FROM THE OFFICE OF THE DEAN

The Junior English Examination will be held from 4 to 6, Thursday, April 11 in room 211. Seniors who have not done so must pass it. Juniors are permitted to take the examination.

Those students who will be juniors and seniors next year are asked to talk over their courses with the heads of the departments in which they are to major or minor, so that they will be sure to meet the requirements in the subjects of specialization chosen. Advisors will be glad to make arrangements to see students to talk over their plans for the coming year.

Dean Gipson is beginning to look toward end of the year assignments, and from time to time students will be informed of plans for completing the work of the year.

Lindenwood Takes Part

National Conference on Consumers Education, with National Speakers

On Monday, April 1, Dr. Bernard, Martha Norris and Peggy Turcott went to Columbia to attend an Institute for Consumer Education at Stephens College. On their arrival in Columbia, they went to a general forum on advertising.

On Tuesday morning, the girls went on a tour of the University of Missouri, conducted by student members of the Consumer's Institute. After this, Peggy attended a conference on what college students should be taught in Consumer Education, and Martha attended one on what high school students should be taught in consumer education.

At noon on Tuesday, Peggy went to a luncheon at the Tiger Hotel for a student panel discussion on college students consumer's education. Dr. Hugo Wall of the University of Wichita, at Wichita Kan., led the discussion and Dr. Menden Hall of Stephens acted as host. College students representing Missouri, Kansas University, Kansas State College, Kemper, Stephens, Christian. Illinois University, Illinois College, Washington University and Iowa University were present at this meeting. After the luncheon the group was taken on a conducted tour of Stephens College.

Dr. Bernard, Dr. Benson and Martha went to a conference on "Propaganda Analysis". After this was another student panel discussion in the Auditorium at Stephens, led by Dr. Hugo Wall. Twenty student representatives participated in this. Peggy was the Lindenwood representative. They discussed the various problems of universities and girls' schools and gave suggestions for the improvement of consumer education courses and how to remedy all problems. This panel lasted for an hour, after which there were questions from the audience, made up of teachers of consumer education.

A banquet was the feature of Tuesday evening in Tower Hall at Stephens. The banquet was followed by speakers and various discussion groups. The conference closed on Wednesday morning.

L. C. at Meet, Academy of Science

Dr. Schaper and Lucille Vosburg will represent Lindenwood at the state meeting of the Missouri Academy of Science at Warrensburg, Mo., on April 20. Dr. Schaper will officiate as chairman of the sociology section, and Lucille will read a scientific paper before the Academy.

Lucille was recently honored with membership in the Missouri Beta Chapter of Alpha Kappa Delta, national honorary sociology fraternity of Washington University, and has gained recognition for her outstanding work in the social sciences.

New Bulletin Issued

Personnel Department Added This Year

The new Lindenwood bulletin or catalog for the year 1940-41 has been issued. It contains, as have the previous bulletins, the aims and purposes of Lindenwood, a complete curriculum, and the college calendar showing the dates of the opening and closing of school, and of vacations. Following are the members of the faculty and administration.

The history of Lindenwood is contained in the bulletin along with mention of the buildings and equipment. The next division is devoted to student life and organization, admission requirements, and information about the different courses and schools. The student council, organization and associations, and prizes and awards offered are introduced to the prospective student. A complete list of the prizes, degrees, and diplomas awarded in 1938-39 is found in the back of the bulletin along with lists of Lindenwood College Alumnae Association and Lindenwood College Clubs, and the student roster for 1939-40. A glance at the enrollment by states shows that 22 states and three foreign countries are represented. Missouri leads the enrollment with 115 girls, Illinois is second with 90, and Iowa is third with 47 members.

A new department added to the information in the bulletin is the student personnel office. Its purpose is to aid students in identifying their personal interests with larger group life, in keeping with the ideals and responsibility of American democracy.

The bulletin has an attractive cover of tan, with trimming in black and green.

Studying Delinquency and Its City Causes

On Saturday, March 30, Miss Morris took the Case Work Class on a trip to the Police Department and Detention Home in St. Louis.

Detectives showed the class the radio room where reports are sent and received, and the electrical machine for the immediate transmission of finger-prints or other identification items to any part of the country. The girls also had an interview with the parole officer.

At the Detention Home Mr. Reller, Chief of the institution, spoke on probation. It is his belief that the chief cause of juvenile delinquency is not the economic situation, but lack of adequate discipline in the home. Another cause, according to Mr. Reller, is the increasing sensuality of the supposedly "better" magazines in this country.

In speaking of social work in general Mr. Reller said that the work is very hard and the pay is small. The number of cases rises in the summer; boys are easier to work with than girls because they are more communicative about themselves.

Social Science Students

Tested on Periodical Reading

At the beginning of the year a test, planned to determine how comprehensively students read the newspapers, was given to the girls studying the social sciences. About 100 girls, three-fourths of whom were freshmen, took the tests. These were the questions asked: What are the divisions of the president's cabinet, and who is the head of each division? Who are the justices of the supreme court? What are five major independent agencies of the nation? Who is the speaker of the house of representatives? Who is the president of the senate? Who are the national chairmen of the Democratic and Republican parties? When are the regular meetings of Congress held? What was the approximate budget of the United States in 1939-40?

Dr. Benson reports that the answers were many and varied. Estimates of the budget ran from $40,000,000 to $80,000,000,000. The late Senator Borah and President Roosevelt were both named as president of the senate.

Forty points were possible on the test, and 28 girls made less than ten points. The juniors made the best record: their scores ranged from 11 to 26. The freshmen ran a close second with scores from four to 23. Dr. Benson says the social science department is fairly well pleased with the record made by the students, as the scores were based entirely on their own reading, and on no previous study.

Speaks on Citizenship

Dr. Schaper of Lindenwood will speak at a dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women of St. Louis on Wednesday, April 10, at Grace Methodist Church, of St. Louis. The subject of her talk will be "I Become An American," with the main idea that to be worthy of American citizenship one must have an intelligent appreciation of America's participation in world affairs, a comprehensive attitude in assuming responsibility in influencing public opinion on all of these issues.

Lindenwood Girls Are Designers of Most Stylish Ready-to-Wear

A tea and style show, presenting the members of Miss Tucker's advanced clothing class, was given Monday, April 1, in the library club rooms. Spring ensembles made by the girls gave a complete preview of "what is what" in the newest fashions. Harriette Wilson was announcer.

The prize for the most lovely costume was presented to Carol Bindley. She modeled a silk grape print dress with a pleated skirt. Her

The Linden Bark:

I wandered lonely as a cloud
That floats on high o'er vales and hills,
When all at once I saw a crowd,
A host, of golden daffodils;
Beside the lake, beneath the trees,
Fluttering and dancing in the breeze.

Continuous as the stars that shine
And twinkle on the milky way,
They stretched in never-ending line
Along the margin of the bay:
Ten thousand saw I at a glance,
Tossing their heads in sprightly dance.
—William Wordsworth

"The Groves Were God's First Temples"

I think that I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree.
A tree whose hungry mouth is prest
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast;
A tree that looks at God all day,
And lifts her leafy arms to pray;
A tree that may in Summer wear
A nest of robins in her hair;
Upon whose bosom snow has lain;
Who intimately lives with rain.
Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.

—Joyce Kilmer

Two native Linden trees of this climate will be planted on Tuesday, April 30, using dirt from the homes of every student, the entire administration, and the working men on campus. These good will and friendship trees will be called John L. Roemer and Governor Stark.

Sometimes a person's life depends upon a tree and suffers when it withers or is injured, and we encounter the idea of the "external soul" in the Egyptian, "Tale of Two Brothers," told some 3000 years ago. Occasionally when a child is born it is associated with a tree because its life is supposed to be bound up. Sometimes ceremonial occasions are connected with the planting of trees because there is a personal relationship and it is instituted by this deed. The person's career depends upon the fortune of the tree.

In Arabia some trees are very sacred and are haunted by angels or jinn. These trees would cure the sick and help them forget their ills. Different races of people and different religious sects had various beliefs in the trees, such as the Arabs had. Most of their ideas were based on sacrifices and oracles. However, these ideas became more advanced, in a certain sense, and the spirits were associated with trees represented by posts, idols, or masks, and later, altars. These people did closely associate a person's life to that of a tree.

This association of man and tree of ancient time has come down to our present Arbor Day. Trees of friendship and good will are now planted at this time. It shows the close relationship of a person to nature and to her gift of trees. Now Lindenwood will plant the two Linden trees in honor of their president who has served them for 26 years, and in honor of the governor of the state in which the college is located.

The Bible Is the World's Best Seller

People of today seem to think very little about the Bible and what it really means to us. This book is the best all-around one that anyone can read. It has poems, stories, sonnets, songs, and all other forms of literature. Many people are almost entirely ignorant of the Bible and of what it is composed. They don't know that some of the stories are nearly as exciting as the modern mystery novel, they don't know that some of the poems are as fascinating as our love stories, and they don't know that the adventure stories are as thrilling as our adventure stories. People of today should stop to look through our Bible and take time to read at least parts of it. It is most interesting as well as informative.

There is some discussion about whether Bible courses should be taught in the public schools of this country. Such a course is offered in some of them but in many, the parents would object if a different religion or a different view of the Bible from their own should be taught. This is, in some respects, true of all people and ideas, but the Bible itself does not differ, it is only the interpretation given it by the different sects. In many schools, there is no mention of the Bible or of any religion. There should be some little teaching of this because many children grow up in ignorance of the Bible and what it means to all. The public school is about the only place where children of all classes can and do go on the same basis.

By J. M.

Saturday, March 30—The air bristles with question marks. What's Picasso's trouble? etc. far-far into the night---

Sunday, March 31—Spring is no false alarm this time. The thermometer registered almost 90 degrees today.

Monday, April 1—Added attraction in the dining room, the home-economics style show.

Wednesday, April 3—Major problem of the season: what'll I wear today?

Friday, April 5—Roller skating party tonight if enough tickets are sold. Plans for the Junior-Senior Prom go forth apace.

Saturday, April 6—Junior date dance tonight, a chance for new spring evening dresses.

Sunday, April 7—Elda Vettori here. We're always delighted to have her back.

The schizanthus, nasturtiums, and marigolds are in full bloom in the greenhouse. Dr. Dawson cordially invites the public to visit there. The cultivated plants classes have planted annuals and are visiting the gardens of St. Charles. COME TO THE GREENHOUSE.

Expert Student Hostesses At Four Separate Repasts

Four dinners have recently been given by the girls in the foods class. These girls and the dates of their dinners are Jaqueline Davis, March 15; Kay Wagoner, March 28; Betty Merrill, April 2; and Jeanne Miller, April 5. At each dinner there is one guest of honor, one host who is a member of the class; the instructor of the class, who is Miss Anderson; the girl herself, and two others.

When Kay gave her dinner she had as her guests Dr. Roemer, Miss Scott, Miss Anderson, her host Betty Merrill, and Katie Craig. She used orange for the color, and orange calendulas were used on the table. For the cocktail Kay had ginger ale and apricot juice mixed and with this she served bread cups with cheese. The main course was made up of veal bird, sweet potato puff, orange jello salad, hot rolls, and coffee. Orange sherbert served in orange cups, with cookies, was the dessert.

Jaqueline had as her guests Dean Gipson; her mother Mrs. Helen Davis of St. Louis; Miss Anderson, her host Dorothy Felger, and Janice Martin. Her color scheme was of red and yellow and was used throughout the menu. Her center piece was made up of jonquils. For the first course Jaqueline served a shrimp cocktail. The main course consisted of baked ham, mashed potatoes, spinach ring, creamed carrots in timbal cases, butter horns, candle light salad, and coffee. The dessert consisted of angel food cake and home-made ice cream.

Jeanne used as her color scheme yellow and green, and daffodils were used on the table. The menu consisted of pineapple juice with hors d'oeuvres, fried chicken, mashed potatoes, green peas, lemon jello salad with peaches, hot rolls, celery, olives, coffee, lemon ice and yellow cake. Her guests were Miss Hooton

Miss Anderson, her host Peggy Flint, Jo Meredith and Dorothy Owen.

Using red as her color throughout the dinner, Betty had red and white carnations for the table. For the cocktail she served riviera riverie with bread basket canopies. The main course consisted of breaded veal cutlets, double baked potatoes, beets stuffed with asparagus, strawberry jello salad, olives, rolls and coffee. For dessert Betty served date tort pudding. The guests at this dinner were Miss Scott, Miss Bailey, Miss Anderson, Kay Wagoner, and her host Kitty Traylor.

Gave Program At Assembly Preceding Easter

A student recital was presented in Roemer Auditorium on March 14 at 11 o'clock. Piano selections were Prelude and Fugue, G Major (Bach) and Prelude (Debussy) by Marjorie Smith. Ann Taylor played "Feuille d'Album No. 2 (Liszt) and Laura Nell Harris played "Humoreske, B Flat Major, Op. 20, No. 1 (Schumann) and "Arabesque Valsante" (Levitzi). "Pastorale" (Scarlati-Tausig) and "Treasure Waltz" from Strauss-Dohnanyi's Gypsy Baron were presented by Evelyn Wahlgren. These selections were presented with great feeling and interpretation.

Voice selections were "When the Misty Shadows Glide" (Carpenter) and "The Soul is a Sanctuary" (La Forge) sung by Therese Larson. She was accompanied by Ann Taylor. Dorothy Rhea, accompanied by Evelyn Knopp, sang "Liebesbriefchen (Korngold) and "The Homing Heart" (Malotte). Both presentations were characterized by deep feeling and attractiveness.

The sextet composed of Pauline Gray, Frances Shepard, Mary Benner, Marion Wettstone, Therese Larson, Dorothy Rhea, and accompanied by Cordelia Buck, sang "Your Song" (Marjorie Elliott) and "Wooden Shoes" (Herbert-Marlowe). John Lammers played two violin solos, "Larghetto" (Handel-Willeke) and "Souvenir" (Riecken). He was accompanied by Pearl Lucille Lammers. These numbers were very pleasing due to the tone qualities and attractive way they were presented.

Miss Allyn Hears From Former Students

Miss Allyn recently received a card from Doris Deisenroth who is in Daytona, Florida, on her vacation. Doris, a former Commercial student is working in Louisville, Kentucky.

A long letter was received from Dorothy Ann Knell of Carthage, Mo. Dorothy Ann is still working for Smith Brothers in Carthage.

Minna Krakauer of Chihuahua, Mexico, wrote Miss Allyn a long letter telling her about her position. She has been working since her graduation a number of years ago. She sends her best to everyone, especially to the girls of the Commercial Club. Minna speaks of the bitter winter which they have had in Mexico this year.

Edith Hindersmann, who received her Business Certificate last June, is now working for Butler Brothers in St. Louis.

Bible courses are offered at practically every secondary school in this country. That is as it should be because it brings about a fuller knowledge of this wonderful book. When the Bible is studied, it must be read and this oftentimes influences people to read more and more of it. Many are completely ignorant of the Bible, so why don't we try to further ourselves by reading a small bit of the Bible each day? Even a little bit we could do would be very helpful to ourselves as well as to others. Would you like to try to help everyone just a little bit by some small reading? It won't take long and will do a lot of good!

fitted and rather tailored jacket and turban were of matching green herringbone flannel, lined with the silk print. Her shoes were alligator with a matching bag and gloves of white doeskin.

Virginia Sanders, who won second place, wore a costume suit of twig-brown wool trimmed with matching plaid. The waist length jacket was lined with the plaid and a special feature of the suit was the hem, which was lined with plaid. Plaid was used to bring out the lengthened torso look by binding the seam between the blouse and skirt. Her simple twisted turban was made of plain woolen.

Peggy Dodge and Corrine Sagness tied for third place. Peggy wore a dress of Bemberg print and the white of the print was accented by a detachable white collar. Her pill box was made of the same material as the dress, while her accessories were black. Corrine modeled a rose suit with a blouse of polka dots. The jacket had white pearl buttons while her navy accessories made an interesting contrast. Attractive white birds perched on her hat, and she carried a box-shaped purse.

The junior class voted Hyacinth Young's coat and dress ensemble first choice; Marilyn Patterson was chosen second; and Ann Rayburn was voted third. The freshmen class chose Carol Bindley as first; Virginia Sanders as second; and third place was a tie between Peggy Dodge and Corrine Sagness.

Adelaide Wilde modeled a dress of blue and white polka dot, somewhat in the little girl style. Her hat was navy-blue straw and her gloves, white doeskin. Marjorie Vanderlippe wore a chartreuse flannel coat and a plain, though arresting, print with wide girdle and shirred skirt; Mary Jane Tarling modeled a dress of robin's egg blue and white, accented by a black sailor and shoes and purse of black patent leather. Phyllis Steward wore a light blue crepe dress, extremely simple in front and extremely full in the back; Wilma Schacht modeled a dusty-rose street dress made with a simple swing skirt; Ardathe Ruple modeled a simple fitted dress of light blue with tiny white pin dots; and Virginia Rose appeared in an aquamarine print trimmed in lace.

Lucille Pundmann wore a light blue print dress with a matching turban; Owanna Post modeled a shirt-waist dress of navy with brightly colored stripes and a navy-blue coat. Ruth Peterson wore a black dress with a panel of crisp white organdy; Eleanor Jean Petty appeared in a shirtwaist dress of old rose print silk and accessories of navy blue; Electra Pearson wore a simple yellow crepe dress and blending yellow hat. Marian Ohlsen modeled a print dress with a grey background; Dorothy Norris wore a light-blue print with a very full skirt Grethcen Neumann appeared in an aqua-colored flannel street dress. Isabel Moore wore a light-blue and rose print silk with a cream-colored lace collar. Jean McPherson was dressed in a printed Bemberg silk with black accessories. Betty Merrill modeled a light-blue print dress of pure dye silk; Jeane Kenitz wore a navy coat and dress of dusty-pink print; Helen Kellam modeled a blue and white print of Bemberg silk with simple and smart lines.

modeled a pure paisley silk dress made along princess lines; Elsa Frankowsky wore a light-blue tailored street dress; Rosemary Ewen appeared in cadet-blue-wool coat and print dress. Mary Catherine Downs wore a blue and white silk dress with matching blue woolen jacket; Delores Davis modeled a striking red print with white collar and cuff; Carol Davenport wore a greyish-green sport dress. Virginia Cote modeled a brown and green ensemble; Barbara Clifton wore a brown alpaca hilk dress trimmed in beige.

Peggy Cassell appeared in a two piece suit of misty-blue tweed; Vernie Backhaus was seen in a tailored suit of aquacade rabbits-hair wool; Ruth Ashton modeled a light green white-figured print; Betty Bloss wore an outstanding shirtwaist dress of red and white candy stripes. Martha Abend modeled a dress made of print with black accessories; Helen Martha Shank wore a costume suit of her own design in pink wool and a black pink dress; Estelle Hays was seen in a coat and dress ensemble in green mist. Ann Rayburn wore a coat of navy-blue flannel, with a dress of grayishblue print; Marilyn Patterson modeled a dusty-pink coat and a dress of matching pink print; Anne Erickson wore an ensemble of her own design, consisting of powder-blue silk print and jacket of dark brown. The material in Anne's and Marilyn's dresses were alike in pattern, showing the possibility of different design. Hyacinth Young wore a navy-blue reefer with smoothly fitting lines, and a blue and white print dress. June Goran modeled a sand-colored coat and a dress of almond green. Raquel Canino wore a rose silk print and matching wool jacket of her own design.

After the style show, the fifty girls modeled their dresses at dinner so that all could see the latest in spring styles.

"After 1940"
On Thursday, April 11, Dr. Schaper will speak before the Protestant Young People's Union of St. Charles at the Kingshighway Baptist Church in St. Charles. Her speech, "After 1940," will be concerned with the idea that young people owe it to themselves to try to understand what the future holds in political, economical and other social relations in order to prepare themselves to carry on the greatest values which the human race has achieved.

SidelightsofSociety

Freshmen Plan For President's Birthday

Plans for Dr. Roemer's annual birthday dinner have been made by the freshman class. The date has been set for Thursday, May 2, and it will be a formal dinner dance. The freshmen have also made plans for a garden party to be held Friday, May 10, for the faculty and their sister class, the juniors.

Recently Dean Gipson and Dr. Parker were guests at a dinner meeting of the St. Louis Lindenwood Club at a St. Louis tea room. Dr. Parker spoke on her South American trip.

Dr. Linneman Entertains

The students of the art department who remained at school during the spring vacation were entertained by Dr. Linnemann at a dinner given in her home on Monday, March 23. Marian Daudt, a former Lindenwood student who is now attending Sweet Briar College, was guest of honor. The other guests were Peggy Cassell, Marjorie Leverton Hyacinth Young, Charlotte Ching, Raquel Canino, Marian Stumberg, and Ruth Schroeder.

Dr. Garnett spoke to the members of the Business and Professional Women's Club of St. Charles at the St. Charles Hotel, March 18. His address was on "Intelligence", and he brought out the importance and the value of good intelligent behavior.

On Saturday, March 30, two busloads of art students under the direction of Dr. Linnemann and Miss Rasmussen attended the Exhibition of Picasso at the City Art Museum of St. Louis. In the afternoon, Miss Rasmussen's commercial design class went on a tour through the Golbe-Democrat.

A social meeting of the faculty will be held tonight in the library club room at 7:30 o'clock. The faculty program committee will present Dean Wilifred M. Mallon, of the College of Arts and Sciences, St. Louis University, who will speak on, "Decline and Rebirth of the American College."

Miss Eva Sayre, head of the infirmary, has returned from the hospital in St. Charles, and is convalescent from an operation. Miss Sayre receives a hearty welcome from everyone at the college.

Former Pastor On Visit

Rev. John C. Inglis, Piqua, Oh'o. former pastor of the Jefferson Street Presbyterian Church, visited Lindenwood again, Wednesday.

He gave a short talk in chapel, telling of the changes that have been made since he left here. He stressed the beauty of the fine arts building.

Voters Must Eat

The annual dinner of the League of Women Voters was held Thursday, March 4, at 5:30 o'clock, in the upstairs dining room of the Hollywood. About twenty members were present.

Jane Henss and Kay Abernathy, who were delegates to the state meeting of the League at Columbia, gave reports of their trip and the work discussed at the state assembly.

Lindenwood Friends at Wedding, Peru Student

Saturday morning, March 30, at 8 o'clock, Miss Shirley Jean Spalding, a former Lindenwood student, was married to David A. Dwyer, at St. Ambrose church in St. Louis. Father Dwyer, a brother of the groom, read the ceremony.

The bride wore a navy blue suit, navy and white hat, blue kid shoes and carried a blue kid purse. Her corsage was a white orchid. Mrs. Dwyer was attended by Terrie Larson, a Lindenwood student and a former classmate of the bride. She wore a black silk suit trimmed in white and wore an orchid corsage.

After the ceremony, a breakfast was given for the immediate wedding party. The couple left for a honeymoon in Chicago and they will reside in St. Louis, where Mr. Dwyer is employed by the Standard Oil Company.

Those from Lindenwood, who attended the ceremony were: Dr. Linneman and her brother, Bob, Mrs. Arends, Polly Gray, Betty Carleton, Raquel Canino, Charlotte Ching and Mary Ekberg.

Friends Are Guests, Little Theatre Program

The speech department recital in the Little Theatre last Wednesday was very entertaining. Betty Jane Bloss gave a comic reading, "The Dentist and the Gas". This was pleasing to hear. Martha Ware Robbins and her "A Hurried Call" were good and realistic. Some people can't understand why they never accomplish anything, but they never stay at home long enough to do it. Martha and her twang were quite true to life.

"Our Street" given by Phyllis Drake, was a little more serious than the first two. It expressed the feeling of superiority felt by some people toward foreigners. Phyllis' dialect was very good in all character parts. Georgia Shapkooff made everyone feel quite hilarious in her version of "Room Service". This was very true to life in expressing the feelings of the lone traveler toward eating in his room "With all the comforts of home".

The poem "Courage," given by Marcelle Clark, was very lifelike in all its qualities. It was the story of one man's courage and another's weakness. The entire recital was well received by the audience.

The food class has begun a special study of certain brands of food. Labels are taken from the cans, the food is tested for flavor and appearance, the scores are totaled on cards and the labels are placed back on the cans. This comparison gives the price per pound of solid material; many times the most expensive brand is not the best.

The foods tested and girls testing them are as follows: string beans, Harriette Wilson; apricots, Helen Rose Bruns; peaches, Catherine Lague; pears, Dorothy Felger; and beets, Owanna Post.
