Committees Named For Lindenwood's Musical Show

The radio department is again at work on the plans for a musical show—to be given some time this spring. When the entertainment is prepared, it will be suitable for high school assemblies, grade school assemblies, radio (perhaps some of the St. Louis stations will have space for some extra broadcasts of this kind), church meetings, camps, and theatres. The initial performance will be given at Lindenwood, before the show goes "on the road".

A meeting was held on February 20th for all those people who had indicated during registration week they wished to do something in connection with the show. Plans for a basic theme to the show were discussed. Last semester, it was suggested by Marilyn Applebaum the show represent a woman's army. This plan may be developed. Also at the meeting, possibilities for specialty numbers were considered. There will be an opportunity for almost every kind of entertainment—when the show is completed, it will include skits, musical numbers, dancing routines, speeches, readings, and other novelties.

Following this meeting, Mr. Stine, with the aid of the radio class, divided the production into 12 different committees and appointed their heads to these. They are: 1. Correlating, Grace Quebbeman; Directors, Marion Wettstone, Grace Quebbeman, and Doris Nahigian; Scripts, Kay Anderson and Margaret Cannon; Music, Mary Dillon, Pat Potter, Dixie Smith, and Lady Morgan; Stage Management, Ann Gardner, Mary Jo Morrill, and Betty Baggeley; Dancing, Rosemary Ed-

Seniors Make Plans For Annual May Day

Initial plans for the annual Lindenwood May Day are now being made by the Senior class. May Day is scheduled to be on May 9, and will be held in connection with Class Day, as was done last year.

Class Day exercises are to be held in the morning, followed by the May Day celebration and crowning of the May Queen in the afternoon. Final arrangements are yet to be made, but it is also planned to have a formal dinner, followed by a dance in the evening. Girls are invited to come to this dance with or without dates. Members of families who are visiting on campus that week-end are also extended a cordial invitation.

Announcement concerning the coming election of the queen and her attendants will come through the Student Activities Committee, but it has been decided that the Senior Class will elect the queen and the Junior Class the maid of honor. The election will probably be held sometime this month.

HALL OF FAME

This week our nomination for the Hall of Fame doesn't hail from just south of the Mason Dixon line, as her name might indicate. No, Dixie Smith is a full-blooded Yankee from Omaha, Nebraska. Listed in Who's Who this year and outstanding as a musician, Dixie is one of the best-known girls on campus.

She is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, honorary music sorority on campus; president of the choir; a member of Beta Pi Theta, national honorary French fraternity; and a representative of the Junior class in the Student Council.

Outside of her vocal ability, Dixie is very domestically inclined, and I think we'll all agree that she will make Hugh a pretty nice wife—not only because she can cook, but also because she has one of the most attractive smiles and one of the best dispositions on the Lindenwood campus.

War Revises Lindenwood Students' Vacation Plans, Bark Poll Reveals

By Patricia Lee

Since the United States' entrance into the war people have felt there is a place for them in the "all out for defense" plan. No exception is the college student. Jobs, whether in defense or not, and summer school are taking the place of the usual three months' vacation. Our poll here at Lindenwood shows the girls are already planning a busy summer.

Martha Laney: "Look for a job teaching elementary school, and play a little (I'd travel if tires weren't rationed)."

"Posy" Edminster: "Work in a radio station. I plan to go to New York in August to enter school."

Barbara Goldenberg: "Enlist in the Ambulance Corps and see the world—I hope."

Carol Bindley: "Work in Chicago on a College Board, maybe. I weigh

FRESHMAN CLASS TO SPONSOR RECREATIONAL LEADERSHIP PROGRAM

Three Lindenwood Representatives at Monticello Conference

Three Lindenwood representatives, Ruth Dayton, Phyllis Branstetter, and Miss Bibbee, attended the conference on "Mobilization and College Woman Power" March 1 and 2 at Monticello College.

The opening session of the conference was devoted to round table discussions. Douglas Miller, author of "You Can't Do Business with Hitler" headed a forum on "Hitler Must Not Win", and Blair Moody, Washington correspondent for the Detroit News and author of "Boom or Burst", led a discussion in which he stressed the fact that the future of America lies in the youth and their enthusiasm to look forward.

In the evening Mr. Miller discussed the subject of his book. He emphasized the three ways in which the war was attacking the United States; religiously, morally, politically, and economically. He closed with the statement, "We must win and we can win. It's written in the stars."

"Victorious in Peace" was the subject of Herbert Agar of the Louisville Journal, who addressed the conference Sunday afternoon. He said we cannot expect to have the cooperation of Asia in winning the war unless we do something about our negro situation.

The findings of the round tables will be placed in the library, and will be available for reference.

Workshop Conference May 1 or 2 To Terminate Eight Weeks' Training

"Are you living B. P. H.?"

This was the challenge of the Freshmen as they launched their program of Recreational Leadership Training for Civilian Defense on March 5. The eight weeks' course which all girls who are interested may take, will culminate on May 1 or 2 in a Workshop Conference.

The Freshmen realize the dangers of "living before Pearl Harbor". They see how college girls can help in the defense program in their home communities during the summer by building health and keeping spirits high. There are many recreational areas that will need volunteer leaders: defense areas, playgrounds, neighborhood centers, camps. Lindenwood students will train to take over these activities.

This program developed out of interest last year for work in camp counseling which Mr. Alfred Wyman, Executive Director of the Park and Playground Association of St. Louis, conducted at Lindenwood in the spring.

Mr. Wyman is coming back to conduct the course in Recreational Leadership this year. The course will run eight weeks. It includes training in mass games, community singing, community group work, recreation for theme days, and simple handcrafts.

The program will end with a Workshop Conference on May 1 or 2 which will be attended by leaders in defense industries and community organization. The conference will take as its project the working out of a community program suitable for civilian defense.

Family Life Conference Called Off For 1942 Because of War

War conditions necessitate the abandonment of the 1942 Family Life Conference. Plans were laid last year for the second annual conference, but it is necessary for Lindenwood to key all of its activities to the war in which our country is engaged.

The time and energy of the students are taken up by the lengthened assignments of the shortened year and the large number of defense activities which they are now undertaking.

The Sociology Department hopes a Family Life Conference will be planned for 1943, but if it seems unwise, the conference will not be held again until the war is over.

and measure babies for the Community Center."

Owanna Post: "Go to Michigan State or Columbia University with my brother—might bolster the army morale a little."

Cotton Cannon: "Defense work of some kind—Red Cross or an auxiliary corps."

Jane Meredith: "Spend the summer in Florida getting two degrees darker—of course there are those letters to write to Alaska."

Betty Meyers: "Take a 7 o'clock class every morning in summer school."

Doris Banta: "Work—it may not be a defense job, but a job in any case."

Shorty Shartel: "Sleep, eat, and gain 15 pounds—entertain 35,000 soldiers."

Estelle Blumeyer: "Go to Florida and just plain loaf."

Ostrich Tactics Are Out

Newspapers have proclaimed President Roosevelt's last speech the greatest mass geography lesson in history.

Whether we want to or not we are all learning geography these days. Java isn't just a nickname for coffee anymore, nor Borneo merely the home of circus wild men or Bali a land of grass skirts.

It is time Americans were getting acquainted with their neighbors, waking up to the fact the world is too small for them to shut themselves away in one corner of it and be indifferent to the affairs of other nations. They found Japan was not so far away after all. That a place as remote-seeming as Australia can actually be an outpost for the United States.

When the time comes for making the peace Americans need to remember their war-time geography lessons. We must bear in mind what we have learned about the size of the world and the proximity of Java, the Philippines, Japan. We must not wash our hands of the matter, gather up our soldiers to go home and shut the door upon the havoc the war will leave. We must recognize the necessity of living with our fellow nations, helpfully and cooperatively.

The necessity for learning well these lessons in geography falls especially upon college students, the youth of America. The world is soon to be ours—and the problems of the after-war will be our problems. We must not play the ostrich now—or later.

The young people of America must face the war courageously and fight it out—but with always an eye to the future and a hope and a plan for the peace.

Spring Is Here!

The government says no weather forecasting. But it can't censor the obvious. Spring is here! It's the disturbing element around campus these days. It sneaks into the classrooms; it seeps through the windows in the library; it steals into the dorms during study hours. Of course, everywhere there's bound to be unbelievers who will argue a priori and posteriori the existing conditions are due to the fact everyone is tired of winter and its frequent snows. But give them one more week, and they'll be singing with the birds and wishing they had remained the silent party a few days back.

St. Patrick

Perhaps you have wondered why we dig out our shamrocks and wear our best green frocks and mittens once every year on March 17th, in honor of a man we call St. Patrick. You have all heard tales of this famous personage—how he drove the snakes and toads out of Ireland—how he could bring darkness on his enemies—and how, when he died, there was lasting light for 12 days in Ireland. Behind all the mythical tales, there is a real story.

St. Patrick wasn't just a legend—he was a real man. Way back when the Roman civilization in England was having trouble with its barbarous Irish neighbors, he saw the need for teaching Christianity to the heathens. Through years of hard work in Ireland, he emerged triumphant, victorious over the pagan Druids and heathen non-believers. His work in spreading Christianity is a fine example of sacrifice and hard work in the face of grave dangers and disappointments.

We can view St. Patrick's work now with more appreciation than ever before. We can find inspiration from it because we realize that some of the ideals he devoted his life to, form a large part of our struggle today—a war to keep religion and freedom alive in the world.

Marching To Victory

There is no doubt Lindenwood has gone military in a big way, but there are still a few left-overs from the "I don't want to play" age who turn up their noses whenever marching is mentioned. The attitude of these un-cooperative few is keeping the whole school from getting started with their military drilling.

Although marching can be fun, that is not our object. More important, it will teach us to work as a unit. Individuality is important, also, but the ability to take orders as a unit is more difficult than you'd imagine. Drilling is a means of getting us out into the sunshine, and it is excellent exercise, which is so necessary for good health.

This is not a project to be hooted at and ignored. It is essential we be physically fit and properly prepared for the hardships and problems to come.

Phyllis Negin is working hard on the best idea that has sprung up on the campus for months. Phyllis has secured the necessary legal papers and is rapidly acquiring signatures on a petition to Fred Waring asking the beloved old music-maker to write a new Lindenwood song to be presented over the air. . . . Today is the deadline, so rush right up to 327 Ayres and add your name to the many already there.

No printable jokes came to light in any bull sessions this week, so we had to go snitching again.

"Do you use tooth paste?"

"What for? None of my teeth are loose."

If you can dream up any nightmare more laughable than the above, swish over to the p.o. and fill up that empty 371 with them.

To our Betty Bauer goes the honor of being Theta Kappa Phi's Maid of Honor to St. Patrick and his Queen at the annual celebration at Rolla next week. Betty is pinned to Alvin Haas, pres. of the fraternity. Others who will be there to make the cheers for our gal Nell even louder, are Jackie McCamey, Doris "Boo" Banta, Barbie Tennant, Elsa Beth Hays and ye olde Snoope.

What can the answer be? All out for defense, or would John Stanley go through any kind of torture even for the girl friends of Marian Wettstone? It happened one of those lovely springy evenings we had recently. Unsuspecting John took his life in his hands when he entered the parlor a few moments later to find John prone on the floor, the victim of Betty Merrill, who was practicing artificial respiration.

May we make the subtle suggestion that the families of Virginia Rose and Bettie Burnham present them with the new watches SOON, before they lose any more time? . . . Doris Gwin acquired a new boy friend while she was the week-end guest of "Coo" Dillman. "Tex" has so many on the string now, it would be an impossibility for even Weegie to determine who is "Deep in the heart of Texas." . . . Idle thought: Just think, the next six weeks tests roll around we'll all have spring fever so bad we'll even have to be borne up for Tearoomology . . .

Shame on Gayla Fletcher, who is a possessor of anyone's dream of an engagement ring, and already dating out on the poor guy. She's only been up here about three weeks, too . . . Mary Dillon's Lt. Josh got to missing her so badly tother night he "l.d.ed" her from Witchita Falls . . .

Honor day in chapel

Betty Ann Shaw, who called the college career quits at the quits of last semester, was married Saturday night to Joe Schilling in Mattoon, Ill. Betty wore the traditional white satin, and her attendants wore blue chiffon. Marjorie Moberg, her roommate, was maid of honor, and Marilo Lotts, who will be remembered here from last year, was bridesmaid. Ginny Donovan sang. Barbara Snider, another last year's girl, dropped by Friday on her way to the wedding. The Schillings will live in St. Louis.

From the Office of the Dean

The first marking period of the second semester will close March 13, and the following week it will be possible for students to obtain grades from their teachers.

T. J. Walker to Speak at Teachers Club

T. J. Walker, writer and educator, will speak at the next meeting of the Future Teachers of America. Mr. Walker is a member of the Missouri State Teachers Association, is editor of the "School and Community" magazine, and was a member of the Missouri Legislature for two terms. His subject will undoubtedly deal with some aspect of education for the future. Dr. Garnett announces that all students will be welcome at the meeting, which will be March 17.

Miss Stookey Is Author of Magazine Articles

Miss Margaret Stookey of the physical education department has two articles published in National magazines. In the February issue of the "Health and Physical Education" appeared her article on "Guatemala Garb," a detailed description on the native costumes of the people of that country. Also describing a Guatemalan custom was Miss Stookey's article in the March issue of the "American Dancer." This was called "Guatemala Dances the Quiche Quadrille."

Dean Gipson Writes On "Teachers and the War"

"Teachers and the War," an article by Dean Alice E. Gipson appears in the February issue of the Missouri School Journal. Dean Gipson discusses the crucial need for effective teaching in these unsettled times, and in the years to come. She especially deplors the indication of a great shortage of teachers with proper training and qualities of leadership for future years when the need for them will be most vital.

Dr. Parker Addresses Jefferson City Club

Dr. Alice Parker will speak to the members of the Tuesday Club of Jefferson City, Mo., at their meeting this afternoon. The topic of her talk will be "Summer Celebrities."

THE POETRY CORNER

BEAUTY

By Rosemary Edminster

Blue mists folded around the tops of trees,
Pearl-tipped drops poised on low-hung eaves,
Cool shadows stringing down a sunny hill,
Soft snow shelving soundlessly on a sill.

Deepening drifts piled high about the moon,
A quiet wind wafted o'er a blue lagoon,
The miracle of midnight masking light,
And gray-rose tints of dawn dismissing night.

A Letter From A War Time Father To His Lindenwood Daughter

The following is a composite of actual statements from a number of letters received by students from their fathers.

Darling Daughter,

So my little girl is growing up! You are beginning to realize that outside the gates of Lindenwood there is a world war which is molding your future and overshadowing your trivial anxieties of lengthened assignments, scrimping for week-ends in St. Louis, and no dates.

We are at war. Over 20,000,000 young people will be in it before we can defeat the military machines of Hitler and Japan. Each one of you must figure out your future right now in terms of "what can I do most to help win the war?"

Education will be changed for young women for the duration, and in all probability from now on. Future courses will emphasize the importance of nursing, business administration, world history, and even mechanics. Who knows, you may be working on an assembly line, or it may come that you'd be called for active duty in the army. So prepare for a change. A general education is swell—it makes good citizens, but now everyone must do their bit to win the war.

I'm too old to help in actual fighting. All I can do is buy bonds, pay taxes, and join the civil defense. So you go the limit in your plans for the future. This is your war—it calls for hard work and sacrifice. But I know that my daughter will face it with determination and persistence.

Remember that we love you and hate to see you faced with these problems, but they are worse than some realize.

Your loving
DAD.

Dr. and Mrs. Gage to Return This Week From California Trip

Dr. and Mrs. Harry Morehouse Gage will return to the campus this week from California, where Dr. Gage has been attending an educational conference at the University of California. Dr. and Mrs. Gage of California.

Dr. and Mrs. Gage and Dr. and Mrs. Harry Roger, a member of the Board of Directors of Lindenwood College, were guests at a Lindenwood dinner February 24. The dinner was in the Room of the Dons of the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco, and a number of former Lindenwood students and friends welcomed Dr. Gage.

Dr. and Mrs. Gage were also honored guests at a dinner given by the Los Angeles Alumnae.

Lindenwood Girls Attend Student Christian Conference

Lindenwood students who attended the mid-winter conference of the Missouri Student Christian Association on February 28 report a very successful meeting. Mary Jo Shepard, Frances Shudde and Betty Langlois, as representatives of the Lindenwood Y. W. C. A., attended the conference, which was held in Columbia, Mo.

Principal speaker of the conference was Paul Weaver, Professor of Philosophy and Religion at Stephens College. In addition to two addresses by him, there were two panel discussions; one, entitled "The Christian Association's Part in Civilian Defense", led by Harold Jolly, Washington University, and the other, "Gleanings from National Assembly", led by LeRoy Duvall, Missouri University.

The theme of the conference was "Christian Priorities Today and Tomorrow". YW and YM members at Missouri University were hosts and hostesses.

Sixteen New Members In Alpha Sigma Tau

This semester, Alpha Sigma Tau, the honorary association of the Liberal Arts College, initiated sixteen new members. These were: Doris Gruer, Dorothy Felger, Martha Lynne Beck, Gloria Douthitt, Carol Banta, Dorothy Clardy, Jennie McRae, Jean Swarr, Ruth Schrader, Grace Gray, Rosalise Hartmann, Marjorie Allen, Beverly Wescott, Barbara Goldenberg, Pat Potter, and Barbara Bickle. The initiation took place in the library club rooms on March 24th. Membership in Alpha Sigma Tau is based on a 'S' average in grades for three consecutive semesters. During each of these semesters, one must take fourteen hours of literary subjects and receive the required marks.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

By Patricia Lee

Angie Henry has been quietly winning for herself a niche in fencing. Despite an injured hand which kept her from practicing for over two months, she placed second in the Open St. Louis Y. W. C. A. Fencing Tournament. She is planning to enter the final round of team competition at the Y. W. C. A. Thursday, March 12.

The Mid-Winter Jitter-bug Contest is in full swing. In the first session held February 28, the judges came out of a long huddle with this decision:

- 1st—
Chaytor Bryant
Lucille Lincoln
- 2nd—
Florence Clair
Edith Mae Berkman
- 3rd—
Mildred Wallace
Kay Gould
- 4th—
Mary Lou Parr
Phyllis Negin

There will be three contests, and then a final with all the winners in the previous sessions competing for the title of "The Champion Jitterbugs".

The first of a series of matches to be played off in the Mid-Winter Archery Tournament was held February 28. First place went to Helen Marie Dean, second to Miriam Bannwell, third to Polly Woolsey, and fourth to Mary Lou Parr.

The winners will receive Archery emblems.

Lindenwood students have been invited to participate in the Inter-collegiate Riding Meet at the Fairgrounds in Urbana, Illinois, May 8 and 9. There will be a team of four girls entered from each of the schools represented. They will enter four events, some of which are forward and show seat classes, a gaited class, a jumping class, etc. The riders will be judged on a point system whereby the judges will score each according to her ability, rather than by competition.

Military Drill Is Inaugurated As War Time Measure

Under the instruction of Miss Stookey the students of Lindenwood are learning the elementary tactics of marching. After they have become familiar with the various commands and the more simple formations in group maneuvering in the gym classes, the students will drill in the different halls and finally the whole school will march together as one unit.

Not so long ago all classes in gym started with group marching. Today, since the Army has caused a decrease in the number of doctors and nurses for the civilian population, good health is required of everyone, demanding the return of the old school of "formal gymnastics" and group marching.

The military drill at Lindenwood is not being conducted for the amusement of the students. It is to teach us to do things together quickly at a unity, and to act and think together. Marching plays a big part in the health program. It trains us to walk properly and necessitates correct posture habits.

After we have learned the fundamentals, two lieutenants are coming out from St. Louis to teach us the advanced techniques of marching. Later in the spring they will instruct and lead us in mock maneuvers. The students will be divided into two teams, the Reds and the Blues, with the campus as the battle field.

In marching absolute quiet and response to orders, is necessary. Such training is being offered in both Men and Women's colleges all over the United States.

Linden Bark Conducts Campus Poll For College Radio Recognition

It's Lindenwood's turn to receive recognition via the radio! Colleges all over the country have been saluted by Glenn Miller, auditioned by Fred Allen, and alma mater-ed by Fred Waring. There's a petition going around school on which students are asked to sign if they're in favor of Fred Waring writing a new Lindenwood song.

But this is something different.

On the ballot below you are asked to check, or write in your own choice, for the radio star whom you think has done most to entertain the boys in camp. The results of the voting will be sent to the person whom you choose, so tear out the ballot right away, check your choice, and drop it into the box on the bulletin board outside the Journalism room.

My choice for the radio star who has done most to entertain the boys in camp is:

(...) GLENN MILLER

(...) FRED ALLEN

(...) FRED WARING

(...) BOB HOPE

Jacqueline Schwab Is Candidate For Kemper Military Queen

Jacqueline Schwab, a freshman from Oklahoma City, is a candidate for the title of Queen of the Kemper Military Ball to be held April 4. Major E. W. Tucker announced there were 22 entries, and judging would be done by either Earl Carroll or Tyrone Power.

Miss Schwab will be sponsored by Cadet J. D. Dahlgren, also of Oklahoma City.

Theatre of the Air to Present Original Script

"The Fairy's Crown" will be given by the Lindenwood "Theatre of the Air" next Saturday. The script was written by Marion Wettstone, and will be enacted by Sue Beck, in the parts of Mary and the Third Dwarf; Doris Nahigian, as the Fairy-Child and the Second Dwarf; Pat Giese, as Spot, and the Father; Marion Wettstone, as the Mother and the King; and Avonne Campbell, as the Princess, the First Dwarf, and the Story Lady.

Music will be by Pat Potter. The time of the broadcast is 11 a. m.; the station is KFUD.

Committees Named For Musical Show

minster and Carol Bindley; Press Agent, Beverly Wescott and Shirley Goodman; Booking Agents, Ann Gardner and Carol Gillogly; Scenery, Jeanie Swarr; Costumes, Joyce Agapeau; Transportation, Louise Mallory, and Make-up, Kay Anderson.

Most of these chairmen have four or five members on their committees so if your name hasn't appeared so far, you are undoubtedly on one of them. The list will be posted on the bulletin board in front of the office this week.

After the chairmen have met and worked out a skeleton outline for the show, tryouts will be held. If anyone has ideas or talent to offer, do not hesitate to come at this time. The definite date for these will be announced soon, so watch for it.

Mr. Stine urges that no one who is not able to give up time for rehearsals come to tryouts. The people who take part must be prepared for much extra work before the show is completed.

But when it is completed, we hope to have accomplished the two objective goals set down by the radio class: To arouse patriotic fervor, and to entertain as an aid to establish morale.

Shamrock Theme For Sophomore Class Informal Dance

In a gym decorated with the St. Patrick's Day theme, the students of Lindenwood enjoyed their first informal dance, sponsored by the Sophomore Class. A huge green shamrock was the background for Jay Jason's orchestra, and a hoop of green and white balloons, which was lowered later on and served as favors.

The receiving line was made up of Rosemary Edminster, Jeanne Swarr, and Sue Adkins.

Choice For Spring Play Is Old-Time Melodrama

"Tortesa the Usurer", a melodrama by Nathaniel P. Willis has been chosen as the all-school spring play to be given Friday evening, March 20. The cast of characters has been chosen and rehearsals are now under way, according to Miss Frees, director.

This play is interesting for a number of reasons. Besides being the work of an American Playwright, it was written about 1839, and will be played, although not necessarily staged, in the manner of that period. Each character is interesting in the development of the plot and is as enjoyable to play as to watch. The play is a typical old-fashioned melodrama, with plenty of "asides". Acting will be done in the "grand manner", which should be an inducement for L. C. girls because it is entirely different from anything given thus far this year.

One especially interesting feature of the play is the number of scenes used. There are fourteen scenes, eight of which are different. However, careful planning will make it possible for all changes of scenery to be accomplished in one minute.

The cast will include Ellen Wadley as Tortesa, Jean Esther Morris as Angelo, Jean Swarr as Tomaso, Marianne Fauber as Isabella, Minota Bayliss as Zippa, Joyce Agapeau as the Duke of Florence, and Peggy Proctor as Count Falcone.

Bobby Larmer Is Elected President of Freshmen Class

Bobbie Larmer, freshman from Davenport, Iowa, is the new Freshman Class President. She will head the freshman class and will serve with Peggy Proctor and Betty Lou King, vice president and secretary-treasurer who were elected in the fall.

Coming events of the Freshman Class will include the sponsoring of a U.S.O. dance. All details concerning the dance will be announced at a later time.

THE CLUB CORNER

Pi Gamma met last Wednesday in the Library Club rooms. New members were initiated, and election of officers for next year was held.

The new members are: Doris Banta, Joyce Burge, Eileen Linsen, Martha Laney, Betty Merrill, Betty Myers, Louise Olson, Polly Pollock, Grace Quebbman, Mary Jo Shepard, and Kitty Traylor.

Louise Olson will serve as president of the society next year; Doris Banta, vice-president; and Betty Myers, secretary-treasurer.

A meeting of the Poetry Society was held Thursday in the Library Club rooms. Several members submitted poetry, which was discussed and criticized. The society is now working on a new Lindenwood song. Refreshments were cake and tea.

The Athletic Association sponsored an ice-skating party last Friday night at the Winter Gardens in St. Louis.

Pi Alpha Delta met last week in Miss Hankins room in Senior Hall. Plans were discussed for the tea which the society sponsors annually. New members will be initiated at the next meeting.
