Belleville Student Participates in Research

Belleville student Alyssa Flynn recently presented with Dr. Joe Zlatic and Dr. Jeannie Thies, at the Annual Meeting of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences in Kansas City, Mo. The presentation was titled “Inculcating Undergraduate Students Into the Research Process at a Teaching University.”

This presentation focused on presenting how Drs. Thies and Zlatic have made use of grant funding and innovative strategies to include high performing students in research.

Additionally, Flynn provided a 15-minute presentation of her experiences through the process, lessons learned, and benefits gained while participating in this process. She concluded that the research process has impacted her to such a degree that she has begun seeking alternative career plans to engage in graduate study to further develop her knowledge and skills. While the inclusion of students in research is common at the graduate level, having undergraduates participate in this type of work is relatively uncommon and speaks to Flynn’s tremendous abilities as a student.
