Executive Secretary of the St. Louis Presbytery, gave the Thanksgiving sermon, and at this service the choir sang the anthem, "Glorious Forever," by Rachmaninoff, and the offertory anthem, "The Lord is My Shepherd," by Schubert. The student body sang "America," and the President's Proclamation was read by Elizabeth Bowling. Maxine Luther was accompanist for the singing.

Miss Lucile Cracroft, new in the staff of the expression department, directed her first play at Lindenwood, Thanksgiving night, in Roemer Auditorium. This was "The Tightwad," a three-act comedy by Robert Keith, presented under Y. W. C. A. auspices. The roles were taken by Virginia Furnish, Wilene Browning, Ruth Talbott, Muriel Wiesbaum, Katherine Disque, Marcella Schmitt, Anna Marie Balsiger, Charlotte Jegi, Pauline Brown, Frances Levers and Marjorie Wycoff. The play was the final social event of the day, and capped the tea-dance of the afternoon, to which the girls were permitted to invite outside guests.

California Club Honors Class of '79

The following interesting account of the meeting was written for the Bulletin by Mrs. Robert L. Hubbard, recording secretary of the club:

The October meeting of the Lindenwood College Club of Southern California was a jubilee meeting, a celebration in honor of two of our members who were in Lindenwood in 1879—fifty years ago! These honored guests, Mrs. Carrie Peers Bowler and Mrs. Nettie Graham Coogle, were introduced after a short business meeting, by our president, Mrs. Alberta Dieckmann. Mrs. Bowles was in the '79 class and gave a most interesting talk of Lindenwood as it was at that time. She had a scrap-book which contained a detailed account (clipped from a St. Charles paper) of the graduation exercises; the Baccalaureate sermon by Dr. Irwin, a description of the dresses worn by the graduates and a class history.

She read the class history written by Gussie Fredericks, whom some of us of years later, remembered as a penmanship teacher. She also brought her sheepskin which was printed and written in Latin.

Mrs. Coogle matriculated in September, 1879. Her many happy expectations were more than fulfilled during the years she spent there. She brought some pictures and a few of us found several familiar faces. Mrs. "Peg" Wilcox Richardson told us of a more modern Lindenwood. Many interesting comparisons were made between then and now.

The tables were indeed a "joy to behold," a dream in yellow and white chrysanthemums and pampas plumes, the art and gift of our Nellie Boal. Corsage bouquets of yellow and white roses were presented to our guests and president. Truly a most enjoyable meeting and one long to be remembered!

Births

Mr. and Mrs. George Presley Bristow of Omaha, Nebraska, have announced the birth of "Allen Presley Bristow" on July 11. Mrs. Bristow was Mary Norine Nye (1919) of Kearney, Nebraska.

A unique "radio" announcement comes from "Station Baby." Dr. Stork at the microphone announces the arrival of Donald Ramon Smith on October 27 to Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Smith, Shelton, Nebraska. Mrs. Smith attended Lindenwood in 1926-'27.

Dorritt Jean White, a prospective member of the class of '50, arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin White, Norman, Oklahoma, on November 14. Lindenwood is congratulating her uncle, Dr. Kurt B. Stumberg, and her cousin, Miss Frances Stumberg, of the faculty. Mrs. Martin was formerly Miss Dorritt Stumberg of St. Charles. She is an alumna of Lindenwood, 1913, and after graduate work in this country and abroad, she taught psychology here.
