Megalomania Afflicts All, Says St. Louis Clergyman

On Thursday, October 6, Dr. A.H. Lowe, of St. Louis, gave a talk in Roemer Auditorium, on the need of the world for Christ. He cited the world's inability to cure itself, and mentioned the widespread feeling of futility that exists in this country.

Dr. Lowe gave three examples of the way people feel today. One of them concerned a young man who did not want to finish his college work because he believed that it would be of no real value to him. Another man said that after a life of being honest he had come to the conclusion honesty did not pay, since most men acquired their wealth by dishonest means, and honesty did not always take one to the top of the work in which one was engaged. A third man said that good will was of no value in international affairs now; that it was force which always won.

In reply to these statements Dr. Lowe said that the world suffered from megalomania and that until the individual once more began to go to Christ it would continue to suffer, because only Christ could cure the ills of the world.

Which of the Thirteen?

The candidates for the Hallowe'en Queen were elected by the freshman class Thursday, October 6. The girls chosen were as follows: June Baker, Betty Jayne Bass, Ann Donnell, Ruth Shartell, Frances Shepard, Margie Kiskadden, Louise Battle, Ruth Esther Willett, Grace Quebbeman, Kay Abernathy, Laura Nell Harris, Mary Jane Welsh, and Peggy Barret. There was a style show last Thursday, and the entire student body voted for the Hallowe'en queen who will be crowned at the Hallowe'en party.

The identity of the queen will be unknown until the crowning ceremony.

All-Day Program For Founders' Day

On Thursday, October 27, Founders' Day will be observed. Mrs. Hiram C. Houghton, Director of the Federation of Women's Clubs in Iowa, will speak at the 11 o'clock chapel. The choir under the direction of Miss Gieselman will sing the "Gloria" from Twelfth mass by Mozart.

In the afternoon Miss Stookey will present her students in a dance recital. The Hallowe'en dance will be enjoyed in the evening, with the crowning of the queen.

Plans to Make Perfect Silver Jubilee Annual

Dean Gipson announced the members of the Linden Leaves annual staff for this year in chapel Monday, October 10. The annual is to be dedicated to Dr. Roemer who is celebrating his twenty-fifth year as president of Lindenwood and in the memory of Mrs. Roemer. Dr. Gipson urged that the entire student body help to make this the best Linden Leaves yet published.

The annual staff consists of the following girls; editor, Gwendolyn Payne; assistant to the editor, Josephine Trice; business manager, Sue Sonnenday; assistants to the business manager, Lucille Vosburg and Ann Rhea Beard; humor editor, Joyce Davis; literary editors, Helen Margaret DuHadway and Rosemary Williams; art editors, Barbara Nan Johnston, Elizabeth Parrish and Jeannette Lee; snapshot editor, Sarah Phillips; organization editor, Alice Belding; assistants to the organization editor in the senior class is Maurine Potlitzer; in the junior class Marion Stumberg, Marguerite Dearmont and Kathryn Wagner; in the sophomore class the assistants are June Jordan, Jessie Benson, Mary Elizabeth Shannon, Viella Smerling, Arlene Bennett and Theodora Baugham; and in the freshman class are Ardella Bullard, Bernice Milburn, Rosemary Walton, Dixie Carter, Grace Quebbeman, La Vonne Chapman, Marion Hutchison, Marjorie Smith, Roberta Olson, Betty Jayne Bass and Betty Forsyth. This promises to be a good staff which will publish an excellent annual.

Dean Jackson's Tour

Miss Jackson, dean of residence, will leave for a tour of the East, in the latter part of this week.

She will give talks and hold round-table discussions and individual conferences at: Colby Junior College, New London, N. H.; Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass.; Emma Willard School, Troy, N. Y.; and The Women's College of Middlebury College, Vermont. She will also be present at the Fall Conference of the Eastern College Personnel Officers to be held at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y.

She will probably spend a few days in New York City, after which she will return to Lindenwood sometime in the latter part of November.

Women in Chemistry

Miss Lear's vocational exhibit Shows This Week.

The chief feature of the exhibit this week and next is centered around Madame Curie, her work, her family and her life. Pictures of her will be on display, as well as her book, in French, Radiology and the War.

Then there will be biographies of the early women in chemistry, and pictures of Madame Curie's daughter, Mrs. Joliot and her husband.

Jane Marcet, 1769-1858, was the first popularizer of chemistry. She had a rare gift of writing a treatise on chemistry in a conversational style, and introduced the reader of the nineteenth century to "Conversations on Chemistry". She was one of the earlier humanizers of science, for she adopted the conversational dialogue form of presenting a text book in chemistry.

Another early woman in chemistry was Mrs. A. H. Lincoln Phelps. She was a teacher of languages and science in the Female Seminary in Troy, N.Y. Her principal contribution to chemical literature was the translation of a French dictionary of chemistry (1830), "Familiar Lectures on Chemistry" and "Chemistry for Beginners."

Then there will be the present-day women chemists, one of whom will be Miss Elizabeth Aldrich, Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C. Then there will be Janet D. Scott, associate editor of Chemistry Abstracts at Columbus, Ohio, and Miss Emma Carr.

Margarethe von Wrangell, who died in 1932, studied with Madame Curie in 1911 at Paris. At one time she was the assistant at the Agricultural Experiment Station of the Royal Agriculture Society at Dorpat, Esthonia. A review of her recent biography will be in the collection of miscellaneous material.

Pictures of two Lindenwood students will also be shown, Miss Lena Lewis, in the department of Physiological Chemistry at Ohio State university, and Miss Anna Jane Harrison at the University of Missouri in Physical Chemistry.

Next will come the exhibits of books by women chemists. Discovery of the Elements by Mary Weeks; Stuff by Pauline Beery, the editor of the Science Weekly, and Dora Woodard Beery, circulation manager; Introductory College Chemistry with Household Applications, by Miss Naylor of Ames; Food Analysis, three volumes, by Mr. and Mrs. Winton.

Following that will be the literature on jobs: Jobs for College Graduates in Science, by Edward J. v. K. Menge; samples of jobs listed in the Employment Service section of the Industrial and Engineering Chemistry of the News Edition.

A list of scientific and technical positions in the National Bureau of Standards, through the Civil Service Examinations, and Examples of Fellowships with chemical companies and universities will be on display; also a report from the American

Resolutions in Memory of Mrs. John L. Roemer

Resolutions in memory of Mrs. Roemer were adopted by the faculty, after being drawn up by a committee consisting of Miss Hankins, Dr. Linnemann, Miss Lear and Miss Cook, as follows:

"With profound sorrow, the faculty of Lindenwood College records the death of Mrs. Roemer, counselor and friend.

"As a tribute to her, it is fitting that we speak first of her work for Lindenwood during the past 24 years. As Dean of Students, her life touched the lives of all the girls and exerted a tremendous power for good. Her stand was definitely upon the side of true standards of living; she believed earnestly in the spiritual things of life; she had a strong realization of her duty to the college and to the girls entrusted to her care, and left nothing undone to meet that obligation. Rarely does one have the opportunity to enrich so many lives and meet that opportunity so adequately and so fearlessly.

"When someone in a position of such vitalizing influence lays down her work, her memory is made sweeter by the knowledge that besides the professional loss, there is a deep sense of personal loss. We, as a faculty, knew Mrs. Roemer as a friend; and as such we mourn her loss. We feel the loss of her outstanding personality. We know that her loyalty to the ideals of Christian character will never be lost from the Lindenwood traditions.

"To Dr. Roemer the faculty extends deep sympathy and wishes to express the belief that an influence so rich can never die, but will continue as it is multiplied in the lives of thousands of Lindenwood girls."

In St. Charles Club

The Business and Professional Women's Club of St. Charles, of which Mrs. Roemer was a charter member, has sent resolutions of respect and appreciation, saying Mrs. Roemer leaves "a memory full of inspiration", and concluding:

"Her star of hope, of faith and of courage, has been left with us as a guide until we, too, face the shadows of a serene afternoon. She answers the Roll Call on the other shore. We place a garland of memory on the shrine we have built in our hearts for Mrs. John L. Roemer."

Institute of Chemists with a list of requirements for completion, and Miss Lear is having two photostats made of two recent articles: G. B. Rose's reference list for women interested in chemistry as a profession, Ind. and Eng. Chemistry, 206 (1936), and Occupation and Earnings of Women in Chemistry, and H. L. Wikoff, Ind. and Eng. Chemistry 25, 467 (1933).

Women's interest in science will also be shown by copies of painting and statuary: "Young Girl with Balance", an old masterpiece by Jan Gossaert Mabuse, and figures from the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago.

Alumnae and Students To Celebrate 112th Year

Thursday, October 27, Lindenwood College celebrates Founders' Day. This day is doubly important in the fact that we celebrate our 112th year and the silver anniversary of Dr. Roemer.

The speaker for the morning is Mrs. Hiram C. Houghton, Director for Iowa, General Federation of Women's Clubs. The subject of her address is "The Challenge of a New Day". The afternoon program will be a dance recital presented by the physical education department. The choir will take part in the morning, and many old students will return for the day.

The history of our school is inspiring. Land for the school was acquired by Major George C. Sibley in 1827, six years after the State of Missouri was admitted to the Union. The site was selected, and in 1831, Major Sibley and his bride, Mary Easton Sibley, built a log cabin which accommodated 40 girls. Because of the forest of linden trees, they chose the name Lindenwood. Not until 1869 was Sibley Hall, a three-story brick building erected. In the years following additions were made to this building. In 1907 Jubilee Hall, now known as Ayres, was built. Two years later the Prosser property was purchased by Col. James Gay Butler. In 1914, Dr. Roemer was elected president. Butler Hall was dedicated in 1915, followed by Niccolls in 1917. In this same year a permanent endowment was left the college by Col. and Mrs. Butler. The year 1918 was the beginning of the four year college curriculum. In 1920 ground was broken for Roemer Hall. Since then the Margaret Leggat Library and Irwin Hall have been built. Expansion of the college buildings is now planned.

Lindenwood is the oldest women's college west of the Mississippi River. Since it was founded it has stood for thorough scholarship and Christian character and the tradition carries. It has grown in reputation and in size and will continue to grow in fame.

Lindenwood Girls Weighing Vocations Carefully

Girls of today have become interested in vocations because of the modern tendency toward independence and the fields open to women.

A vocation is a fine preparation for marriage, but the two do not mix. Many insist that a career is the most important goal to follow and there are many fields now in which a girl can specialize, some of which are: journalism, art, music, home economics, interior decoration, laboratory technique, not to name many others.

A person who has had experience in the business world dealing with people is greatly benefited by it in married life. It is a preparation for a more complicated and intricate world. The experience teaches girls to see both sides of a question and reminds them that married life is not a one-sided affair but—we do believe that the career should be given up after marriage. Too many marriages are wrecked by a woman continuing in her vocation.

Although vocations have somewhat captured the limelight there are now colleges that have matrimony courses which assist both girls and boys to prepare for a happy marriage. In this way attention has been focused again on that hopeful happy state. People are at last beginning to realize the importance of choosing a mate. This can almost be called a vocation itself.

Many girls questioned at Lindenwood were enthusiastic about vocations but were rather general in their choice of that vocation.

Some were frankly interested in marriage as a career and desired nothing else.

New Teacher in French

Yesterday Miss Margaret Dunaway, the new French teacher, began her work at Lindenwood. She has studied widely; receiving her B. A. at Hendrix College, and her M. A. at Columbia University. She has also studied at the Sorbonne in Paris and in the Middlebury French department of Middlebury College. Miss Dunaway has been teaching in the Hot Springs, Ark., high school.

Mrs. McQuitty was here temporarily.

New Commercial Officers

The Commercial Club held its first meeting of the fall semester last week. Virginia Carter, former president and Harriet Hall, vice-president took charge. New officers elected were: Marjorie Morgan, president, Elizabeth Anne Field, secretary and treasurer; and Mary Kern, reporter. After the business meeting was over, Miss Allyn, sponsor, welcomed the new girls and spoke to the girls on the meaning of the club.

CAMPUS DIARY

By K. L.

Oct. 4—"Don't be a Goop" is the slogan for the campus now. Miss Jackson's poem that Virginia Carter read in the student body meeting today contained some good pointers to remember. This thing called etiquette is being stressed more this year and is something we all can use. A meeting for all new girls was held tonight which should make some rules clearer to them. The most important event of the day was the return of Dr. Roemer and Dr. Stumberg from their trip.

October 5.—Booklets entitled "As Others Like You" were handed out to students in chapel. The entire student body is to take tests over this material Monday to be sure no one is a goop! Who wants to be a goop?

October 6.—Tonight the freshman are going to select 13 of the most attractive girls in their class from whom a Hallowe'en Queen will be chosen. Everyone is wondering who the lucky candidates will be. By the way, the girls were all agog about a certain fellow on the campus today. What about it, girls? ? ? ?

October 7—Dear Diary—Today we spent a most exciting day here at school, namely the picnic at the Country Club with 100 cars to furnish transportation, police escorts and plenty to eat. It was a tired but happy bunch that returned to school after the bonfire in the evening.

October 8 — Today was rather quiet on the campus as most of the girls rested or went to the city—a few dates too. Two girls in Ayres stayed home in the evening? ? ? ?

October 9—Dr. Irving Garwood gave a most interesting lecture with pictures at vespers this evening. The girls and their dates made so much noise on the campus it was hard to concentrate and study but they did have fun. I imagine a few fellows received invitations to the dance next week. Ayres Hall had a lovely tea in the library club rooms this afternoon.

October 10—Today was rather quiet on the campus except for the etiquette tests given in each hall.

October 11—Dear Diary—The day was beautiful for the historic tour into St. Louis and the V. P. parade in the evening. I woke up to see a long line of Greyhound buses waiting to take the girls on the tour. It was a wonderful day and everyone had a perfect time.

October 12—Why was everyone so tired today? All the girls said the trip was worth it, though. Consequently the campus was quiet today except for the countess going to the V.P. ball and Mary being a guest of the governor of Arkansas at the ball.

October 13—The style show put on by the 13 candidates of the freshman class for Hallowe'en Queen was lovely. The girls were very attractive and wore good looking clothes. This seemed to be the main event of the day.

October 14—Everyone seemed to be content to spend a quiet day and evening. This must be due to the fact of the big affair tomorrow night. A few St. Charles boys were seen on the campus in the evening for dates, although most of them have graduated from Lindenwood.

October 15—The date dance given by the student board was lovely and colorful—the color scheme being bright autumn colors. Lindenwood girls were at their best, including etiquette.

October 16—Everyone rested today after a busy two weeks—of course there are the six weeks tests to look forward to now. Need more be said? ? ? ?

New Art Scholarship

The college has just granted a $50 scholarship in art, giving this favor to the art department because of that department's achievement in raising over $1,000 as a donation to the Mary Easton Sibley scholarship fund. This award will be known as the Mary Easton Sibley Art Scholarship prize. It will be given, at the close of the school year, to be freshman majoring in art, who does the best all-round work in the department and who also has proven worthy in character, loyalty to the college, and campus citizenship.

Officers Chosen To Represent Seniors

The senior class had its election Thursday. The officers elected are the following: president, Jean McFarland; vice-president, Marian Hull; secretary, Imogene Hinsch; treasurer, Joyce Davis. Miss Gordon is class sponsor.

Officers of the Juniors

Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock the junior class held its election. The officers are as follows: president, Kay Wagner; vice-president, Betty Kelley; secretary, Harriet Hiall, treasurer, Lucille Vosburg.

Sophomore Officers With New Council

The sophomore class had a meeting Wednesday evening, the purpose being to elect officers. The class songs were sung at the beginning, after which the elections took place. Genevieve Horswell was elected president; June Jordan, vice-president; and Anne Beard, secretary-treasurer. There is to be a Sophomore Council, so representatives from the class in each hall were elected. Those serving on the council are Johanna Benecke and Ann Rayburn from Ayres; Miriam Wedeking and Winifred Vrooman from Butler; Jerry Stroh and Dorothy Rhea from Sibley; Betty Newton, Margaret Jean DuHadway, and Martha Weber from Irwin; and Evelyn Katz from Niccolls. Dr. Dawson is class sponsor. The sophomore class is larger this year than it has been for several years and includes 147 members.

Thirteen in the Council

The freshman class, under the sponsorship of Miss Tucker, held its first meeting Monday, October 10. The class agreed to follow last year's freshman class by also having a council for advisory purposes. The following girls from each hall were elected: chairman of the council, Mary Alice Hudson, Ayres; Niccolls, Betty Minor Forsythe, Polly Pollock, Margaret Chapman, Betty Jeanne Clark; Ayres, Margaret Welsh, Peggy Bender; Butler, Marilyn Riggs, Dorothy Snell; Sibley, Marion Hutchinson; Irwin, Ruth Hill, Ruth Ray; St. Charles, Ruth Schneider.

Officers in Home Ec.

The officers of the Home Economics club were elected Wednesday, October 5. They are the following: president, Sara Margaret Willis; vice-president, Helen Martha Shank; secretary, Imogene Hinsch; treasurer, Estelle Hays.

SPORTS

Full Corps For Sports

The officers for the Athletic Association were elected Tuesday, October 4. They were as follows: president, Florence Vellenga; vice-president, Evelyn Bradley; secretary, Betty Newlon; treasurer, Frances Brandenburg. The heads of the sports are the following girls: riding, Mimi Stumberg; archery, Mary Ann Green; swimming, Kay Lovitt; tennis, Betty Clark; golf, Charlotte Tucker; posture, Viella Smerling; hiking, Mary Helen St. Clair and Joyce Gansslee.

The Athletic Association conducted the chapel program, Friday, October 14. At this time the method of entering the association on the point system was explained.

Dance Sorority Leaders

Officers for Tau Sigma, dance sorority, were elected Wednesday evening. The officers are as follows: president, Betty Newlon; vice-president, Imogene Kincaid; secretary, Betty Clark; treasurer, Viella Smerling; sergeant-at-arms, Winifred Vrooman.

Honorary Riders

Beta Chi, the honorary riding sorority of Lindenwood, held its election October 7. The following officers were elected. Mary Esther Roberts, president; Jacqueline Morrison, vice-president; Caroline Louise Irish, secretary.

Beta Chi is under the sponsorship of Miss Reichert, and is open to any member of the student body able to pass the tests given by Beta Chi.

For Founders' Day

The dancing classes have begun practise for the Founders' Day dance recital. Those participating in the program will be the girls who danced last year and several new ones who are as follows: Sally Murfey, Norma Cherney, Laura Nell Harris, Mary Catherine Farr, Elizabeth Myers, Barbara Jean Clark, Jo Ann Dodsworth, Janet Stebin, and Marjorie Jane Walker.

Miss Reichert spent several days during the first part of her summer vacation at the home of Miss Ada Dyer Tucker, Lansing, Mich. Also a guest at this time was Miss Dr. Margaret Ann Carter, sister of Virginia Ann Carter, who had just graduated from Washington University Medical School and who was on her way to Albany, N. Y. where she will interne for the following year.

Miss Reichert attended summer school at Columbia University, N. Y., for a period of six weeks.

Students Enthusiastic At Bonfire Meeting

The Y.W.C.A. held its first meeting of the year, Wednesday evening, October 5, in an unusual manner. All girls were invited to a bonfire meeting on the golf course at 6:45. Around the huge fire a large group of girls gathered and it was indeed a beautiful sight to see the bright flames shooting up into the night.

Dr. Schaper as master of ceremonies, presented two members of the freshman class, Betty Jane Bass and Marjorie Jane Walker, who spoke about the enthusiasm of their class and its desire to become "tops" on the campus. One of the most amusing parts on the program was Marian Hull's humorous and original revision of the college rules. Dr. Betz gave the girls a few serious thoughts to remember about being members of Lindenwood. Songs were then sung with Marion Hull leading them and the delightful evening ended with everyone expressing the desire for another such affair.

Hundreds of L.C. Girls Enjoyed St. Louis Fiesta

The annual Veiled Prophet parade, for which Lindenwood had a holiday, was held Tuesday night, with a large crowd that turned out for it. A gay, carnival air prevailed all evening amidst the blowing of horns and shouts of peanut and popcorn vendors. The sidewalks were lined with people; some looked like they had been waiting many hours. Some sat on camp stools, and others on crate boxes. As the parade started with a blare of trumpets from red-coated trumpeters, the crowd was taken to the land of song, as songs were the theme of the parade. The beautiful float of the Veiled Prophet with his loyal subjects was followed by a float illustrating The Old Oaken Bucket. Rio Rita was a colorful Spanish float and behind it came My Old Kentucky Home. This was a true reproduction of the South. A huge beer mug decorated the Stein Song float and this was followed by Aloha-Oe.

One of the most attractive floats, When It's Apple Blossom Time in Normandy, was beautiful with pink blossoms. Old Man River was spectacular with a Show Boat background. Next in line was Sweet Adeline and Roses of Picardy. In following order came: Sidewalks of New York, Home on the Range, Annie Laurie, The Desert Song, Alexander's Rag Time Band, Man on the Flying Trapeze, Harvest Moon, Isle of Capri and Dixie Land. The parade ended in a final burst of glory as the most spectacular float appeared: Columbia the Gem of the Ocean, bearing Uncle Sam and the Stars and Stripes.

The historic tour of St. Louis during the day, Tuesday, was attended by 385 girls. The tour included visits to Lambert Field, the Zoo and Shaw's Garden, Jefferson Memorial, three cathedrals, the Art Museum and the Old Court House. The girls were royally entertained by the college in the Crystal room of The Park Plaza for luncheon.

Indian Girl Now Lindenwood Student

Lindenwood girls will have to be very careful now about tracing their ancestors back to the very earliest settlers in America for there is a girl on the campus that really can claim that honor. Sally Beaver is a full-blooded Indian from the Creek tribe which has always been known as the most civilized of all the tribes. Sally was born in Okmulgee, Okla., and like the other members of her tribe has never lived on a reservation but in her own home.

She went to Bacone College in Muskogee, Okla., for grammar and high school. This is the only college in the United States for North American Indians. She has a very interesting collection of Indian rugs and blankets and is usually seen wearing a small beaded panose coin purse. At Lindenwood Sally is majoring in dietetics. She likes Lindenwood very much as well as the girls, for she thinks they are unusually friendly and easy to get along with.

Sentinel Through The Years

Giant and grandfather to the beautiful trees on our campus is the majestic elm located south of Music Hall and west of Eastlick.

The widespread limbs of this huge tree have for many years graced the campus. Through many seasons this elm has grown with the college and stands to typify what our school is today and what it will be in the future—something of which we are now proud and something of which we will be more proud.

This natural monument stood, no doubt, when beasts of prey and Indians stalked this wild country. It nobly stood at the time when St. Charles was founded, when Lindenwood was a log cabin, and it stands more nobly now.

Perfectly shaped, beautiful in all seasons, the elm reigns king of the campus.

"Each One Writing His Own Book of Acts"

Rev. Robert W. Fay, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church at Overland, Mo., was speaker at vespers Sunday evening, October 2. Preceding the address the college choir sang the lovely anthem, "Open Our Eyes", directed by Miss Gieselman.

Rev. Mr. Fay stressed in his address that the students keep the church a part of their life, always. He brought out the point that one could consider the pebble as a symbol of religion as it makes a widening circle. The inscription in a locket which said "Whom having not seen, I love" is a good example of God expressed in widening circles and an influence of religion. Missionaries have a compulsion that drives them on and where compulsion relaxes, paralysis comes in. Rev. Mr. Fay pointed out that realms of life are widening circles which include whole areas unclaimed by Christianity. Christ drives one if he has the energy to go ahead.

Rev. Mr. Fay mentioned that a perfection of complacency is often reached by churches and colleges. People are often too rigid in complacency and exclusiveness, and have no widening circles. He emphasized that the circle of Christian influence may reach every realm of human experience. When anyone is working for better politics, welfare of a community, education and the church, it is at this moment he finds himself. Each one is writing his own Book of Acts. Rev. Mr. Fay closed his most helpful address with a question to think over and a thought to take away, "What are we going to do in the face of this commission?"

Test in Good Manners

On Monday evening, October 10, a test on manners was given to all the girls. Two weeks before, the book, "As Others Like Us", had been given to each girl in student chapel. The girls for the most part were prepared for the 14-page test; however, few had perfect papers. The test met with great enthusiasm, and certainly was beneficial.

Art Students Elect

Kappa Pi officers have been elected for the year 1938-39, as follows: Barbara Johnston, president; Evelyn Rickabaugh, secretary; Elizabeth Parrish, recording secretary and Jeannette Lee, treasurer.

The office of vice-president is to be filled later.

WHO'S WHO

She has been at Lindenwood all four years. She is of medium height, dark brown hair, brown eyes, and has a creamy complexion. In her junior year she served as secretary-treasurer of the Student Board, and this year she is president of her dormitory. Everyone knows her friendly chuckle.

Styles at Lindenwood

Smart sport clothes are very prominent on the campus. The new shoe styles are quite different from the previous creations. Jackie Morrison wears an unusual pair of wooden soled shoes. These are copied from those of the Finnish peasants, who put them on following skiing. Marilyn Patterson and Helen Shephard both have chosen the very popular square toed sport shoes of tan buck. Geraldine Raddal has selected black suede sandals with the very new platform soles.

Casual clothes for the classroom play an important part in every girl's wardrobe. June Baker has chosen a bright blue corduroy skirt with a tailored shirt of the same material to match. Kay Lovitt wears a smart blue and green plaid skirt with which she wears gay fall sweaters. Martybell Baum has a green wool jumper which is most becoming worn with a bright yellow angora sweater. Marguerite Dearmont looks stunning in her gold jersey dress, which has white pique collar and cuffs. Elaine Reid has an attractive peach cardigan, and Betty Laws has a similar one in yellow.

Showing Literary Shrines

Dr. Irving Garwood gave a most interesting lecture at vespers Sunday evening, October 9, on "A Pilgrimage to the Literary Shrines of America". Dr. Garwood had pictures, that he had taken himself of places which he considered to be the literary shrines of the United States, flashed on the screen. He made explanations on the pictures and pointed out the high points.

Starting from his home in Illinois he took the audience on an imaginary trip down south and up the eastern coast. In Illinois pictures of the homes of Abraham Lincoln and Vachel Lindsay were shown. The homes of James Whitcomb Riley in Indianapolis, Booth Tarkington and the actual birthplace of Abraham Lincoln in Kentucky were particularly good. Farther south, the Mammoth Cave in Kentucky, the home of Andrew Jackson in Nashville, Tenn., the home of Joel Chandler Harris in Atlanta and the historical town of St. Augustine with the Fountain of Youth, were highlights of the trip. Interesting points in Virginia were the natural bridge, Thomas Jefferson's home, campus of the university, and Raleigh Tavern where Phi Beta Kappa was founded. The replica of George Washington's birthplace and Mount Vernon were of course connected with the state of Virginia. Other literary shrines that Dr. Garwood showed and described included the grave of John Howard Payne, who wrote Home Sweet Home; the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington; Annapolis in Maryland; and Gettysburg field.

The trip concluded in New York with pictures of the home of Walt Whitman, Columbia University, Niagara Falls and back to the Forest of Arden, the home of Dr. Garwood in Illinois.

S. Spalding Vacations In North America

Shirley Spaulding, a member of the junior class, spent a most enjoyable summer even though she did not return to her distant home in Lima, Peru.

Shortly after school's dismissal, Shirley left for Canada. Here she spent many weeks, visiting various points of interest, and beauty. Some of the larger cities she visited on her trip were Quebec, Montreal and Toronto. One of the highlights of her journey was the visit to the publicized city of Callendar, where the famous Dionne Quintuplets reside.

Another interesting feature of Shirley's trip was her voyage up the Saint Lawrence river. This was very picturesque and of considerable interest.

The remainder of the summer was spent visiting friends and relatives in St. Louis.

Dr. Benson of the history department spent part of her summer doing detailed and interesting research work in American history at the Clements Library at Ann Arbor, Mich. The Clements Library is especially noted for this particular course. The remainder of Dr. Benson's vacation was spent in California, visiting her family.

Miss Hankins spent a very pleasant vacation at her home in Webster Groves, Mo.

Dr. Gregg attended the University of California in Berkeley for graduate work this summer. While there she saw the graduating exercises of 2500 Pasadena school children in the Rose Bowl in California. Dr. Gregg said that it was a beautiful and impressive sight. She is vitally interested in such a development for St. Charles.

Dr. Dawson, botany instructor at Lindenwood, spent the first part of her summer vacation at her home in LaCrosse, Wis. The latter part of the summer was spent at Arden Shore Camp, outside of Chicago, where Dr. Dawson was head counselor of the girls and had charge of the nature study course.

Dr. Garnett spent the greater part of his vacation teaching summer school at the School of Mines in Rolla, Mo., a part of the University of Missouri. Not all of the university is on the same campus, so two summer schools are conducted. It is the same work as the undergraduate department. The summer school is composed mostly of teachers. Dr. Garnett taught the same subjects that he teaches at Lindenwood but says that it is very stimulating to work with older students who have had experience teaching. On August 5, he took a two weeks vacation which he spent in Hot Springs, Ark.

Miss Isidor spent her vacation studying in Ohio. At Baldwin-Wallace College in Berea she interviewed the author of the Harmony text that is used at Lindenwood, Mr. Carlton Bullis. She took further study in the violin at the Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati and also a course in Musicology under Marian Bower.

Miss Walker spent several weeks at Columbia University in New York this summer studying music. She also attended the Juilliard School of Music.

Dr. Betz spent the summer touring the United States in his car.

Mrs. Ross H. Eastlick, from Los Angeles, who has been in St. Louis for a few days, came out to Lindenwood for a visit recently. Mrs. Eastlick has a special interest in the college as she is the niece of Colonel Butler and the one for whom Eastlick Hall is named.

Miss Bailey spent the summer in Pennsylvania. She attended a few classes at Columbia University, but on the whole had a "completely un-academic vacation."

During her summer vacation Miss Allyn of the business department took several short trips. She went to Crystal Lake, Ill., and to Wisconsin with Mrs. Roemer. Shortly after this, she left for a two weeks business trip. She spent August in St. Louis, studying and taking numerous short trips.

During her summer vacation, Miss Elizabeth Dawson of the English department spent eight weeks attending Iowa University, Iowa City, where she took courses in English and the Philosophy of Science.

Dr. Pugh of the History department spent a very enjoyable summer, visiting in many places. Immediately after the dismissal of school, Dr. Pugh spent ten days at the University of Chicago doing research work in the library there. She then departed for Crystal Lake, Mich., where she visited her brother and friends. The last two weeks of her vacation were spent visiting her sister in Canton, O. Enroute to Ohio, Dr. Pugh visited Miss Lemen, Lindenwood's former speech teacher, in Evanston, Ill.

Miss Rasmussen, assistant to Dr. Linnemann in the art department, spent her summer vacation in Tulsa, Okla., and was in New York City for 10 weeks. While in New York City she attended the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts. On her return trip Miss Rasmussen visited Niagara Falls, also Chicago, and points in Nebraska.

Miss Englehart spent 11 weeks this summer in Colorado. The first five weeks were spent studying at Boulder, Colo., where there were about 5000 enrolled in the summer school. Here she met Alice Belding and Mary Ahmann from Lindenwood, who were also attending. While in Colorado Miss Englehart lived in a camp about six miles from Boulder. The last six weeks of her vacation she took short trips into the mountains seeking the country by hiking and driving and also went to Cheyenne, Wyo., to see a rodeo. Here she said that she had never seen so many Indians, cowboys and cattle gathered together in one place before. Miss Englehart is now a great booster for the West and thinks there is no place like Colorado.

Miss Karr spent her summer at the home of her parents in Indianola, Iowa. She also visited for several weeks in Grand Rapids, Mich., and in Chicago.

Miss Foster spent most of the summer here at Lindenwood, but the latter part of August she visited her mother who lives near Springfield, Mo.

Dr. Evers spent an enjoyable and interesting summer at Niagara Falls, accompanied by her sister.

Ruth Hope MacArthur spent last week-end at the Coronado Hotel visiting with her mother who arrived from Chicago to spend the week-end.

Helen Jane Goldthwaite spent the week-end visiting friends in Columbia, Mo. She also attended the M. U. football game.

Geraldine Wachter, a day student from St. Louis, attended the Veiled Prophet Ball with her family. Her brother sang a solo as a member of the St. Louis university choir at the ball.

Helen DuHadway and Mary Roberts spent the weekend at the home of Mrs. Carter Kirk in University City. Mrs. Kirk was the former Eleanor Finley of Lindenwood College.

Pearl Lawson and Phyl Chalmers, former Lindenwood students, visited the campus Saturday.

Joyce Davis and Rosemary Williams spent the weekend in St. Louis, where they visited Mrs. Elise P. Moore, formerly of the language department of Lindenwood.

Lindenwood Out of Doors

Friday afternoon, October 7, was a gala afternoon for the entire student body, and faculty. Occasion, the school picnic held at the St. Charles Country Club.

Promptly at 3 o'clock, a hundred cars, furnished by the friends of Lindenwood from St. Charles, were waiting.

Upon arriving at the club, everyone became engaged in some activity, or spent the hours conversing with fellow students.

Bridge, ping-pong, dancing, golfing and baseball filled the afternoon. Apple munching and marshmallow toasting were the diversions of many more.

At 5 o'clock the club house was in a hilarious state. It was time to eat. The food was more than plentiful, and each girl was doing her share.

Immediately following dinner, a school sing around a blazing fire was held. Marian Hull led in songs.

At 7 o'clock everyone departed once again for school, with a full but happy feeling, agreeing that a wonderful time was had by all.

Teachers Telling What To See

Advice for the Winter on Trips to the City.

Assembly Thursday morning, September 29, was opened with a prayer for peace by Dr. Harmon.

Several announcements were made concerning the golf course and the tennis courts by the girls and their dates on week days.

Mr. Thomas then introduced the speakers.

Dr. Linnemann spoke on the art advantages of St. Louis. She endeavored to impress upon the students the importance of an appreciation of art. She spoke of the Art Museum where one can see the famous paintings and sculptures, also the period rooms on display. Dr. Linnemann named other places of interest such as the churches, other galleries, small exclusive shops where interior decoration is the point of interest, costume and jewelry shops. She concluded with a poem by Edgar Guest.

Dr. Talbot gave an interesting talk on the Zoo and Shaw's Garden. The Zoo is located in Forest Park. It is one of the first Zoos to build natural surroundings for the animals. The Reptile and Monkey Houses are of special interest.

Shaw's Garden is one of the three botanical gardens in the United States. It was given to St. Louis by Henry Shaw in 1859. Native and foreign trees, tropical and unfamiliar plants are on display. The orchid show is particularly beautiful.

Miss Gordon reviewed the coming plays, some of which are, Pins and Needles; On Borrowed Time; I'd Rather Be Right; the political satire, Sea Gull; You Can't Take It With You; Mice and Men; Susan and God; Hooray for What, an Ed. Wynn comedy; and Golden Boy. Some of the Little Theater plays have been announced which she also named, Star Wagon; Blind Alley; The Front Page; Loyalties, Galsworthy's play; and Modern Comedy.

Mr. Thomas elaborated on the advantageousness of St. Louis also. He spoke of the Symphony Concert, the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, the concertina in the Scottish Rite Building and the St. Louis Symphony Quartet. The A-capella choir is especially noted.

Need For Good Manners

"As Others Like Us", by Stephenson and Millett, the pamphlet given to all Lindenwood students, seems to be the talk of the campus. This booklet was given to the students from the vocational guidance office.

It is the universal idea when a student comes to college, that he or she has had enough preparation in his past life and experience so that any further information on social obligations is worthless. This is the wrong attitude to assume.

To be such a person as to make others like you, needs some analysis on the part of every individual. Most people like to be liked by their fellow neighbor, that is only human nature. One of the best foundations for social manners is the golden rule, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do you even so to them."

If this is held for your ideal, a genuine feeling for others will be felt. "You need integrity, restraint, wise tolerance, and friendliness." Be able to meet the most awkward situation with ease, and kindness. Remember the other person, and place yourself in her place. The result will be gratifying, and you will be As Others Like You.
