Old Sibley Renewed

Best Features of Other Days Emphasized in Restoration

Folk-lore tradition of Lindenwood has it that old Sibley Hall sees sometimes (to the terror of all freshmen) the spirit of Mary Easton Sibley. If this were ever true, it should come to pass this autumn, with the emphasis which the renewed Old Sibley gives to the past, making this oldest of dormitories comfortable and modern, yet beautified with the architecture and art of decades gone by. Even the very furniture—the cane-seat chairs and mahogany table—which Mrs. Sibley used, has been found and purchased for Sibley parlors, from those owners to whom these things had descended.

An improvement, century-old in its suggestion, is the long Colonial porch, three stories high, across the east side of Sibley. Third floor rooms are now extraordinarily desirable, because of the high balcony, spacious with charming balustrade, into which one can step from the windows. The fluted pillars of the porch give great dignity to the structure, and are in keeping with Sibley's original large windows, unchanged from the first idea when the main building was erected in 1856. The perfect tuck-pointing and renewal of brick help to bring out the universal exclamation, "How much larger Sibley looks!" doing away with all dampness and the inevitable deterioration which had somewhat disfigured the outer walls.

Everyone who sees the new Old Sibley will agree that Dr. Roemer and the Board of Directors were justified in thinking the improvements worthy of a re-dedication, which will occur Friday, October 22. Modern creature comforts (such as Queen Mary of England is insisting on, in these times, for old Balmoral Castle) are introduced in Sibley, even to the extent of "singles with bath," which the girls of today seem to think is the last word in luxury. Baths are accessible for every suite, and the woodwork is re-decorated, with the large windows unchanged.

As far as possible, the Colonial idea has been carried out in the bedroom furnishings, but it is in the Sibley parlors that old-fashioned furniture has full sway. The woodwork is white enamel, and the chandeliers are candelabra in brass, with frosted upright chimney effect over each light. Tapestry settees are here and there. A wide mirror in dark wood frame hangs over the honest-to-goodness fireplace. Glass candlesticks have a place on a console-table, and in the large bay-window is the highly polished center table, older than anyone now living, with hinged leaves covering a concealed compartment, of the sort that should be filled with age-old love-letters, tied with faded blue ribbon.

Sibley, as will be remembered, succeeded the first building of 1831, which was made of wood from the forest. Sibley as built in 1856, the cornerstone having been laid July 4 of that year, is all of brick. At the date mentioned, Major and Mrs. Sibley executed a deed to 120 acres of land for the use of the college.

Miss Lucinda de Leftwich Templin, former Dean of Lindenwood, who will give a historical address at Sibley's dedication, will narrate many interesting facts concerning Major and Mrs. Sibley.

Old pictures of Sibley Hall show it as it was in Mrs. Sibley's lifetime, a single, straight-up structure. The wings to the south and north, built in 1881 and 1886, were in the time of Dr. Robert Irwin's presidency. In the time of the original building, from 1856 to 1862, Rev. A. C. Schenck was president, and others succeeding him, during that period when Sibley, as it stood, was about all of Lindenwood, were Dr. R. J. Barbour, 1862-65; Prof. French Strother, 1866-1870; Dr. J. H. Nixon, 1870-76; and Miss Mary Jewell, 1876-80.

It is a pleasure to returning students to see the portraits of Major and Mrs. Sibley occupying prominent places in the wide reception hall.

"Investment of Life"

Good counsel at the outset of the centennial year was afforded in the opening vesper service, in Roemer Auditorium, September 19, attended of course by every student and by all the faculty. This address is always given by the president, Dr. Roemer, and immediately precedes the Convocation Address on Monday night.

Dr. Roemer's topic was "Investment of Life," in which he touched a popular chord, when he said, "Investment is an everyday topic of great concern to those who have something to invest."

Referring to "citizenship of the highest type," Dr. Roemer said that "possession and responsibility go hand in hand," and the highest type of citizenship is attained "when the citizen has something invested in the community in which he lives."

His hearers, he said, had "something to invest—a life." There was Washington, as an example, who invested his life in "his country's struggles for life;" and Lincoln, who invested his life "in the interests of freedom."

The motto of "education as conduct" was quoted. Education may indeed bring financial returns, but "its ultimate aim is to make the student a better citizen, a moral force in the community."

"The exacting things of life" are worth while, Dr. Roemer said, because "there is no substitute for work in achievement."

"In this period of life there is a pernicious doctrine of getting something for nothing. Dr. W. F. Crafts says, 'Doing nothing is an apprenticeship to doing wrong.' Mischievous always finds much for idle hands to do. 'Every man's task is his life-preserver,' said George B. Emerson, and it is true."

As to leadership, he said: "The reason there are so few leaders compared to the number of workers is the fact that few care to assume any responsibility. Leadership, we are told, requires ability, the power of initiative, the endurance against opposition. Men who have all the necessary requirements remain in the ranks because they would put upon themselves nothing in the way of responsibility. For our unwillingness to be responsible for our own convictions, we allow others to mold them."

Finally, the speaker said, "one should invest in the serviceable things of life." He said, "Education is concerned in making its product of some use in the world. It aims to impress upon young minds that their advantages are not for selfish purposes.

"You cannot give out something you do not possess. You must first have, in order to give. The schools are giving you the opportunity of self-development, so that with what you have in the make-up of your life you can give.

"Giving is quite as essential as getting. You reach the highest self-development when what you can do, you use for the benefit of mankind. We have no use for the man who can help uplift the world with his means, and refuses to use his gifts for anybody but himself. Selfishness is the burden of the world."

City Improvements

St. Charles as a city has been inspired by the example of Lindenwood College to make many civic improvements. Notable among these is the paving of many streets. Clay street, which was the first, and which is part of the great interstate highway from St. Louis to Kansas City, has brought so much business that its cost is far more than compensated to the town. Other streets are falling into line, and Lindenwood indirectly will be a partaker in the benefits.

A large hotel is also being projected, which is a long-felt need of St. Charles, and will doubtless be filled to capacity in festal times of Lindenwood's centennial year. St. Charles has under consideration a new waterworks on a large scale, and its lighting system has advanced.

College Opening

Everything is now well started for the Centennial year, with the enrollment to capacity as anticipated. The Convocation Address was delivered on the night of September 20, by Dr. S. Willis McKelvey, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Kansas City, who spoke on "The Renaissance of Wonder."

New equipment is seen in many of the departments, not the least of which, for the use of the whole college, is a moving picture machine.

Freshman Assembly

(From St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

Extracurricular activities in college life were presented as part of a student's education, in an address at the first Freshman Assembly of the centennial year at Lindenwood College, Friday morning, September 17, in Roemer Auditorium, by the Dean, Dr. Alice E. Gipson.

She spoke of the Y. W. C. A., which usually has 100 per cent membership at Lindenwood; of the honor societies, Alpha Sigma Tau for merit in scholarship, and Alpha Mu Mu for musical proficiency; of the Athletic Association, which pledges students gaining a certain number of points in physical education; and of the Lindenwood Players, who always entertain the student body several times a year.

She also mentioned the cultural opportunities of the various departmental clubs, such as the English Club, the Spanish Club, the French Club, the Latin Students' Club, the International Relations Club, the activities in science, in art and in home economics, as well as the college newspapers. By taking an interest in these things outside the classroom, the student develops along different lines and has scope for a fuller life.

Marriage Changes Names

Such a caption, "Marriage changes names," is what the youthful mind would term "obvious," but nevertheless it cannot be too much emphasized for Lindenwood's far-away family. Two instances of losing sight of students to whom great honor should have been given have come to light in the last month. Girls who attended the college married, and did not send in their new names. Their identity becomes as difficult as that of a grain of the Sahara Desert; Lindenwood has no way of tracing them. They pass into the great category of the "Unknown," that dreary list which saddens every directory-maker's heart. But the college is more than glad that errors are corrected, and those students of the '50's and other decades are proving their loyalty to Lindenwood by sending in their wedded names.

To this may be added a corollary: Lindenwood students DO marry.

Her First Fellowship

Miss Cora M. Wallenbrock, of St. Charles, A. B. Lindenwood, 1926, is enjoying the $500 fellowship which Lindenwood bestowed upon her at last June's commencement. This was awarded, as stated at the time, for four years' excellent work, during which she achieved not only good grades, but demonstrated such helpful co-operation in all the life and activities of the college, and showed such general ability, conforming in all respects to "the standards of Lindenwood" that she was adjudged by the faculty vote as worthy of the honor.

She has entered the University of Missouri, at Columbia, where she will study for the degree, Master of Arts. Lindenwood hopes for her occasional return to the college, to greet her friends here.

"When Lindenwood Is 117"

Mrs. H. W. De Witt, formerly Clarice Williams, sends cordial greetings to readers of the bulletin, from her home in Mt. Vernon, Ill., at 1910 Broadway. She says: "Four years ago this month I made my first trip to Lindenwood, and now I'm wishing for the girls starting this year just as happy a year as the one I spent there. I couldn't wish them more.

"I was married June 18, 1925, to Herman William De Witt, of Mt. Vernon, and July 29, 1926, was the birthday of our baby girl whom we have named Ann Louise. Lindenwood will be just 117 years old when my little girl enters.

"I am looking forward to the celebration of L. C.'s birthday, and I certainly intend to be there."

Mrs. Maurine Firestone Cook, of Anthony, Kan., spent a September day on the campus, recalling her days with the Hikers' Club, the Kansas Club, and other interests. She graduated A. A. in 1918, and two years ago was married to Mr. Charles Ray Cook.

Mrs. Virgil M. Galey (Della Gerhart), who was for four years a Lindenwood student, graduating in 1888, came from the Pacific Coast for a brief visit. She was much interested in all the improvements, and in Old Sibley in her new raiment.

Mary Easton Sibley Fund Notes

EDITED BY CLARENCE A. BLOCHER, FIELD SECRETARY

Chicago Club Active

The following letter sent out by Mrs. William W. Seymour (Margarite Petitdidier), president of the Chicago Lindenwood Club, to every former student of Lindenwood now living in Chicago and vicinity, shows the keen interest that the members of this club are taking in the matter of raising the Scholarship Fund:

Dear Girls of Lindenwood, "Yesterday and Today":

We have in Chicago a little band of faithful friends of Lindenwood. We meet the second Friday of each month, in a private home if convenient or at a place in the loop if necessary.

Our small group has raised nearly $2,500.00 for the Mary Easton Sibley Scholarship Fund and we hope to raise that much more by May, 1927. How shall we do it?

We are planning a year of delightful meetings, education in character, and we ask you to join us. Give us your name, your dues, only $3.00, and your pledge of loyalty to Lindenwood. We ask you, too, for a sacrifice; a few dinners, theaters, movies, to help raise this money. We are planning bakesales, wonderful cakes as only Lindenwood girls can make, two card parties, one in November and one in March, a community chest and other ways if you can help us think them out. Our program will include current events at each meeting and the following topics:

September 10, Education through Play, "Then and Now."

October 8, Education in Motherhood.

November 12, Education in Citizenship.

December 10, Education in Music.

January 14, Education through Higher Ideals.

February 11, Education through Art (Art Institute tour and luncheon).

March 11, Education through Book Lore.

April 8, Educational Outlook for Today.

May 13, Our Jubilee Celebration.

June 10, Echoes from Lindenwood.

Sincerely hoping that this program will please you and that you will help to make it a success by saving the second Friday of every month for Lindenwood, I am,

Yours very truly,

MRS. W. W. SEYMOUR.

Encouraging Prospects

It is gratifying to note the number of contributions and pledges that have been received since September 1. The response to the letter sent out by the M. E. S. S. Fund Committee has been quite general, and the words of good will and loyalty accompanying the cards have made our work a pleasure. We are sure, as we always have been, that the Lindenwood women do not mean to fail and that by next May our Scholarship Fund will be a reality.

However, we need many more subscriptions and we need them now. If we are to succeed, as we believe we shall, we must know before long just how much money we can depend upon from the former students. We are certain that you do not want to be left out—that you want to have some part in this worthy movement. Hence, we urge you to send in your card at once.

You will note by the card that you may make your own terms as to the payment of your pledge. This has been done so that everyone may be able to give just as much as she possibly can.

If you are able to make a large subscription do so. We need it and it is a gift to a most worthy cause. If you cannot give largely, give anyway. Many smaller gifts will make a large amount in the aggregate and yours will help.

Keeping the Record

It may be that the babies, one or two, of recent advent may not be chronicled in this number of the bulletin, owing to an accident by which a few letters were lost on a street-car. If anyone should find her name missing, or that of her baby, will she please send it a second time?

Mrs. Wheeler's Memories

Letters have been received from older students of Lindenwood College, inspired by the published accounts of Miss Clementine Cole's happy years at Lindenwood in Civil War times, which go to prove that several "girls of yesterday" have still a greater claim than Miss Cole to the Scriptural blessing, "With long life will I satisfy thee."

In 1857 it was that Mary V. Montague, now Mrs. Mary V. Wheeler, of Laddonia, Mo. (Route 1), attended "Linden Wood," the name being written in two words then. Mrs. Wheeler is 84 years of age, and was a student of "Linden Wood" when she was 15. Mrs. Wheeler's niece, Miss Martha Montague, has written a narrative for her aunt, of some of the latter's school-day memories:

"I was born April 3, 1842, in St. Charles County. On April 30, 1863, I was married to Wallace Wheeler, of Troy, Mo., and spent most of my life near St. Charles. I recall with pleasure the many happy days spent at Linden Wood.

"Dr. A. V. C. Schenck was then the president. Prof. Elias Schenck, Miss Bailey, Miss Thompson were teachers. Mrs. Marchond was the matron. Mrs. McConnell taught music, and Miss Blanchard taught art. Grandpa Carey held prayer services each morning.

"The Directors were Mr. Watson, Mr. John J. Johns, Mr. B. A. Alderson.

"The building where we roomed was a large brick structure, and the classroom was a small frame building. Dr. James H. Brookes, of the St. Louis Washington and Compton Avenue Presbyterian Church, gave lectures about once a month. President Schenck required us to leave on record a copy of our essays.

"Some of my classmates were Mollie Fulkerson, my room-mate; Dora and Fannie Lambeth of New Orleans. Annie Alderson graduated, and also Mollie Henderson and Abbie Mechette."

Student in 1858

The error of a St. Louis newspaper in ranking Miss Clem Cole as "Lindenwood's oldest student" has brought to light, among other appreciated letters, one from Mrs. Martha E. Henderson, which tells of her aunt, Mrs. Mary Bassett, of 625 Oakwood avenue, Webster Groves, Mo., who was a student of Lindenwood in 1858-59. She was then Mary Evans, of St. Louis County.

Miss Evans married Dr. Louis Bassett, of Florissant, Mo. In her school days at Lindenwood she remembers that Mrs. Anna Sneed Cairns, then quite a youthful teacher, was a member of the faculty and occupied a room adjoining hers.

Mrs. Bassett is now 83 years of age.

Butler's New Head

Mrs. Teresa B. Peyton, of Columbus, Ohio, who comes to Lindenwood to be head of Butler Hall, that lovely dormitory whose western windows now overlook the new athletic field, its courts, its walks, and its new-planted trees.

"Visiting 'Round"

Mrs. W. H. Barton, whose husband (a physician) and herself have been living for three years in Hampshire, Ill., writes news of a number of Lindenwood girls. Mrs. Barton, who was formerly Artrude Strange (1920-21), says: "I spent several weeks this summer with Lois Vidler Metzger, and we visited Marion Pholman Dunne. She has a little daughter. Fern Jacobs married a Dr. Nilson, and still lives in Bloomington.

"I'm planning on picking up some of the girls and bringing them down for homecoming. It surely doesn't seem like so many years since we were worrying as to how we could cut chapel and not get caught, and somehow we usually got caught."

Mrs. Barton has "a fine little curly-headed son, two years old." They lost a little daughter, three years ago.

* * * *

Mr. Ernst Z. Bower, a druggist of Olney, Ill., who keeps up an album of "Old Time Pictures," has registered Miss Clem Cole (Lindenwood, 1863-64), of Chester, Ill., with her sister, in his collection. He says his album is being made "so as to preserve pictures," and after he is gone the album is to be placed where it will "live on." Its place now is in a reception room which he maintains in his Olney store. Miss Cole taught several years in Olney, and is well remembered there.

Mrs. J. W. Steele, of Kansas City, formerly Blanche Cohen (1919-20), has been bereaved by the death of her father, who resided in St. Louis, her former home.

Quite a company of Lindenwood girls were at Boulder, Colo., in the last summer, studying a little and playing more. Among them were Margaret Boles, Dixie Laney, Isabel Johnson, Pauline Davis, Betty Foster, and Lewellyn Trapp.

Miss Mary Chapman was society editor of her home town paper, at McAlester, Okla., for several weeks this summer, and was too busy, so the accounts say, to go on a projected mountain picnic.

News of Miss Jean Badger (1915-16) tells of her teaching in the continuation work under the New York Civic Plan. She is also taking studies in Columbia University.

Weddings

Another expression teacher of Lindenwood is married! Miss Myrrl Rodney, of Kansas City, whose popularity was evidenced by the warm greetings she received on several return visits, became the bride on Tuesday, August 17, of Mr. Victor N. Remley. Her mother, Mrs. John Leonard Rodney, sends cards including "at home" announcements for Orrick, Mo., after August 15. One of Miss Rodney's best efforts in an entertaining year, it will be remembered, was the Pierrot and Pierrette semi-historical dance-drama, given in honor of Mrs. Roemer's birthday.

Invitations to the marriage of Miss Anne Elizabeth Parks, best known in college as "Betty," who attended Lindenwood 1922-23, are sent from Fort Smith, Ark., by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Shields Parks. The bridegroom, to whom she was married at St. John's Episcopal Church, on September 5, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, is Mr. Donald Wayne Van Doren.

Another church wedding, at the First Presbyterian Church of Atchison, Kan., was that of Miss Elizabeth Munson (1919-20) to Mr. George Ira Wilson, at high noon on Wednesday, September 1. Invitations came from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Morton Munson.

Miss Mildred Silvers, a Lindenwood home economics graduate of 1922, was married on Monday, August 23, at Butler, Mo., to Mr. Sherman B. Moore, the announcement cards from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan A. Silvers, including also announcement that the bridal couple will return from their wedding trip, on September 10, to Butler.

Cards announcing the marriage of Miss Corinne Tiemann (Lindenwood A. A., 1918), to Mr. Lucius Augustus Fritze, have been sent by her mother, Mrs. Gustav Henry Tiemann, of Chicago. The ceremony took place Thursday, September 2. "At home" cards are enclosed, for 8020 Langley avenue, after November 1. The bride was a teacher of home economics in Granite City for a while after graduation, and was also interested in child welfare work in the Elizabeth McCormick Memorial, Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen Nicoll, of Elmdale, Kan., are announcing the marriage, Wednesday, September 1, of their daughter, Miss Emma Rankin Prather, a student at Lindenwood for the last two years, to Mr. Nelson Haiston Poe. Mr. and Mrs. Poe will reside in Marion, Kan., after October 15.

Just when Lindenwood was in the midst of its reopening ceremonies, on September 18, occurred the marriage of a former graduate, Miss Cecilia Miller (A. A. 1922), of Platte City, Mo., who became the bride of Mr. Howard Hoge Fitch. Invitations were sent by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis Miller, the ceremony taking place in the Presbyterian Church of Platte City, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Announcement cards for Miss Helen Evans (1920-22), are sent by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Evans, of Waukegan, Ill. She was married on August 1 to Mr. H. Bradford Tibbitts. Their new home is in Chicago, at 5200 Harper avenue.

Mrs. James M. Van Winkle, of Ponca City, Okla., has announced the marriage on Wednesday, September 8, of her daughter, Adeline (Lindenwood 1922-1923), to Mr. Homer G. Allen, at Ponca City.

Lindenwood Clubwoman

(From St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

Mrs. Walter W. Seymour, of Chicago, a graduate of Lindenwood College, will preside Tuesday evening, September 14, at a dinner in Peoria, Ill., which will be given in honor of the board of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, and at the board meetings which will be held Wednesday and Thursday. Mrs. Seymour was elected state president last May in Chicago.

Mrs. Seymour, when making the call for the meeting this week, said: "It is not what the months have in store for us that determines victory or failure, but the heroism or hesitancy with which we face the year. There can be no personal privileges, no self-aggrandizement; we must work for each individual soul as found in a great composite whole."

A creed which Mrs. Seymour believes fits the aims of the different departments of club work sponsored by the federation has been outlined by her and will be presented at the board meeting, which will be attended by sixty officers, department chairmen and district presidents.

Perhaps a New Club

One who "passed through" and was keen to revisit her "old room in Sibley" on September 20 was Mrs. Grace Alvord Kelley, of St. Joseph, Mo., who attended Lindenwood in 1877-78, when Miss Jewell was president. She made a point of taking in St. Charles, on her way to Philadelphia, where she is to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Donald Cronkite, of 141 North Fiftieth street. Besides seeing the Sesqui, Mrs. Kelley intends to look up three "girls of yesterday," who are in Philadelphia, to her knowledge, and to find as many more, if possible, so that the Philadelphians may have the honor of a local Lindenwood College Club.

Noted By Others

Lindenwood's College Assembly, which occurs every Thursday morning of the school year in Roemer Auditorium, is to be repeated with a fac-simile in Pasadena, Calif., upon a smaller scale, but an assembly of enthusiasm each week in behalf of Lindenwood's hundredth anniversary. Mrs. C. H. Baker (formerly Miss Nellie Ingram), a graduate of Lindenwood, has opened her home, at 1080 Arden Road, Pasadena, for the Lindenwood assembly of all alumnae or former students within range, every Thursday afternoon, from now on, until next June. Other members of the Lindenwood Club of Southern California assist Mrs. Baker as hostess.

The purpose of the far-west gathering is not alone to show loyalty as alumnae, but also to bring the California former students together in acquaintance and friendship. The idea of a generous gift in honor of the Sibley Memorial scholarship is to be kept to the fore, and other suggestions will be sought each week for perfecting the celebration of the centennial. A pretty remembrance of the Southern California "girls" exists already at Lindenwood, in a beautiful rose-garden, the plants having been sent from the club members, and principally from the rose-garden of Miss Nellie Boal, a former student here.

Omaha's Second Anniversary

The Omaha Lindenwood College Club had a gala celebration of its second anniversary on September 14, inviting as its guests all the Nebraska girls—not a small number—who are now attending Lindenwood.

Mrs. Richard Perry, of 5619 William street, is secretary of this club, and in her name came "a cordial invitation to everyone at Lindenwood to attend this meeting." The invitation was much appreciated, but as the anniversary came just on the eve of opening the college, the administration had to decline. Dr. Roemer sent the following telegram, which was read at the meeting:

"Regret Lindenwood Centennial Opening prevents attendance in person at second anniversary of the Omaha Lindenwood College Club. Cordial greetings from Mrs. Roemer and myself. Hope to welcome all Nebraska girls of other years at four-day centennial program in May. Desire you to see improvements in historic Sibley Hall. Five hundred college students are beginning the year's studies."

* * * *

California's Enterprise

Mrs. Robert L. Hubbard (Cora Donlin, '84), of Los Angeles, in a letter on behalf of the Southern California Lindenwood Club, inviting Dr. Roemer to visit the club, gives a bright picture of the club's interest and fidelity. The death of Mrs. Mary H. Gillelen ("Mame" Hibben, 1882-83), is news which will cause sorrow to many old friends.

Some members of her club, Mrs. Hubbard says, have been away from Lindenwood for forty years or more, but in spite of the lapse of years and the distance in space, she says: "We are all working earnestly, eagerly and joyously to reach the goal which we have set as our share of the Scholarship Fund. It would not surprise me to have that amount quite materially increased in the near future.

"We are a happy family, but just at this time are sad on account of the passing on of Mary H. Gillelen—a loving wife, a loyal friend, and a cheerful comrade."

Births

"Good News Within" says the stork card, in white and gold, for little Jayne Ann Pugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Pugh (Coralene Parker, 1923-24), of Hot Springs, Ark. She arrived "beneath the heaven's starry dome" on September 2.

The first baby, Helen Ann, has arrived for Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dunn (Marion Pohlman, 1922-23), of Fairmont Place, Hillsboro, Ill. Her birthday is July 15. Helen Ann is named for her aunt, Mrs. Lane Boogher, and her grandmother, Mrs. B. B. Pohlman.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Rose (Helen Maxine Mulliken, 1920-22), of Rantoul, Ill., are announcing the coming of a daughter, Margaret Ann, who was born September 13, a big baby weighing nine pounds.

Patricia Jane Ewell is the new arrival, September 8, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. George Hobert Ewell, and her tiny personal card comes attached to that of her parents, whose home is at 4818 Roanoke Parkway, Kansas City, Mo. Mrs. Ewell was formerly Hilda Elizabeth Wright (Lindenwood A. A., 1920).
