Happy New Year!

Lindenwood's Ninety-ninth Annual Greeting, Goodwill to All

A New Year's Greeting to all the Lindenwood Girls, past, present, and future! The New Year, 1926, promises well. It is the eve of the Year of Centennial, which will culminate in May, 1927. Everyone, whether student, or teacher, or administrator, is measuring up to full height. The Lindenwood Clubs, from centers at the four points of the compass, are reporting the closing of the year with their largest meetings on record. The weather has been propitious. There has been little illness. Students reached their homes punctually and safely in this vacation, and are that much the more ready for resuming their studies on January 5.

Much excitement and enjoyment were encompassed in the last days preceding the vital hour of "9 a. m., Wednesday, December 16," when vacation began. It was a season of thoughts of great things. Miss Jane Addams had visited the college the first of the month, "the most popular woman in America" by a recent magazine vote, and her womanly but forceful address on "World Peace" had been followed by a students' vote a few days later, on great international matters. They recorded themselves as favoring the World Court by a majority which was almost unanimous, only 14 dissenting votes being expressed out of the 500 students.

It was a month, too, of service to the poor, insofar as the girls were able, and of thinking of duties to the world outside. Every girl in Lindenwood gave something, whatever she could, in the "White Gift" service. The teachers had given to the Red Cross, the students not being asked to join in this fund, because it was felt that their parents at home were giving.

A generous surprise was felt at the total of the voluntary service of students of the art department, who realized over $100 from Christmas cards, designed and colored by themselves, which they sold for the Mary Easton Sibley scholarship fund. Not one was left over, and at the end everybody was clamoring for more.

Then, too, the gifts were not forgotten for those who help to make Lindenwood's material life run smoothly. At the brilliant Christmas dinner, ten days ahead of time, a table covered with mysterious packages stood in the dining room. These packages were distributed at the conclusion of the dinner, to about sixty persons. The girls found at each of their own plates a miniature Santa Claus favor, which gave the convincing touch to all the Christmas accompaniments.

The Christmas new doll, "Linde," made its first appearance as the girls were getting ready for departure, and many of them bought the amusing creation, all legs and arms in yellow and white, with a coronet on her head. A good many of them carried "Linde" home with them on the train.

The last day's luncheon was a time when Dr. Roemer announced the annual prizes for "gaining most pounds." The girls received a good deal of "ragging" about this gain, but each one carried well her added weight and was a good enough sport to know that she looked better than she had before. There were five who had gained at least 20 pounds, Dr. Roemer said, and the proportionate gain in each case kept the same ratio as the gain in pounds.

Christmas music was given in two programs on the last Sunday, December 13. At 4:15 o'clock in Sibley Chapel, four members of the faculty, Misses Edna A. Treat, organist; Lucia Persis Hutchins, reader; Gertrude Isidor, violinist, and Mildred Gravley, pianist, gave a recital.

This was followed, at 6:30 o'clock, by a Christmas concert in Roemer Auditorium by the students' vesper choir, under the direction of Miss Cora N. Edwards. Elizabeth Babb and Carmelita Sweet played violin obligatos; Margaret Madden gave a reading; and Euneva Lynn, contralto, sang a solo.

On the last night came the extremely clever play by the Lindenwood Players, "You and I," written by Philip Barry, of the Harvard 47 Workshop. This was a play of character, rather than of situations, and it was well praised as an artistic work, by people who knew. It was given under the direction of Miss Harriet Diven, head of the expression department, with the cast as follows: "Maitland White," a difficult but beautiful piece of work by Frances Baggett; "Nancy White," a kind, sympathetic mother, Dorothy Williams; "Roderick White," the dashing hero, Willa O'Bannon; "Veronica Duane," a lovable modern girl, Audrey Richert; "Etta," a maid who seeks to emulate a grand lady, Helen Almond; "G. T. Warren," a man "on his toes," June Taylor; "Geoffrey Nichols," a literary man, Mary Louise Blocher.

The preparations for the play were handled as to setting by Ida Hoefn; publicity, Betty Birch; property, Lillian Aderhold; costumes, Margaret Knoop; and program, Ellen Bradford.

Nor were memories of other days forgotten in the Christmas festivities. Following an annual custom, the graves of the Sibleys, in the campus enclosure, were decorated with greens and Christmas colors, on the last day before vacation. This is the honor which the students of the art department always pay to the founder of the institution.

Sending More Girls

Miss Rachel Thompson, who attended Lindenwood last year, has written from Champaign, Ill., that she is recommending her home town girls in Paxton, Ill., to come to Lindenwood. She says, "Several girls in high school have been trying to decide where to go, and, of course, I immediately say 'Lindenwood,' so you may have more from Paxton. Really, I cannot tell you how much I enjoyed my year at Lindenwood. I hope that I may be able to come down and visit you in the near future. Give my love to Mrs. Roemer, who I hope is as well and happy as ever."

In New Orleans

Dr. and Mrs. Roemer left on Saturday before Christmas for New Orleans, where they spent the Christmas season in the delightful atmosphere of rose-trees blooming, grand opera programs, and traditional observance of old French customs of Christmas and Twelfth Night. Their headquarters were at the Roosevelt Hotel.

Jane Addams at Lindenwood

Students and all other residents of Lindenwood felt themselves especially fortunate in having secured Miss Jane Addams, of Hull House, Chicago, for a speaking engagement on the night of December 1, in Roemer Auditorium. Miss Addams came in time for dinner, where she sat with Dr. and Mrs. Roemer as guest of honor, together with some of the officers of the Alpha Sigma Tau sorority. It was by invitation in which Alpha Sigma Tau co-operated, that Miss Addams came. She was guest, after her lecture, at an after-the-theatre supper given in the Tea Room by the sorority, with Dr. and Mrs. Roemer and some other members of the faculty as guests.

Miss Addams spoke on "Newer Movements Toward World Peace." She gave a very clear idea of what the League of Nations and the World Court signify, and quoted examples of adjustments made by them between certain nations, with which, of course, she is quite conversant. She told much of interest in her experiences traveling in the Orient, where she found keen knowledge of the United States policies in India and in Japan and China. Incidentally, she made the Hindu leader, Ghandi, seem much more real to her auditors.

Miss Addams' personality was admired quite as much as what she said. Since many Lindenwood students are personally interested in social service, and some of them will perhaps follow that vocation, there were many questions asked as to Hull House and its operation. Miss Addams told of the many foreigners with whom she comes in contact, and said that Hull House is "a sort of miniature League of Nations."

By vote of the Lindenwood Athletic Association, a definite scholastic rank of an average of "M" is hereafter to be required of all participants in college games.

Health As An Asset

Rev. L. V. Buschman, pastor of the Tyler Place Presbyterian Church, St. Louis, said something which his audience at the assembly of December 3 will not soon forget, in reference to the "things worth while" in life. Just five things were named by him—"health, knowledge, reputation, character, and faith." He asked his audience to take notice that he did not include either "wealth" or "fame."

His characterization of health, in current terms of the automobile was cleverly given, as follows:

"Take at least as good care of your bodily health as you do of your auto.

"How careful we are with our autos to see that every tire is pumped up and that there is alcohol in the radiator, so that it won't freeze in winter, and yet we may have from ten to twenty automobiles in the course of our lifetime, but we only have one body to last us all the years through.

"And it isn't necessary to put alcohol in our radiators, either, to keep our bodies in health."

Not Size, But Quality

It is not ourselves who are saying it, but no less an authority than the Saturday Evening Post, which sets up a brief for the college that numbers its students by the hundreds rather than by the thousands. In an editorial commenting on a recent gift of $5,000,000 to Harvard University, this periodical, while heartily approving the gift and praising the wisdom of the donor, declares that a strong statement must also be made of the right of institutions of less size to share the attention of benevolent men and women of wealth. This is what the Saturday Evening Post says for the "small" college:

"It should never be forgotten that the small college rather than the great university is the backbone of higher education in the United States. The work done in the two types of institutions overlaps broadly, but neither entirely covers the field of the other. In graduate, professional and highly specialized studies, the little freshwater college cannot compete with the great university. But in laying the foundations of a liberal education, in forming character by benign human contacts, in fitting a student for life itself rather than for the job which is part of life, the small college still stands without a rival. The very limitations of the small institution preserve it from the danger of becoming unwieldy, topheavy or overextended. What it lacks in plant, it makes up for in personality. Its very smallness encourages individuality rather than standardization. The human contacts are closer. Men play a freer and larger part. There is as much to be said for the simple life in education as in the world at large."

Helen Wallace, a former Lindenwood student, is the creator of an original feature in fashion sketch work, in the Chicago Herald and Examiner. This appears under the caption, "And She Wore." Taking as her subject some young girl or matron comparatively well known in society, Miss Wallace presents that one as a model in some fashionable outfit, at the opera, in street dress out for a stroll, or perhaps at an afternoon reception. The backgrounds, no less than the figure work, have been very favorably commented on.

Ruth Kern, graduate 1924, has developed into a full-fledged business woman, in charge of a department of the Wiese Printing Company. Her work includes trips to outlying towns in Missouri and Illinois.

The new series of supplementary English textbooks, for use in junior high school, by Mr. L. W. Rader, of the St. Louis schools, will include a "dog story," by request, from Lindenwood. Mr. Rader has the plan of showing examples of advanced students' work in his volumes. Accordingly, Margaret Boles, a sophomore, has written an accepted story of "Kurt," his long pedigree and his faithfulness as a watch-dog to Lindenwood's standard of "the useful life." It will contain Kurt's picture.

Mary Easton Sibley Fund Notes

EDITED BY CLARENCE A. BLOCHER, FIELD SECRETARY

Annuities

Do you know that Lindenwood College sells Annuity Bonds? Had it ever occurred to you that you might give to the Mary Easton Sibley Scholarship Fund by buying one of these?

An Annuity Bond is a contract between the giver and the Board of Directors of Lindenwood College by the terms of which the Board accepts the gift and agrees to pay to the giver an annual income on the same as long as she lives. Upon the decease of the giver, the principal of the Annuity goes to the Board to be placed into any fund designated by the giver.

By this process your money serves a double purpose. First, it insures you a permanent income for life; and in the end it goes to help the cause of Christian Education. In this particular instance, it could be added to the M. E. S. S. Fund and thus become a continual and a permanent help to worthy girls in need of such help. This form of gift offers an excellent opportunity to those who want to help, but who feel that they need the income that their money will bring.

As a business investment, the Annuity Bond has many advantages:

1. It Is Safe.

This is the thing of first importance to be considered in making any investment. The entire resources of Lindenwood College are back of every Annuity Bond—thus rendering it as safe as a government bond.

2. It Is Permanent.

The rate of annuity when once established never changes. Your income therefrom is fixed, regular, and sure. The principal never shrinks. There is no loss of interest, neither is there any cost in making new investments of your money.

3. It Pays Well.

The rate of the Annuity Bond depends upon the age of the giver, and is always liberal. In most cases it is somewhat higher than the average commercial investment of equal security.

4. You Administer Your Own Funds.

Wills are often misconstrued, or contested. Sometimes years are required in the settlement, the shrinkage is great, and in the end the money does not go where the owner had intended that it should go.

The Annuity Bond does away with this by enabling you to dispose of your funds while you still live, with no legal fees to pay and no fears that your wishes will not be carried out. Also, no part of them will be spent in such things as inheritance taxes, executor's commissions, court fees, etc.

5. It Removes All Anxiety.

There is no uncertainty as to the return from your investment. If the Bond should be lost, stolen, or destroyed, your income would still be sent to you regularly by the Board, with no trouble or expense to you.

Think this through and write to us for further information, or for an interview on the subject.

* * * *

Have you joined the Two Thousand Club yet? If not, why not join now? We need you.

What part are you going to have in the raising of the Scholarship Fund? As a former student, you will share in the honor whether you help or not. You don't want the credit without doing your bit. Therefore, what will you give?

Start the New Year, 1926, by sending in your subscription to the M. E. S. S. Fund. It will make you feel happier all year.

The students now in Lindenwood made a substantial offering in December. An account of this will be given later.

Where Are These?

Mrs. W. J. Letts, of West Columbia, Tex. (Zelle Whitmarsh, graduate 1920), has written, telling of her pleasure at finding the places of abode of some of her friends of auld lang syne. She also asks after some more girls of yester-year. Her list of the "missing" is as follows:

Anne Niccolls
 Alice Sebree
 Christine Webster
 Elizabeth Clark
 Elinor Adams
 Edeline Geronin
 Edith Owen
 Dollie Hawkins
 Mary Frances Baines.

"I believe all of them are married," she says, "and I would like to know where they are. Through the Bulletin I got in touch with Helen Salyer, and find she is living not far from me. We have managed to get together several times lately.

"Jacque Hamilton is living at 1402 East Lincoln, Sapulpa, Okla. Her husband is a young doctor there. Duckie Salyer married the Texas A. & M. track coach. Her name is Mrs. Frank S. Anderson, and her present address is Aggie-land Inn, College Station, Tex."

Rotarians at Lindenwood

Rotarians of the St. Charles Club, and Rotary Anns celebrated this club's first anniversary, as guests at a dinner party at Lindenwood, Friday evening, December 11. Dr. and Mrs. Roemer shared honors of hospitality with Mr. Guy C. Motley, Secretary of the college, who is president of the St. Charles Club. Among 36 Lindenwood girls who were given special seats because of Rotary relatives, Bernice Edwards, of Joplin, claimed first kinship, as a real Rotary Annette, because her father is president of the Rotarians, and her mother is president of the Rotary Anns in Joplin.

A large basket of roses was presented by the club to Dr. and Mrs. Roemer. Dr. Roemer, in behalf of the St. Charles Club, made a speech presenting Mr. Motley and the club secretary, with gift tokens. Betty Birch gave readings, Clara Bowles sang, and Christmas numbers were contributed by a double quartette.

Dr. Roemer is on the local board of the Rotary Club. Guests from outside were Mr. John C. Hall, Governor of the Fourteenth District of Rotary, with Mrs. Hall, and Hiram C. Martin, organizer of the St. Charles Club, from St. Louis.

Tidings From the South

"Becky" Hopkins (Mrs. Allen Rufus Thompson), who is tenderly remembered from her years at Lindenwood, sends a message of mingled joy and sorrow, through her mother, Mrs. H. O. Hopkins, following Mr. Thompson's death last summer. The letter, of date November 26, follows:

Dr. and Mrs. Roemer:

Rebecca and I wish to thank you and Lindenwood for the sympathy expressed in the October Bulletin for her in her deep sorrow.

We know that you will rejoice with her when you hear that she has a son. The baby was born November 4, and bears his father's name, Allen Rufus Thompson. Little Rufus is a lovely baby and we are very proud of him.

With best wishes for you and Lindenwood, I am,

Yours sincerely,

ALMA HOPKINS,
(Mrs. H. O. Hopkins)

816 Beech St.
Helena, Arkansas

Mrs. William Berger (Viola Richards, 1899-90), of Los Angeles, Calif., has returned from a four months' tour abroad. Accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Tillson (Ione Hoiles) of University, she recently visited Miss Alice Linnemann.

Mrs. Ewell Buckner (Urilla McDearmon, graduate, 1899), of New York, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. George S. Johns, of St. Louis, and took luncheon in the college dining room, on a day early in November.

Mrs. Julius Jacobs (Marguerite Rosenfield, 1921-22) writes of her changed address from Jonesboro, Ark., to 1010 Sixteenth avenue, South, in Nashville, Tenn. "I hope to be at Lindenwood in 1927 for the big Centennial," she says.

Miss Frances Reeves (1923-24), although now of Kansas University, has announced that she wants to join one of the Lindenwood clubs, and the last word from her stated that she expected to be at home in Columbus, Kan., at Thanksgiving, and would then join the Tri-State Lindenwood Club.

Nationally Affiliated

The Lindenwood Euthenics Club has recently become nationally affiliated, and is henceforth to be known as the Home Economics Club, this affiliation having been made possible through the interest of Dr. Catherine Blunt, president of the National Home Economics Club. Miss Stewart, head of the department, and the club members are enthusiastic over this new step and are planning active work. The officers are: Louise Clough, president; Delta Neuman, vice-president; Barbara Ann Fite, secretary; and Marguerite Tainter, treasurer.

Personals

New dancing classes opened, December 7, in the gym, including natural dancing (which is carried out with bare feet) and folk dancing. They are proving popular, perhaps due in part to the desire to "reduce."

A tea was given at Margaret Hall, November 25, by the Alpha Mu Mu, honorary music sorority, at which Helen Harrison, president of the sorority, told the history of the society, and explained the requirements for entrance. Dean Gipson and Mrs. Thomas were guests representing the faculty.

Miss Harriet Diven, head of the expression department, represented the Lindenwood Players and the college at the National Conference on the American Theatre, in Pittsburgh, November 27 and 28. This was the first meeting of the kind, and brought college people and playwrights and actors from east as well as west. One of the divisions of study was the significance and extent of dramatic training in colleges and universities.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Sodemann have sent invitations to the New Year's wedding of their daughter, Dorothea, to Mr. Howard Ellway Sproull, which will take place Friday evening, January 1, at 8 o'clock, in Immanuel Presbyterian Church of Los Angeles, Calif. The bride was a student at Lindenwood for four years, and graduated from the music department in 1919. With her parents she toured back to Missouri last summer, and renewed many friendships.

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Glee Davis (1919-20), on November 25, to Mr. Hayward Francis Sahn, is made by her sister, Mrs. H. C. Dunlavy. The marriage took place in Shelby, Ia., at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Dunlavy. Mr. and Mrs. Sahn will reside in Missouri Valley, Ia.

Further accounts of the wedding of Mary Virginia Taylor (1921-22) and Harvey Edwin Dorr, which was briefly chronicled in the bulletin as occurring October 31, are given in the Okmulgee (Okla.) society columns, from which is quoted: "Mr. and Mrs. Dorr will spend their honeymoon in Dallas and San Antonio, Tex. The bride attended Lindenwood College, following her high school graduation, and is one of the most popular girls in the younger set. Mr. Dorr is head of the Dorr Motor Company."

Announcement cards have been received for the wedding of Miss Mary Conn Sayre, a student at Lindenwood from 1922 to 1924, to Mr. Havner Hurd Parish. The ceremony took place November 8, at Columbia, Mo.

Many friends are interested in the wedding on New Year's Day of Miss Alma Grace Weissgerber, at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, at Trinity Episcopal Church of Lebanon, Mo., to Mr. Earl Moulder. The bride attended Lindenwood from 1920 to 1922, and her sister, then Pauline Weissgerber, now Mrs. Stanleigh R. Palmer, was the first graduate of the full four years' course in the college. Invitations to the wedding were sent by the bride's mother, Mrs. Belle Weissgerber, as also invitations to a reception given immediately after the ceremony, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanleigh R. Palmer.

Invitations were received from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bell Verner, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., to the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Oliver (student at Lindenwood, 1918-19), to Mr. John Whiteside Weaver. The ceremony took place Tuesday evening, December 15, at 7:30 o'clock, in the First Presbyterian Church of Tuscaloosa.

Miss Julia Margaret Reck, who attended Lindenwood 1922-23, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John A. Reck, of Oklahoma City, was united in marriage May 2, to Mr. Paul Williams Lamerton, of Enid, Okla. The wedding took place at Gainesville, Tex., with Rev. Robert E. Joiner, of the First Presbyterian Church of that city, officiating. The newly-married couple have been making their home at Enid since September 1. Although the announcement is belated, we extend our heartiest congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Lehman have sent cards announcing the marriage of their daughter, Jessie Irene (graduate 1920), to Mr. Alfred L. Heusner, on Tuesday, December 15, at Newton, Kan. They will reside in Newton, and will be at home, after January 1, at 323 West Broadway.

Saw Tutankhamen's Tomb

That Lindenwood girls "go everywhere and see everything" receives one more proof in the address which Mrs. W. K. Roth (Anna Haeussler, graduate 1891) gave entitled, "My Cruise of the Mediterranean," December 15, at the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club meeting at the Forest Park Hotel. She even stepped into the musty, richly adorned tomb of Tutankhamen, and she brought back with her some of the palm strips from leaves of the same sort of tree as the ancient Egyptians used in showing respect to their royal dead. Her address was considered one of the best things of the season, and it is little wonder that Mrs. Roth has been much in request by other clubs and gatherings, to speak on the same subject. Her trip was made with her daughter, shortly before the latter's wedding. The city of Cairo was one of those interesting Mrs. Roth most.

This was the meeting at which the club voted a $500 gift to the Mary Easton Sibley scholarship fund, to be further replenished next year, looking on to the centennial.

A letter from Dr. Roemer was read, regretting that he and Mrs. Roemer could not attend, because their duties on this last day of classes before vacation would keep them at home.

Mrs. Joseph W. White presided. Miss Lillian Zacher was chairman of the team of hospitality for the day, and a very pretty tea was served.

Chicago's Largest Meeting

Mrs. May Beckman Swanstrom, corresponding secretary of the Chicago Lindenwood College Club, writes to Dr. Roemer:

"While I tune in to Lindenwood for a few minutes, I wish to tell you what a lovely time we had at our club meeting, given at Mrs. C. B. Wagner's (Laura Bruere) home, with Mrs. J. C. Flanagan (Martha McDearmon) assisting.

"We had the largest number present for a long period of time. There were twenty-nine of us. Each and all seemed very enthusiastic over the Mary Easton Sibley Scholarship Fund. Everyone accepted the card, taking it home to sign."

Music Director's Recital

Mr. John Thomas, head of Lindenwood's music department, entertained the faculty and student body with a piano recital Thursday morning, December 10. Mr. Thomas is always well received by the students. His program opened with Sonata, Op. 27, No. 1, from Beethoven, including Andante, Allegro, and Allegro Vivace.

After a short intermission, Mr. Thomas played an original composition, which he has named "Fantasie on a Welsh Air." It was greatly appreciated by the audience, and won much applause. Then he rendered Chopin's Waltz, Op. 42. After delighting the girls with a selection from d'Albert, Scherzo F Sharp Major, there was another short intermission.

The program was closed with "Concert Arabesques," by Schulz-Evler, in which the themes of Strauss' waltz, "Blue Danube," made it a special favorite with the students.

New York Club Elects Officers

The Lindenwood College Club of New York City met at the residence of Mrs. Isaac Gardner (Ann Brown), 930 Riverside drive, on November 21. An enjoyable luncheon was served at 1:30 o'clock, and a business meeting followed.

Election of new officers for the coming year resulted in the choice of the following:

President, Mrs. George Pegram (Jessie Crawford).

Secretary, Mrs. Leslie A. Burritt (Sue Anderson).

Treasurer, Mrs. Isaac Gardner (Ann Brown).

The club's former secretary, Mrs. William Ferguson (Marie Stumberg) has removed to Havana, Cuba.

Mrs. Ronald C. Mustarde (Cornelia Haire) joined the club at this meeting. It is expected that several of the new members will solicit pledges for the Mary Easton Sibley scholarship fund. There are about sixty "girls of yesterday" in and around New York City, Mrs. Burritt writes, whom the Club hopes to interest. She says, "The only way to get them all together is to have Dr. Roemer come east. We hope for that this winter."

* * * *

Dr. Henry L. Southwick, of the Emerson School of Oratory, gave a reading in Roemer Auditorium, on the night of December 6, on Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," giving also a synopsis of the play as a comedy well suited to the holidays, and commenting on the fact that "Shakespeare's best lines were often put in the mouths of villains and fools." Dr. Southwick delighted his audience, as he never fails to do, each year, at Lindenwood.

Nebraska Will Raise $500.

The Nebraska Lindenwood College Club held a meeting at Omaha on November 20, last and pledged to raise $500 towards the Mary Easton Sibley Scholarship Fund. The meeting was enthusiastic and all present pledged themselves to be earnest in their endeavor to do their part personally and financially for the school. Officers for the coming year were chosen as follows:

President, Jean Hampton.

Vice-President, Mrs. William Schumacher (Doris Scroggin).

Secretary, Mrs. Richard Perry (Isabel Wolff).

Treasurer, Mrs. Charles Kellar (Ellen Bloom).

The Secretary of the Club, Mrs. Richard Perry (Isabel Wolff), 5619 Williams, Omaha, sends the following:

Maxine Heimbaugh (1919-20) spent several very enjoyable days with Marion Playter in Portland, Ore., this summer. Marion is secretary to the editor of the "Oregonian," the leading newspaper in Oregon. Also, Maxine saw Mrs. Bryan Ruth (Laura Dale) in Hollywood.

Blanche Fish sails in January for a trip around the world. Blanche is now in Canada. * * * *

Births

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Walter announce the advent of Alden Robert, Jr., on November 20, at their home in Peoria, Ill. Mrs. Walter was formerly Miss Virginia Shull, who attended Lindenwood in 1922-23.

A little daughter, Lavinia Margaret, arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond D. Bower, in Kingston, Mo., October 29. Mrs. Bower was formerly Gladys Robertson, who was a Lindenwood graduate in 1911.
