Assembling for the Year

Speakers Wise Wake Lindenwood for 1928-29

Lindenwood went to vespers Sunday evening, September 16, joyfully, in fact eagerly. Dr. Roemer was to give the first address of the year. The old girls were anxious to hear him again after a three months' separation, and the freshman curiosity was aroused, both from the words of those who had been here and from their own brief experience with Lindenwood's president.

The college attendance was fully up to what was expected. Lindenwood's student body has never been larger, and although beginning earlier, the weather has been propitious and "all the people have a mind to work".

The choir as yet had not been altogether organized, but Miss Edwards got together about sixty girls with fine voices, some of whom donned the white vestments for the first time. A charming array they made as the twilight ended and they sang "The Evening Hymn".

Taking as his text Phil. 3, 12, Dr. Roemer's topic was "The Upward Call". Reading first the words of St. Paul in the text, "Not as though I had already attained, either were already perfect, but I follow after, if that I may apprehend that for which also I am apprehended of Christ Jesus", he spoke as follows. The sermon is given almost in full, as it may carry back the Bulletin's readers to that happy season in early autumn when they, too, assembled with keen delight in the prospect of a winter's studies. He said:

"Goethe declared that 'the most important thing in life is to have a great aim'. People who have amounted to anything in life have been going somewhere before they arrived.

"There is such a thing as 'luck', the fortune that comes to us unsolicited; the attainment of a coveted place in life without effort. 'Some are born great', said the Bard of Avon, 'some achieve greatness; others have greatness thrust upon them.' For one whom Dame Fortune has favored there are thousands who still wait for their 'lucky day'.

"Achievement is attained by endeavor. The accidental can never displace the intentional as a law of the universe. 'Work out your own salvation' is a bit of Christian admonition with a world of suggestion. Man must do his part to appropriate to himself heaven's blessings. The law of the soil is life, God has so ordained it, but the man who fails to plow and to plant will have no divine assistance to produce without human effort.

"Paul had a well-grounded appreciation of what things should be most desired. He had set his mind on a goal of life. From the day of his Damascus experience the aim of his life was to attain the excellency of the knowledge of Christ. He was not satisfied with anything but knowing the power of His resurrection. He would have his knowledge first hand even to experiencing the fellowship of His sufferings, and 'being made conformable unto His death'. Excellency is his supreme ambition. 'I press toward the upward call of God in Christ Jesus'.

"The upward call of life is the paramount issue of the individual and society. It requires no effort to degenerate, it is a life struggle to achieve. It requires no effort to grow weeds, but constant vigilance to grow healthy, beautiful flowers in the garden.

"The trend of the time is to listen to the upward call of life. The School, which is the forecaster of present conditions, is directing its energies to emphasizing character as the purpose of the classroom. The business world is interested in the personnel of its staff as never before. Character is not subordinated to capability. The political world is not oblivious to the demand for men of good record. The Church has not preached a practical gospel of faith in vain. The upward look is the hope of the world. This is a day of optimism, not pessimism. We are a long way off from what we ought to be, but it is a wholesome sign of the times that spiritual values are not accepted at a discount.

"The consciousness of being called to a service which we can render is aroused, first, by a direct call. Paul is a case in point. He had been a zealous persecutor of the cause he afterward championed. The road to Damascus was always before Paul's mind. Bent on a life of destruction, his life was changed into a life of constructive workmanship. From a purpose of death there came a purpose of saving life. Precious indeed was the moment when his life's work was revealed to him. He told the story again and again of how when he was on his way to Damascus he was smitten and heard the voice of appeal and received the direct commission from on high. Is it any wonder that thereafter his course could not be deflected?

"The direct call to service is not peculiar to the apostle Paul. Witnesses of the Word who have given up their all to go to the remote ends of the world have had the direct call, 'Go ye and teach', and their lives have been blessed by the fruits of their labor. Godless lives have been changed in just as startling a manner and the change has been effected by a direct call upward. The moment that charts our life's course will never be forgotten, nor its praise go unsung.

"Secondly, consciousness may be aroused by necessity which is called the 'mother of invention'. Necessity is also the 'Great Discoverer'. Driving her children to penury and want, she has discovered some of the world's most useful people. An immortal Lincoln could not have been the product of plenty. Our present candidates for President are from homes that knew the pinch of poverty. Michael Angelo in his correspondence tells us he could not have his brother visit him, as he had only one bed that he was compelled to share with his three assistants.

"Thirdly, opportunity is pictured as knocking at everyone's door at least once in a lifetime. The mission of opportunity is to awaken us to greater and better things. It calls to a sleeping or indifferent world to follow after larger plans of life. It is the awakening signal to arouse us to possibilities which are at hand if we are not too sleepy or indifferent or too fearful. In the description of the building of the temple the last mention is made of the doors and hinges of gold opening into its sacred precincts. Opportunity is the golden hinged door through which we pass to the holy of holies of the living temple.

Attitude Toward Life

"The personal equation is the greatest factor in life. Why people fail or why people succeed may be answered by the people themselves. People of superior ability fail; people of less ability succeed. What is the answer? The people themselves. Their attitude toward achievement cannot be overlooked.

"You cannot live on reminiscences. The past for pleasant memories, the future for hard work. The future cannot feed upon power that is spent. There is no relationship between finished victories and victories yet to be won. Times change, means and methods also change.

"The self-satisfied person has nothing to attain. He is a finished product. One who feels he has everything life offers, has no future. One who knows it all can find no teacher able to impart anything to him. The unteachable spirit within admits of nothing beyond. The most disagreeable people that we meet are those who have nothing more to learn. That Paul was a most agreeable person to know and fellowship with is clearly brought to us by his attitude of being conscious that he was not perfect.

"In a recent article about a noted athlete the writer incidentally remarks that he was always willing to learn; he had no preconceived notion that he was perfect. When one's insignia is 'Ne plus ultra', you can write his finish in one word, 'Ichabod'.

"Wordsworth in his Intimations of Immortality from the Recollections of Childhood pictures the child coming into the world 'trailing clouds of glory'. It is more important that the child grown to maturity and made beautiful with years of usefulness go out into eternity trailing clouds of glory.

"Instead of debating the question of the 'missing link' that would bind man to a lower order of creation, it would be more profitable to find the golden link which will bind him to a higher order of life.

"Responsiveness to what is above is the soul of life. The most powerful living in history is associated with the power to look up. The Americans in France during the war sang 'Joan of Arc, They Are Calling You'. Joan of Arc lived five centuries ago. She was only 16 years old when she began her career; she knew nothing about modern warfare. Yet 500 years afterward, our American men were singing 'Joan of Arc, They Are Calling You'. The reason is not far to seek. Joan of Arc lived with the invisible, she had angels so real that she gave names to them—St. Catherine or St. Margaret—angels that bodied forth to her the reality and nearness and guidance of the spiritual world. They carried her a long way and made her name a flame of fire until this day. 'Nobody ever counted in this world', says one, 'without angels'. Responsiveness to the unseen is the great driving power for strong living.

"The secret of the Christ He Himself epitomized: 'Not my will, but thine be done'."

"Intentions, Matrimony"

More and more is it becoming apparent that Lindenwood girls do marry. Someone of a mathematical turn has been computing Dr. Roemer's engagements since the heyday of matrimony began this year—that is, since the first of June, and except for the brief period when he fled the country (going up into Canada on a motor tour) Dr. Roemer has been requisitioned once a week and oftener, on the average, in order to tie the knot securely for some of the Lindenwood former students. One such case was even a straining of the point because a girl's grandmother had been a Lindenwood student. Said a visitor of keen wit, the other day, "See here, is this a college, or is it a matrimonial bureau?"

Board President's Vacation

Dr. John W. MacIvor, president of Lindenwood's Board of Directors, has concluded his vacation of about two months, and has resumed his pulpit at the Second Presbyterian Church of which he is pastor and which is just rounding its ninetieth year of continuous life in St. Louis. Dr. MacIvor followed his vacation custom of visiting his father in Nova Scotia and taking hazards in sailboats before the wind on the upper Atlantic.

Something new in the etiquette of cards is a clever picture waving farewell to the "Moving Van". Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Barton (Artrude Strange, 1920-21) thus announce their new home in Detroit, Mich., at 14132 Coyle avenue, adding a verse:

"The moving van has left us
And now we're all alone,
We hope you'll come to see us
And make yourself at home".

Major Sibley's Grand-Niece

A new bit in the family life of Maj. George C. Sibley, U. S. A., co-founder of Lindenwood, is furnished by a letter from Mrs. Miles Everett Foster, of Fort Smith, Ark., a grand-daughter of the late Mrs. Mary Morris, of whose death the Bulletin told in August, with her remarkable life of many years and good deeds, she being a daughter of Maj. Sibley's brother. Mrs. Foster writes: "She was a most beautiful and very remarkable character, and it may be of interest to Lindenwood to know that she was a great favorite with her Uncle George, and in fact I've heard her tell that at one time he begged to adopt her".

In Politics

With Lindenwood's manifest interest in the Presidential campaign this fall, it will interest the young voters to hear that a graduate of 1909, Mrs. Nell Donnelly, has been appointed Democratic National Executive Chairman of the Business and Professional Women's League of the State of Missouri.

Via Air Mail

Lindenwood, up-to-date, has gotten out some new office envelopes, which Secretary Motley displays with pride, with the patriotic red, white and blue banded across the center, and "Via Air Mail" directions in the corner.

Squaring Off the Campus

Here is shown the newly leased acreage around the St. Charles Water Tower which will now be free for the use of nature-lovers at Lindenwood. The college has leased this tract of five acres for thirty years, and trees and shrubs will be planted in season. The forest background shows at its best by reason of the extensive grading. To the right is seen Irwin Hall.

Dr. Fairchild at Convocation

On the night of the Convocation Address, Monday, September 17, as at the first vespers, many St. Charles people had seats in Roemer Hall, besides the full body of students and faculty, a number approaching 600. The speaker was Dr. A. H. R. Fairchild, professor of English and Chairman of the Department of English, at the University of Missouri. He presented a practical ideal for character as achieved in great part by hard work—"clean, honest work". Dr. Fairchild has been a speaker at Lindenwood before, and everyone was glad that Mrs. Fairchild came with him this time. They motored over from Columbia, and remained for the night as guests of the college.

After pointing out that a great deal of present-day discussion of problems assumes the form of negative criticism—such questions as: What is the matter with the home? What is the matter with the school? What is the matter with the college? What is the matter with the United States? being heard and written about on all hands—Dr. Fairchild proceeded to deal with the issue between technical education and education for life, between the demand for technical equipment as a means of earning a livelihood and the need of intellectual, emotional, and moral development—development of character, in a word—for satisfactory living.

"The unparalleled development of scientific knowledge during the past seventy-five years", he said, "has made

Weddings

Miss Edna May Stubbins' marriage to Mr. Robert Joseph Davisson of St. Louis is just taking place, September 26, as the Bulletin is going to press, and again Dr. Roemer is being summoned as the proper clergyman to officiate at the nuptials. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Joseph Stubbins, of Vandalia, Ill., announced their daughter's engagement in the late summer. It was an evening wedding in the Presbyterian Church of Vandalia, and a large reception followed at Hotel Evans in Vandalia. The bride graduated with the degree A. B. in Lindenwood's Centennial class. She was a member of the Student Council, and served as an officer for two years of the Illinois Club, also being active in the International Relations Club. For the last year she has taught in the Cairo high school. The bridegroom attended Washington University, and is connected with the Melbourne Hotel in St. Louis. Their future home will be on McPherson avenue in St. Louis.

The wedding of Miss Lou Esther Clemens (1927-28) to Mr. Roy C. Manchester, on Saturday, September 1, at Dixon Springs, Ill., is announced in cards from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Newton Clemens. Mr. and Mrs. Manchester will be "after September 20" at the Reginald Apartments in Paducah, Ky.

Another wedding in Oklahoma, announcement of which is sent by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin G. Quisenberry, is that of Miss Maxine Jane Quisenberry (1926-27) to Mr. Robert Samuel Barnhill. This occurred at Bartlesville, Okla., on Friday, August 31.

Miss Virginia See (1925-26), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. See of St. Louis, will be married, about the time the Bulletin goes to press, to Mr. Bailey La Porte, of Peoria, Ill., on Saturday, September 29, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Edwards, at Oak Lawn, Warrenton, Mo. Dr. Roemer officiated. The bride was a member of Le Cercle Francaise when at Lindenwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Schurman have announced the marriage of their daughter, Lenora, to Mr. Howard Neilson, on Wednesday, August 8, at their home in Streator, Ill. Their residence will be in Streator, at 224 Washington street.

Invitations were received for the wedding of Miss Lillian Alice Hinkle (1923-25), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fielding Hinkle, of Roswell, N. Mex., and Mr. Frederick Homer Ward, on Wednesday evening, September 12, at 7:30 o'clock. This was a church wedding, in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of Roswell, and it was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

Announcement cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chapman, now of Colorado Springs, Colo., telling of the marriage of their daughter, Alice, on Thursday, August 16, to Mr. Richard Lyons Campbell, at the home of her parents. The bride attended Lindenwood in 1921, her home being then in Parsons, Kan. At Home cards were enclosed for 4800 Jefferson, Kansas City, Mo., after September 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Owens sent invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Barnes (1924-25), to Mr. Lewis Albert Mears, on Monday evening, September 10, at 8 o'clock, at the Christian Church at Oxford, Kan. Cards were enclosed for a reception immediately following the ceremony, at the Owens' residence. The bride will be remembered as a member of the Lindenwood College Choral Club among other activities.

Wedding invitations for Miss Mary Catharine Edmands (1922-24), who took an active part in Le Cercle Francaise while at Lindenwood, were sent by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Edmands, of Springfield, Ill., her marriage to Mr. Robert Carr Lanphier, Jr., taking place on Saturday afternoon, September 15, at 4 o'clock, in the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Springfield. There was a home reception immediately after the ceremony, at 1190 Williams boulevard.

From Oklahoma come announcement cards from Dr. and Mrs. Emory Speer Crowe, telling of the marriage of their daughter Reba Elizabeth, who spent two years at Lindenwood and received the degree A. A. in 1923, to Mr. Bufinton B. Burtis, July 29, at Oklahoma City. Press accounts say that the bride wore a crepe and velvet tan costume, and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses. Her sister was her attendant, and a fraternity brother attended the bridegroom. For the last year the bride has been principal of the Olustee (Okla.) high school. Her husband is a newspaper man in Altus, Okla., where they will make their home. The bride was head of "hiking" one year at Lindenwood, and also held office as secretary of Le Cercle Francaise.

Lindenwood far and near is interested in the marriage of Miss Dorritt Stumberg, announced in cards sent by her mother, Mrs. Helene Stumberg, to Mr. Martin Marshall White, which occurred Wednesday, September 5, at her mother's home in St. Charles. The bride is related to Lindenwood in many ways, not the least of which through her brother, Dr. B. Kurt Stumberg, a member of the Board of Directors and of the faculty, and house physician. She was a Lindenwood graduate in 1913, following the role of her sisters of a few years before, their father having been active in Lindenwood's interests through many years. Miss Dorritt then went in for thorough graduate study, in universities here and abroad. She became a teacher, and part of her career was as head of the psychology department of Lindenwood; her blythe spirit in the college life was felt always as an asset. The future home of Mr. and Mrs. White will be at Norman, Okla.

One of the many weddings at which Dr. Roemer officiated this fall was that of a grand-daughter of a Lindenwood girl, Miss Jane Dittmann of Webster Groves to Mr. W. W. Goessling. The bride, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Dittmann, had as her maternal grandmother Mrs. Robert E. Bluthardt, who when she attended Lindenwood was Alice Nulsen. Dr. Roemer officiated, when he was the Tyler Place pastor, at the marriage of the Dittmanns, and he was again called to baptize their baby daughter who is now a bride.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Deibler have sent cards announcing the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Catherine (1924-25), to Mr. John W. Kroehnke, on Tuesday, August 21. Their future home will be in Chicago, at 1751 East Sixty-ninth street.

Mrs. Charles O. Wolflin has sent announcement of the marriage of her daughter, Lela McVean (1922-23), to Mr. Louis Hunter Puckett, at their home in Amarillo, Texas, on Thursday, August 16.

Invitations were received from Evansville, Ind., for the marriage there, at St. John's Church, at 7 o'clock Monday evening, October 1, of Miss Gertrude Wollenberger (1920-21) to Mr. Richard Carl Leetz. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Andrew Wollenberger, also enclosed At Home cards for the bridal pair after November 1, at 2225 Ridge avenue, Evanston, Ill.

Entering Real Life

After a rest of a few weeks at home or visiting classmates, the seniors of 1928, bearing their degrees like a shield before them, are going out to lead "the useful life" for which Lindenwood has prepared them. Not all of them have been heard from, but enough to know that activity is abroad.

It was observed before their departure that the seniors had mostly some purpose in life. Allowing for elasticity as to circumstances which may have developed, they are pretty well following the line which they had determined.

Library work is increasing popular. In one group three of the 1928 graduates are going to study library work in the library school of the University of Illinois. They are Misses Doris Achelpohl, A. B., of St. Charles; Virginia Brown, A. B., Nickerson, Kan., and Mildred Henney, A. B., Alton, Ill.

Miss Cornelia Moehlenkamp, A. B.,

of St. Charles, will take graduate work in the University of Missouri.

Two of the "Helens" of the class will teach in the high school of California, Mo. Miss Helen Roper, B. M., of West Plains, Mo., composer of songs, who gained more than one Lindenwood prize in this talent, is to supervise the music of the California schools. Miss Helen Harvey Wisdom, A. B., of Lincoln, Neb., is to teach history there.

Miss Silva Snyder, B. M., 1928, of Sparta, Ill., is to have a place on the high school staff at Belleville, Ill.

In the high school of Rolla, Mo., Miss Ruth Cameron, A. B., is to teach. This is her home town.

Miss Ruth Spreckelmeyer, B. S., of St. Charles, is to teach in a business college.

Miss Rose Parmelee, A. B., is to teach in the high school of her home town, Leavenworth, Kan.

Miss Bernice Edwards, A. B., of Joplin, Mo., will be librarian in the Joplin high school.

Miss Betty Birch, A. B., May Queen, of Toledo, O., has spent the summer directing plays, and plans next winter to direct plays of her own composition.

Miss Janet Hood, A. B., of Washington, Pa., will take graduate work in French at Columbia University.

Last but never the least, Miss Frances Stumberg, A. B., of St. Charles, is to take the prized Fellowship which Lindenwood bestowed upon her at Commencement as its highest honor, and will enroll for special work at the University of Chicago, looking to a Master's degree in English.

Dr. Calder of the faculty spent the summer with his wife and daughters in the Southwest, visiting occasionally with the Hollywood Masonic Lodge, and taking three courses in the Los Angeles summer school of the University of California. His daughter, Miss Helen Calder (A. B., 1925) drove in with her father each morning from Venice, the sea beach, as she was doing some work on her Master's degree. Patricia and Verna Anderson, of Chandler, Ariz., who were Lindenwood students through the last year, were with the Calders for part of the time at Montezuma Lodge on Mormon Lake, Ariz.

Dr. Mauze's Daughter

Miss Margaret Mauze, of Huntington, W. Va., who is entering Lindenwood this fall, comes among those who are at once her friends, because of the acquaintance here enjoyed with her father, Rev. J. Layton Mauze, D.D. Dr. Mauze is now taking a pastorate in Kansas City, having served at Huntington ever since he left St. Louis. In this city he was pastor and builder of the Central Presbyterian Church, to which he returned last March in order to officiate at the church's mortgage-burning. Dr. Mauze during his pastorate was one of the most popular ministers in St. Louis and he holds important posts in the general Presbyterian Church, U. S.

some kind of technical equipment practically indispensable, if one is to succeed in the economic struggle of life.

"Knowledge is power; and this technical equipment means new power; but unless it is built upon a foundation of sound character it becomes a source of danger and a liability. Our moral development has, in many instances, not kept pace with our intellectual achievement, and the misuse of this technical knowledge has led to some of our most distressing problems. Educationally, our most acute problem is the resolving of the conflict between the imperative demand for technical equipment and the need for the enhancement and development of character for light living.

"Character cannot be satisfactorily defined. Character is what a man is; reputation is what others think he is. Character is damaged by yielding to temptation and by moral wrong, just as it is developed by steadfast devotion to ends that are worthy. Adapting St. Augustine's statement 'Love God and do as you please', one would even be willing to ground character upon respect. It is, after all, something that may be determined through self-respect. Even weak and evil men usually discern clearly enough what good character is; they simply oppose it or remain inert.

"And here comes the paradox. The means of developing character is indirect, not direct. Like many other fine things in life, like happiness, like success in the best sense, character is a by-product; in this case, chiefly of hard work devoted to ends that are worthy. Hard work, clean work, finished work is a measure of character as it is the means of developing character. This is the final justification of our setting tasks and demanding work in college. Not what a man knows, however useful that may be, but what he is, is finally important".

Dr. Fairchild urged Lindenwood students to read good books, not only as a source of enjoyment, but as a means of understanding character; and he asked for loyalty to the spirit of Lindenwood as a further means of cultivating their best interests.

From Bohemia

Dr. and Mrs. Roemer have received a card from Miss Lula Rene, who attended Lindenwood 1917-20, from Bohemia, who writes from Koilany: "I am visiting home and other cities. The war has made many changes in the people. America has a great influence on my country for the better. I often think of you and hope that you are well. The Bulletins are always interesting to me".

St. Louis Music

The St. Louis Lindenwood College Club, at its first meeting of the season, a luncheon September 19 at the Forest Park Hotel, rejoiced in starting out with thirty present. This included Miss Alice Linnemann of the Lindenwood faculty, alumnae advisor.

A musical programme was given by three entertainers. Edward Menges played the piano; Miss Katherine McIntire, the violin, and Mrs. Korndorfer sang several numbers.

Births

Something original in baby announce is the Frenchy pink and blue rose-cradle into which is woven a card, "announcing the arrival of Betty Bruce, August 7", while on the other side are the names of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce S. Stake, of 3715 Michigan avenue, Kansas City. The young mother was formerly Dorothy Cope (1921-22).

"Announcing Good News", says the pretty card of Walter Winus, Jr., with a weight of eight pounds, who arrived in Memphis, Tenn., August 13, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Winus. The latter was formerly Fan

Pierce (1924-25). The Winus family are removing to Chillicothe, Mo., and their future address will be Tenth and Oak streets in that city.

Little Anne Adams, "just arrived with safety", is the new daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Agee (Dorothy Marie Adams, 1922-23), at Louisiana, Mo. Her weight is seven pounds.

Mrs. Victor L. Thompson (Murel Anglin, 1921-22) and her husband are rejoicing over the advent of another daughter, whose name is Martha Victoria Thompson, and who came March 13. The same letter announces a change of residence to 215 Ford avenue, Harrisburg, Ill.

It was less than two years ago that Linden Bark girls wrote, "Petite, pretty and peppy, long live our Queen" when Helen Condon was Hal-lowe'en Queen of 1916. She married almost immediately after leaving college, and now Mr. and Mrs. Gerald R. Grenawalt, of St. Paul, Minn., are sending the pretty gay card which announces the arrival of Joan Condon Grenawalt on July 19, one more little girl for a future at Lindenwood!

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Bonecutter (Hazel E. Crockett, 1918-19) have sent a cunning picture of a baby in the weighing scales, which announces the coming of George Crockett, their son, on September 6, with a weight of seven pounds. Their home is in Grove, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Barnbeck, of 3671 Wilmington avenue, St. Louis, have sent announcement of their little son's arrival on May 3. The mother was Mildred Melsheimer (1920-21).
