"Laying Up a Good Foundation"

Lindenwood Counts Deeds, Not Years, on Founders' Day

Dear and venerated shades of Lindenwood must have lingered near on Friday, October 18, in the atmosphere of remembrance and gratitude which enveloped the beautiful observance by the college of Founders' Day. Events that had been planned for weeks had their fulfillment. It was a holy day as well as a hospitable day. The alumnae board and the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club engaged the day as a time of reunion. There were no lessons. There was a procession and exercises in Roemer Hall, where President Roemer presided and President H. M. Gage of Coe College spoke; there was luncheon "with hot rolls"; there was a new campus program of "Play Day" for present and former students; then a Founders' Day dinner at 6:30, as bountiful as it sounds, and an evening reception and dance engineered by the college Y. W. C. A., which represents Lindenwood girls 100 per cent. No one left the campus all day. It was like Thanksgiving, a time of getting better acquainted one with another.

Dr. H. M. Gage of Cedar Rapids, speaker of the day with the topic, "Nationalism, Internationalism, Education," was introduced by Dr. Roemer in the order of exercises at 11 o'clock in Roemer Auditorium. Dr. Roemer spoke first, for a little, of the meaning of Founders' Day. He said:

"Over 100 years ago the foundation of Lindenwood College was laid by Major and Mrs. Sibley, whereby the superstructure of the institution as it is today was made possible. Among the distinguished benefactors who made the modern Lindenwood a possibility were the late Col. and Mrs. James Gay Butler of St. Louis.

"It was the purpose of Col. and Mrs. Butler to carry out the purpose of the Sibleys in establishing a school for young women that would be second to none in the country. With their financial assistance we have been developing such a school as lived in the minds and hearts of the Sibleys and the Butlers. Col. Butler often stated that his purpose was the promotion of a school for young women that would stand for a 'useful life.' In going back over the records of the institution, we find that he was of the same mind as Mrs. Sibley, who established as the early slogan of the school the phrase, 'a useful life.'

"Lindenwood has just started really on its future greatness. We have come through the period of grade and secondary school to an institution of higher learning accredited by the best universities and colleges of the land. It is our desire to remember in great kindness the sacrifices and the hardships through which our pioneers passed, in making Lindenwood a possibility. We shall never forget those who, having been blessed with large means, have transmitted their wealth into life.

"On this day we consecrate ourselves to the memory and to the purposes of those who lived and gave for this college."

President Gage gave an address of wide scope, showing that the problems of nationalism and internationalism may be solved by educational processes. Coe College, of which he is president, is a well-known institution of the Presbyterian Church. He said:

"It is assumed that education is of both mind and heart, and that an ethical as well as an intellectual basis of civilization is possible.

"Whatever we may do nationally and individually for world fellowship will be by way of applying the ideal of service. 'Service' is an overworked word. In it there is a touch of banality. The restaurant motto, 'We aim to serve,' means 'We aim to please.' That is just a trade-getter's common sense. In it is no suggestion of moral grandeur. Real service, however, is sublime. For men and nations it is the only way to greatness, the only constructive way to promote the evolution of civilization.

"Service grows out of a recognition of the intrinsic and unique value of individuals. By reason of this recognition, organized or specialized society becomes a possibility and human fellowship a blessed reality.

"In World Fellowship we are dealing always and only with human nature. The 'parliament of man' will be achieved by a recognition of the inherent value of the various races and nations of the earth, and the organization of their differences and specialized services into a genuine fellowship.

"Each nation of the earth has some contribution of intrinsic and unique worth to world fellowship. Even the most backward peoples have undeveloped graces and gifts and uneducated talent wherewith in time to enrich our civilization.

"Uncle Sam will enter into the fellowship of the nations of the earth, bearing the gift of his Americanism. For wherever he goes, he will go as an American. His contribution will be as unique as the clothes he traditionally wears.

"First, he will offer to the world our American sense of democratic equality.

"There ain't no man wears a label that I'd read,

And if there was, I'd stick to this unfaillin' plan—

A feller's what he does."

"Secondly, he will give to the world our ideals of freedom. The true American believes especially in freedom to speak and write publicly. He believes in government by discussion.

"Thirdly, he will give to others our American sense of responsibility for the welfare of all of our citizens. In the beginning America gave to Europe potatoes, corn and tobacco. Since then, we have given hundreds of scientific discoveries and inventions. But nothing given compares in value with our sense of responsibility for the education of our entire citizenship. This nation is attempting to do what no other nation has done more than to dream of doing, namely, to give what amounts to a higher education to everyone who wants it, and practically free of cost to the individual. Herein our Americanism is progressive. For we are attempting to use education, not to preserve a status quo, not to keep things everlastingly as they have been, but to promote the development of life itself, and especially to develop individuals to the highest possible degree of perfection.

"In conclusion: bearing these gifts to the peoples of the earth, our America may enter into world fellowship without fear of losing our Americanism. If one had to choose between nationalism and internationalism, I would choose nationalism. A woman who gives her energies to other people's children and neglects her own, is not a good mother. A man who neglects his own community to labor for the uplift of another is not a good citizen. But the supposed dilemma is not real. Internationalism is not Anti-nationalism. Intercollegiate athletics is not an anti-collegiate. Good intercollegiate relations of all kinds depend on a strong college spirit on the part of all the related institutions. So, too, good international relations depend on an expression of all those qualities of inherent and unique excellence that characterizes the national spirit of the various peoples of the earth."

The Lindenwood choir sang, and the student body rendered some of the college songs which have already grown familiar through several assembly song-fests.

Immediately after the luncheon, the former students and alumnae held various semi-formal meetings. Mrs. Arthur Krueger as president of the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club, presided at a well attended though brief session.

The board of the Alumnae Association met at 1:30 in Sibley parlors. As now organized this board consists of Mrs. Arthur Gale, of Webster Groves, president emeritus; Mrs. Victor Rhodes of St. Louis, president; the following vice-presidents, Mrs. D. V. Martin, Miss Alma Stumberg, both of St. Charles; Miss Grace Larson of the college faculty; Mrs. Paul F. Donnelly, Kansas City; Mrs. C. B. Wagner, Chicago; Mrs. C. H. Baker, Pasadena, Calif.; Mrs. G. H. Pegram, New York; treasurer, Mrs. G. M. Null, St. Charles; corresponding secretary, Miss Sarah McElhiney, St. Louis; recording secretary, Miss Aimee Becker, St. Charles; auditor, Mrs. L. D. Hynson, St. Louis; advisor, Miss Alice A. Linnemann, head of Lindenwood's art department.

These and many others went quietly to the graves, some time during the day, of Major and Mrs. Sibley and other early benefactors whose monuments are in Lindenwood's small, picketed enclosure at the back of the campus. The graves had been decorated with flowers by students of the art department, following their custom of years.

At Founders' Day dinner, President and Mrs. Roemer were hosts to many friends at 6:30 o'clock. Table decorations were in college colors, white and yellow.

The same blending of the white and yellow,—yellow squares upon a white background—brightened the walls of the Butler Gym., where the college Y. W. C. A., headed by Mary Catherine Craven of Excelsior Springs, Mo., now a senior, was in charge of a pleasant reception and dance. There was a program consisting of a solo by Dolores Fisher of Shawnee, Okla., and a performance of the old-fashioned Minuet. This was supervised by Miss Duggan, of the physical education department, who likewise had charge of the "play day" of the afternoon, where some few grandmothers even forgot their years in modern sports and folk games of the great outdoors.

Are You Teachers?

If you of Lindenwood can answer this question in the affirmative, something very pleasant awaits just around the corner. President Roemer has announced that he wishes to be host at a noonday banquet at the new Lennox Hotel in St. Louis, at Ninth street and Washington boulevard, on Friday, November 15, at 12:15 o'clock. The special guests are to be the Lindenwood girls who will be in attendance at the Missouri State Teachers' Association, which is to be in progress in St. Louis that week.

The request is made that any Lindenwood former students who are numbered with this band of teachers and who can be in St. Louis at that time, shall communicate with Secretary Motley at the college, as early as possible.

Art for Christmas

Miss Linnemann has started a Saturday art class to give students opportunity to make Christmas presents in enamels, lacquer, wood-block, stenciling, polychrome, tied and dyed, batik, parchment lamp shades and the like. It is being carried on in the art studio, third floor Roemer Hall.

The art club has elected Jane Tomlinson, student president; Dorothy Schleicher, vice-president; Lillian Rasmussen, secretary, and Evelyn Elben, treasurer.

The World's a Small Place

How often people remark "Why, the world's a small place after all!" when they discover old friends among the new. On the Lindenwood Freshman list of this year is the name Betty Blue, and back of this name lies a story which concerns a little group of girl friends who lived not so very long ago in Morgantown, West Virginia.

Col. Richard Blue and Mrs. Blue (Betty's grandparents) moved from West Virginia to Kansas, but later they returned to Morgantown for a visit, bringing with them their small son "Johnnie." He soon joined in play with three small girls, "Lillie" (Mrs. Roemer), "Edna" (Miss Hough), and two others, "Madge" and "Marion." The five children played together happily, until "Johnnie" returned home to Kansas. One of the group, "Lillie," received a picture and a printed letter from him telling how much he enjoyed his visit.

Years passed and the five drifted apart to different states, "Lillie" to become the wife of a future president of Lindenwood. "Johnnie" married a lady from Missouri, and now their daughter, Betty, who is the image of her father and resembles Grandfather Blue, a former United States Senator from Kansas, is attending Lindenwood.

One More Name

Attention has been called to a clerical omission in the list of names in Lindenwood's Memorial Tablet Book—that of Emma Walton Bland (Mrs. Robert E.) who was in residence at Lindenwood in 1872 and who now lives in Jacksonville, Ill. The name is being added, with apologies.

Teachers Get Acquainted

All the faculty, new and old, felt that the year had started just right, with the dinner in their exclusive honor which Dr. and Mrs. Roemer gave in Ayres Hall, on Friday night, September 27. There were about 80 guests, for some of the faculty are married, and also one met the Superintendent of the St. Charles Schools, and the high school principal, each accompanied by his wife. Rev. Dwight Bradley of Webster Groves, who is soon to go east to a Boston church, spoke on, "The Art of Reading: How to Master and How to Teach It."

News of Old Girls

Two girls, who were freshmen in '25-'26, Thelma Parker and Eddie Loud, are teaching in Fort Smith, Ark. Miss Parker is Home Economics teacher in the Junior High there, and Miss Loud is teaching music and art in the Elementary Schools.

Margaret A. Roberts ('24-'26) is doing social work in Tulsa with the Family Welfare Society. Her work is very interesting, and her only regret is that she was too busy last June to attend the Roemer Celebration.

Doris Achelpohl of St. Charles and Virginia Brown, Nickerson, Kansas, both recent graduates of Lindenwood, are now connected with the University Library of the Illinois University.

Mrs. Louis Meyer, missing the Bulletin, sends word of her marriage several months ago,—“change of name and change of address.” The former Joyce Overall (1924-26) of Campbell, Mo., is now Mrs. Louis Meyer, of Gideon, Mo.

Mary Easton Sibley Dream

Of interest to Lindenwood students of yesterday and today was Dr. Roemer's announcement in chapel Wednesday morning, October 16, that "If Dreams Came True," a volume of poetry by Norma Paul Ruedi (a member of this year's Senior Class) is now on sale in the Lindenwood Book Store.

The publishers are donating the net proceeds on each book sold to the Mary Easton Sibley Scholarship Fund. Here is the chance for Lindenwood girls to do their part for the Scholarship Fund and at the same time to own a book of a Lindenwood girl. Miss Ruedi will be glad to autograph any book before it is mailed to the purchaser.

Sympathy Extended

Lindenwood extends sympathy to Mrs. Sarah Jarvis Seele, 217 Westgate Ave., St. Louis (1890-93), for the death of her husband, Frederick W. Seele, on September 12.

Friends of the former Ogle girls who were in college here ten years ago will sympathize with them in the death of their father, Mr. Russell H. Ogle, of St. Louis, which occurred early in October, at his home in St. Louis after a brief illness.

Dr. Kate L. Gregg and Miss Mabel Clement, of faculty and administrative staff, were visitors in Alton, Ill., at an event which indirectly concerns Lindenwood—the recent dedication of the Lincoln-Douglas Debate monument. Alton, it will be remembered, is a city which received its name from Alton Easton, Mrs. Mary Easton Sibley's brother. Dr. Gregg and Miss Clement observed that a new school in the town is being erected, by name the "Rufus Easton."

Weddings

Three more brides are added to the annals of '25-'26. Miss Hester Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horton George Hayes of Kansas City, was married to Mr. Joseph Henry Crawford, August 10th. On September 21 Miss Catherine Ann Bradley, daughter of Mrs. Flora Effie Bradley, was married to Mr. Austin Daniel Sturtevant in Beatrice, Nebraska. The young couple are at home in the Tadousac Apartments, Omaha, Nebraska. September 23 was the wedding day of Miss Rosalind Mary Mueller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Mueller, Belleville, Ill. Miss Mueller, who had as her bridesmaid, Miss Ruth K. Wangelin of 616 East "C" Street, Belleville, her Lindenwood roommate, is now Mrs. Lester C. Wagnen. Her new home is on 420 South Pennsylvania Ave., Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fine Tinsman have announced the marriage of their daughter, Katharine, to Mr. Hendley Kissinger Patton on September 21, in Dallas, Texas. Mrs. Patton attended Lindenwood in 1920-'24.

Another Texas bride is Miss Margaret Louise McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Arthur McDonald, who was married to Mr. Alfred Major Reed on July 10 in Port Arthur, Texas. Mrs. Reed, who will be at home at 2001 Clawson Street, Alton, Illinois, attended Lindenwood in '27-'28.

Miss Dorothy Lou Fairchild ('24-'25), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Otis Fairchild, was married to Mr. Joseph Evans Wellman on October 1 in Portland, Oregon. Her new address is 3241 East Douglas, Wichita, Kansas.

From La Grange, Illinois, comes the announcement of the marriage of Miss Anna Louise Gumm, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Gumm, to Mr. Frederick Alvin Masterson on August 17. Mrs. Masterson, who attended Lindenwood '21-'22, was later a member of the Chicago Civic Grand Opera Co., and in '26-'27 was with Pavley-Oukranisky and the New York Grand Opera Co. Mr. and Mrs. Masterson are at home, Schroon Lake, New York, in the Oscar Seagle Colony.

October 12 in Sparta, Illinois, Miss Helen Hood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Alfred Hood, was married to Mr. Ralph Eugene Brown. Mrs. Brown attended Lindenwood in 1921-22.

Two old Lindenwood girls, Laura Lee Thomas ('26-'27) and Marian Suleeba ('26-'27) attended the wedding of Marguerite Fischer, a student of '25-'27. Miss Fischer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Fischer of Mt. Olive, Illinois, became the bride of Mr. William Sterling Spiker of Atlanta, Georgia, on September 12. Their new address is 1410 Peachtree St., Apt. 406, Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Henney of 1631 Central Ave., Alton, Illinois, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mildred Henney, to Mr. Raymond C. Hughes of Chicago. The marriage took place in Champaign on September 20. Mrs. Hughes, who graduated from the class of '28, is better known to Lindenwood as "Billie." She has been assistant librarian in the University Library of University of Illinois since last June.

From East St. Louis, Illinois, comes the announcement of the marriage of Miss Beatrice Fulgham (1919-'20) to Mr. James J. Litsey on June 29.

Lindenwood may partly claim another June bride. Miss Nadine L. Taber Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Jones, who attended Lindenwood for the first semester of 1926-'27, was married on June 14 in South Bend, Ind., to Mr. Mason E. North.

The class of 1929 is extending congratulations to one of their members, Miss Josephine Mackey, who was married September 21 to Mr. Glenn A. Hawes in McAlester, Oklahoma. Mr. and Mrs. Hawes give their address as 1239 North Lottie Street, Oklahoma, City, Oklahoma.

Engaged

The engagement has been announced of Miss Margaret Warner (1925-27), daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Warner of St. Louis, to Mr. Clinton B. Burnett, of Waukegan, Ill.

"The Wedding Bell"

"Jerry and Jack To Wed Soon" is the banner head of a clever little paper entitled "The Wedding Bell." This extra was released at the announcement party of Miss Geraldine Curreathers, to inform all her friends of her approaching marriage to Mr. John Hamilton Putney on October 15 at 8 o'clock in the First Baptist Church of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Lindenwood remembers "Jerry" as a student of '24-'26. Her sister, Maxine, who is also an L. C. girl, was the originator of the clever "forma" announcement."

Cardinal Bride

The "Cardinals" have won again, but this time their representative is Mr. Taylor Lee Douthit, who is as adept in the game of matrimony as he is in the National League games. The bride is Miss Anna Jane Shelton (1920-22 A. A.), daughter of Mrs. James Cowper Shelton and niece of our own Mr. Motley. The marriage ceremony was performed on October 14 in the First Baptist Church of Kansas City. Mr. and Mrs. Douthit are now on their way home to Oakland, California, returning from Havana via the Canal Zone.

Miss Ruth Bullion, A. B. 1929, president of her class, is teaching physical education in a junior high school in her home town, Little Rock, Ark.

Rev. Dr. Robert W. Ely of the Jefferson Street Presbyterian Church, and Rev. R. S. Kenaston of the Methodist Church, have been two vespers speakers from St. Charles recently. Both have been heard in other years and are always warmly welcomed.

The class elections have been held. Officers of the senior class are: Mary Sue Wisdom, president; Mary Mason, vice-president; Dorothy Gartner, secretary, and Julia Thompson, treasurer. The junior officers are: Helen Weber, president; Mary Louise Wardley, vice-president; Aileen Horton, secretary, and Dorothea Lange, treasurer.

From Many States

The Choral Club has indeed a large membership this year, as is seen from the frontispiece. Miss Gieselman is quite pleased to have so many girls and from such different parts of the country.

The following are members: Mary Louise Bowles, Perry, Okla.; Betty Blue, Tulsa, Okla.; Anna Balsiger, Kansas City; Pauline Brown, Leavenworth, Kan.; Isabelle Burkland, Lancaster, Mo.; Eleanor Cissna, Abilene, Kans.; Helen Copenhaver, Devil's Lake, N. Dak.; Dorothy Comstock, Auburn, Iowa; Mary Dobson, Mowequa, Ill.; Dolores Fisher, Shawnee, Okla.; Iris Fleischaker, Joplin, Mo.; Dorothy Gartner, Chillicothe, Ohio; Mariette Gates, La Plata, Mo.; Gretchen Hunker, Salisbury, Mo.; Anita Hepler, Winfield, Kans.; Allene Horton, Hope, Ark.; Lenora Hockmon, Mt. Vernon, Ind.; Myrle Ham, Oakley, Kans.; Florence Harrison, Great Bend, Kans.; Dorothy Isern, Ellinwood, Kans.; Jeraldine Johnson, Peabody, Kans.; Mary Jenkins, St. Charles; Mary Lee Johnson, Michigan City, Ind.; Margaret Jacobson, Lexington, Neb.; Marjorie Keyes, Roswell, N. Mex.; Frances Levers, Roswell, N. Mex.; Camilla Luther, Cimarron, Kans.; Kathryn Leibrock, Nashville, Ill.; Eleanor Krickhaus, Mt. Vernon, Ill.; Eleanor McFarland, Sharon, Pa.; Mary Frances McKee, Benton, Ill.; Eugenia Martyn, Columbus, Neb.; Ethel Mitchell, Pawhuska, Okla.; Nanette Marcus, Dumas, Ark.; Martha Rich, Keokuk, Iowa; Dorothy Rendlen, Hannibal, Mo.; Dorothy Sutton, Little Rock, Ark.; Rosemary Schreiber, St. Charles; Marcella Schmitt, Milwaukee, Wis.; Mildred Trippel, O'Fallon, Ill.; Virginia Thompson, Kiowa, Kans.; Lucille Winkelmeyer, Salisbury, Mo.; Winifred

Williams, Council Bluffs, Iowa; La Vern Wright, Wichita, Kans.; Mary Elizabeth Williams, Mt. Carmel, Ill.; Mary Celeste Wollenman and Beth Wollenman, Corder, Mo.; Margaret Wolf, Ellinwood, Kans.; Mary Wilson, Lee Yeager, both of Oklahoma City, Okla.; and Mary Evans, Sterling, Kans.

Personals

Among Lindenwood visitors for October were Mr. and Mrs. K. K. Patton. Mrs. Patton (Katherine Tinsman, '20-'24) insisted that the "Honeymoon Itinerary" include Lindenwood.

Society columns of Montgomery, Ala., recently carried a lovely portrait of Mrs. George English, Jr., of Dayton, O., who was formerly Lillian Beryl Gist (1909-10). She is accounted a brilliant musician, having finished her musical education under Zan Aacheim of the Royal Conservatory of Warsaw.

Mrs. Anna Chidester Edgar, a teacher of other years now residing in Walla Walla, Wash., writes pleasantly telling of a kindly gift sent by a teacher much younger, Miss Alice Edna Hanna, of the Malen Burnett School of Music in Walla Walla, who was a student at Lindenwood some twenty years ago.

Mr. Leo C. Miller, once Lindenwood's music department head, returned on Thursday, October 17, for an assembly recital which presented an unusual range in material, while preserving a fine pianistic tradition. With him was Mrs. Miller, whom Lindenwood remembers as Dorothy Ingersoll (1917-19), and who was once Alpha Mu Mu president.

Announcement has been made that Hugh Walpole, the distinguished English novelist, will speak at Lindenwood, Thursday, February 27. His rather odd topic will be, "The Art and Immorality of the Novel."

"After College, What?"

Dean Gipson's leaflet, "After College, What?" has been reviewed at some length by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, because of its general interest to all college girls. "The girl who desires to teach has a comparatively easy problem," says Dr. Gipson, referring to the various courses of study along accustomed lines, but she takes up the "combinations" of many sorts which may be best preparation for the girl, not at all a rare specimen now-a-days, who desires to take up some other calling.

These opportunities are classified under general heads of Dietetics, Foods and Institutional Management, Costume Design, Interior Decoration, Social Service and Sociology. She analyzes the work needed, and the supplementary courses in line with such vocations. Preceding this is a brief discussion of music, business, public speaking, art and other possible careers for women. This informing little brochure, all of which is based on the studies current at Lindenwood, may be had "for the asking o't."

A Social Princess

Miss Evalyn Pierpoint, a former member of the Class of 1932, has gained quite a social distinction in Omaha, Nebraska, her home town.

Every year eighteen Omaha girls are chosen by the board of Ak-Sar-Ben to attend the queen on her coronation night, October 4, as princesses. This year, Miss Evalyn Pierpoint is one of those honored eighteen.

It will be remembered that Evalyn Pierpoint was the girl who made the highest grade in Lindenwood, last year. She also gained high recognition as a violinist in the music department.

This year she is in Colorado.

Events

Dr. R. Calvin Dobson, pastor of the St. Louis First Presbyterian Church, gave a vespers address on the night of October 13, on "Soul Teachers." The Bible as a foremost teacher, and its acknowledgment by some of the great men of earth, was a vivid point in his talk.

The first faculty recital of the season, much enjoyed by a large audience, was that of two new teachers, Miss Doris Gieselman, soprano, and Miss Eva Englehart, pianist and accompanist, on Friday night, October 11.

Dr. John F. Caskey, pastor of University Methodist Church, was an appreciated assembly speaker on October 3. Everyone was inquiring about his daughter Frances, Lindenwood A. A. 1926, who now is connected with the book store in the St. Louis Arcade of Doubleday and Doran.

About fifty art students visited the St. Louis Art Museum on a recent Saturday morning pilgrimage. Another visit of class interest was that of Lindenwood's botany students to Shaw's Garden, where, let it be said, these young scientists say they saw signs of an early winter.

Kansas City, Literary

Mrs. Fannie Gill Overall, corresponding secretary of the Kansas City Club, writes:

The Lindenwood College Club of Kansas City held a very enthusiastic meeting Monday, October 14, at the Woman's City Club. After a delicious luncheon, Mrs. Truman Mathews gave a very interesting book review which was enjoyed by all,

St. Louis L. C. Club Meets

September 23 in the Forest Park Hotel, the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club held the first meeting of the year. The hostesses were Mrs. Ella Fairman Koenecke (1873-74) and Mrs. May Harman Ryan (1878-79). After a brief business meeting at which it was decided to hold a benefit bridge November 2 at the Hotel Chase for the Mary Easton Sibley Scholarship Fund, the meeting was turned over to the Chairman of Programs, Mrs. R. J. Davisson (Edna Mae Stebbins, '27). A delightful program was given by Misses Jacquinet Jules and Katherine McIntire, artists at Radio Station KMOX.

Births

A "baby buggy" card contains the announcement of the arrival on September 13 of Stuart Edward, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Addison E. Sutton of Lexington, Nebraska. Mrs. Sutton was Ruth Stuart ('22-'23) before her marriage.

Dr. and Mrs. Hubert C. Ritter of St. Charles have announced the birth of "Paul John" on September 25. Mrs. Ritter was a member of the Lindenwood faculty several years ago.

Another baby named "Paul" arrived in the home of a former Lindenwood girl. Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Lenning announce the birth of "Paul Jones Jr." on October 3, in Russellville, Arkansas. Mrs. Lenning was Elizabeth Ganner of 1922-'24.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Peirce of Needham, Massachusetts have announced the birth of a daughter, "Ann Hathaway," on September 27. Mrs. Peirce is known to Lindenwood girls of several years ago as "Nursie Childs."

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Maclay announce the birth of a daughter, Eleanor Jane, on September 19, at Dallas, Tex. Mrs. Maclay was formerly Eleanor Asdale, B. L. 1912. The Maclay's family now consists of three daughters and one son.

A gay card from Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Goodwin of Jackson, Mo., announces the coming of Lane Alden, who weighs nine pounds, and who arrived October 9. Mrs. Goodwin was formerly Marguerite Bowman, 1922-23.

Mr. and Mrs. John Guy Gibson (Juliet Price, 1916-17), of Jefferson City, Mo., are announcing from October 14, a fine, 11-pound son, to whom they have given the name, Thomas Price Gibson. They say that their little daughter, five-year-old Gaverne, is very proud of her little brother.

Mrs. W. M. Ballard sends news for her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McCabe, Jr., of Hollywood, Calif., announcing the advent on October 12 of a son, Mickey Jerome, Jr., who weighs seven and one-half pounds. The mother was formerly Bess Ballard (1921-22) of Springfield, Ill.
