Turner to Discuss Women in Leadership

September 9, 2013
Volume 7, Issue 2

Julie Turner, PhD, Associate Professor and Chair of the Nonprofit Administration Department, will participate in a group discussion as part of the ATHENA Leadership Foundation of St. Charles County's Working Knowledge Series at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 17. She will lead a discussion of Lean In: Women, Work, and the Will to Lead, the provocative recent release by author Sheryl Sandberg. The informal conversation will focus on the ambiguity and bias surrounding the lives and choices of working women.

The book expands on Sandberg's popular presentation, "Why We Have Too Few Women Leaders." The book has been met with wide acclaim and was an Amazon Best Book of the Month in March 2013. Oprah Winfrey defined it as, "the new manifesto for women in the workplace."

The Working Knowledge Series is a new program designed to spark discussion on topics that impact professional women. The cost-free program is open to the public and is ideal for working women interested in leadership, networking, and career advancement.

To register for the event and to access venue information, visit www.ATHENAstc.eventbrite.com.

Did You Know?

Did you know that the Mary Ambler Archives is named after the woman who was head librarian for Lindenwood between 1964 and 1974. After she retired, she organized a group of volunteers who vigorously saved for posterity any Lindenwood-related or unique educational items. Among the oldest items in the archives are some illuminated manuscripts from the 13th and 14th centuries.

Price Moves to HR Department

Amanda Price has been named Human Resources Coordinator for Lindenwood University. She had previously served since 2008 in a marketing capacity for the Daniel Boone Home and Heritage Center.

In her new role, Price is responsible for helping further the mission of the University's Human Resources Department. She said an important part of that mission is to, "provide quality education and experiences for our students by selecting appropriate full-time faculty and supporting them in their professional roles."

Her duties include: managing contract and salary letters, maintaining accurate personnel files, coordinating application distributions, processing new and transitioning employee information, processing background checks, coordinating new employee induction sessions, maintaining legally compliant job description records, managing the human resources web site, processing unemployment information, and compliance reporting.

"I'm really excited to help put some new policies and procedures in place," Price said. "We are working hard to streamline everything from application to retirement processes. Our goal is to create smoother experiences and to make the HR Office a great resource for our employees."

Price is located in the Executive Offices of Roemer Hall. She can be reached at aprice@lindenwood.edu or 636-949-4477.

MacDonald Honored with MLA Award

Liz MacDonald, Dean of Library Services, has been named the 2013 recipient of the Ronald G. Bohley Award by the Missouri Library Association (MLA) and Amigos Library Services. She will accept the state-wide award during the MLA's upcoming conference in October in St. Louis, Mo.

Presented jointly by both organizations, the honor is given to an individual whose actions exemplify meaningful efforts to reach beyond his or her own institution to promote cooperative activities among libraries. She was nominated by Steven Potter, director of Mid-Century Public Library, and selected as the winner by a committee of peer professionals.

"I'm involved in many professional activities outside of Lindenwood, so it's nice to receive an award that reflects my commitment to furthering collaboration among library services of all types," MacDonald said. "It's a good surprise."

MacDonald has worked at Lindenwood since 2003 and is a member of the Board of Directors for Amigos Library Services. She previously served on the Missouri Library Network Corporation's Board of Directors and as a member of the Executive Board for MOBIUS, Missouri's academic library consortium.

Key Takes Reins of Table Tennis Program

Chance Key has been hired as Lindenwood University's table tennis coach. He brings over 19 years of playing experience to the position and formerly served as an assistant table tennis coach for the Lions from 2010-2012.

Key became interested in the sport in 1989 after watching the Chinese national team play in a tournament in his hometown of Detroit, Mich. His own style of play initially mimicked the pen-holder grip commonly used by members of the Chinese team, but his preferences have evolved over time, and he now uses a Japanese-style of grip for added loop and spin capabilities.

After moving to St. Louis, Mo., in 1991, Key promptly played in his first competitive tournament and joined the St. Louis Table Tennis Club. He served as tournament director for the club from 1993 to 2005. In 2001, he became a regional table tennis umpire.

Key takes over the Lindenwood men's team that finished fifth and the University's women's team that finished seventh at the 2013 College Table Tennis National Championships. He said he's excited to be in the role of head coach and is looking forward to helping young people compete as student-athletes.

Key can be reached by phone at 314-780-9134, or by e-mail at ckey@hotmail.com.
