DR. DEVINE'S VISIT

Dr. Edward T. Devine, one of the country's most eminent social workers, contributing editor of the Survey, head of the social economy department of the New York School of Social Economy, was at the college, October 11, as the guest of Alpha Sigma Tau.

At the Thursday assembly hour he addressed the students on "Our International Relations." He pointed out that by the very nature of our country and our people we can not isolate ourselves from the world.

"It is to us that all countries are looking because America is now in a state of stability when all other countries are in a state of turmoil. We are in this state of stability because we believe in our strongly built institutions. And because of the strength and stability of our institutions, we owe a foreign obligation at this time," concluded Dr. Devine.

In the afternoon Dr. Devine addressed the students of history and economics on the coal situation. Having been one of the six members of the United States Coal Commission, he explained the entire situation in a very clear and comprehensive manner.

That the bituminous and the anthracite coal problems were two entirely separate and distinct problems was one of the points that he made. "The problem of the bituminous coal is that of cut-throat competition, while the problem of the anthracite coal is that of monopoly. Ninety per cent of all the bituminous coal is used in industry. Seventy per cent of all the anthracite coal is used in homes."

In conclusion Dr. Devine said that the commission had but three suggestions to make as to the solution of the problem. "We recommend a continuing of the publicity about everything concerning coal; a supervision by the Interstate Commerce Commission—though we do not advise government control nor a set price; and a taxation on differential advantages."

LINDEN LEAVES STAFF ELECTED

The staff for the 1924 Linden Leaves has been announced. The faculty committee is composed of Miss Lucinda Templin, Miss Anna Pugh, Miss Ethel Boyce, Miss Lois Karr, and Miss Alice Linnemann. Ruth Kern is editor-in-chief; Gertrude Bird, business manager; Priscilla Calder, literary editor; Ada Hemingway, art editor; Lucile Killingsworth, organization manager; and Jessie Schaper, joke editor.

QUEEN MARGUERITE REIGNS

Great excitement prevailed in the gymnasium Wednesday night, October 31, for no one knew who the Hallowe'en queen was. When the guests had all assembled — and from the attire of the guests many had come from foreign lands for this party; there were Japanese girls, gypsies, Indian braves with their squaws, Spanish señoritas, Little Lord Fauntleroy, pumpkins, tiny boys and girls, and fearful pirates with dangerous looking knives and "fierce" mustaches,— a big yellow pumpkin was drawn up to the throne which had been built at one end of the gym, and out of it came Queen Marguerite the First.

Queen Marguerite was gowned in a dress of bright orange, decorated with black cats and witches. She wore a "perky" little cap of yellow which set off her beauty to a great advantage.

After smiling at her subjects who greeted her with great favor, she took her place on the throne which was decorated with pumpkins, black cats, and corn stalks, and watched the festivities of the evening.

Mary Sayre gave a solo dance followed by a ghost story told by Helen Calder. Marian Gum and Ruth Laitner sang a song of true Hallowe'en gruesomeness.

Then followed one of the most interesting features of the whole party. Queen Marguerite, assisted by a committee of the faculty, chose the most original costume from out the hundreds represented. All marched past the throne in single file, and after a few moments of consultation, the Queen rose and announced that the prize for the most original costume had been awarded to Keo Richards and Gladys Sullivan. They were dressed as shocks of corn and until the march, very few had been aware of their presence. They had quietly leaned against the wall and amid the shocks of corn used in decoration, they were hardly noticeable.

The party was under the direction of the social committee of the Y. W. C. A.

Preceding the party in the gymnasium, Miss Walters served a two course dinner in which Hallowe'en colors and decorations played a prominent part. A lighted jack o' lantern in the center of each table and Hallowe'en favors for everyone added greatly to the hilarity of the meal.

OUR CHANGING COLLEGE LIFE

Dean Kendric Charles Babcock, B. Litt., Ph. D., L. L. D., University of Illinois, was the guest of the college October 24 and 25. The evening of the 24th, Dr. Babcock addressed the members of the faculty. The following morning at the Thursday assembly he spoke to the student body on "Our Changing College Life."

Dr. Babcock stressed the great strides that are being made in all forms of science and learning. "The fact that Columbus discovered America in 1492 does not mean that America has been discovered. Every day someone is discovering America. We have students coming from other countries who only discover America after they learn the language of our country," he said.

"As some student slangly expressed it, 'Where are we at, what are we doin' and where are we goin'.' These are the things that we have to keep in mind, in the changes in our college life," concluded Dr. Babcock.

He extended greetings from the student body of the University of Illinois to the girls of Lindenwood.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

The first birthday dinner of the year was given Friday night, October 12. The tables were decorated in red and yellow, the Spanish colors, with tiny flags here and there—in honor of Columbus Day. This color scheme was carried out through the entire three course dinner.

After the dinner, the music in the gymnasium called everyone there. A grand march was conducted by Miss Marjorie Weber. Later in the evening the entire faculty had a grand march all their own, to the delight of everyone—the faculty and onlookers.

The faculty and their wives were the guests at dinner.

A HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Mrs. Q. K. Underwood entertained the members of her newswriting class at her home in St. John, Saturday afternoon, October 27. The house was decorated in true Hallowe'en fashion with witches, bats, and pumpkins—to say nothing of popular fortune telling devices. A real live black cat added to the atmosphere.

Wax modeling and an old time spelling match afforded a great deal of amusement.

Hallowe'en decorations were carried out in the three course luncheon. And such wonderful food and so much of it! Only college girls would have been able to do full justice to everything.

Six of the young women who work on the Globe-Democrat were guests also.

Those from Lindenwood were Mrs. John L. Roemer, Miss Louise Child, Helene Millsap, Gertrude Bird, Ellison Morris, Julia Ayers, Eleanor Brown, Helen Calder, and Ruth Kern.

UPPER CLASSMEN PARTY

Clever "stunts" by each of the three upperclasses was the feature of the party given by the old girls for the freshmen, in Butler gymnasium.

The seniors impersonated "The Magazine Girl." A magazine cover in red and grey was arranged as a background, and Carolyn Sheetz sang while different girls in sports costume, evening gown, bathing suit, afternoon dress, and other typical apparel fared forth, concluding with "that red-headed gal" whereupon Carolyn suited the song to the girl.

For the juniors, Gertrude Bird represented the timid freshman who went bewildered from classes in Roemer hall back to the dormitories, frightened by many bogies. Finally she was rescued by a junior.

"It pays to advertise" was the foundation of the Sophomore stunt. While Helen Holmes read a skit written for the occasion, Mary Hagler as the man, and Mary Sayre as the maid, gave a clever pantomime.

QUAKER DINNER

"Pay a quarter and laugh all you please" was the admonition of the Y. W. C. A. officers when the Quaker dinner was announced. And that was just what everyone did. How could one help laughing when there were so many amusing, not to say ridiculous, things to laugh at?

The dinner began quietly enough but before many minutes had passed, the jazz band came in. Led by Eleen Denning, the band circled the room playing their weird instruments. A few moments later, at the entrance of the bridal party—ring bearer, flower girl, parson, even a groom,—the band played the wedding march. The bridal party was seated at one table and served by two very attractive (?) maids. "Spark-plug" was among the guests, as were the Gold Dust twins, who indulged in a little controversy to the amusement of all. In fact the Siamese twins were even there. Most people were surprised to discover that there was really quite a difference in their size and build. Then, too, they had red hair—a thing never mentioned before.

With all these amusements was it any wonder that everyone had to pay her quarter? There was no one sober enough to keep from laughing at these funny sights. Due to this fact, the Y. W. cleared $80.50.

CAMPUS NOTES

The Y. W. C. A. held one of its weekly Wednesday evening meetings down on the creek. The members roasted "weenies" over the new fire places and enjoyed a real picnic supper. After the supper, the devotional service was held by the light of the fire.

Mrs. O. D. Dameron (Maurine McMahan), '20-'21, Moberly, Mo., was the week-end guest of Carolyn Sheetz, Marian Bowers, and Helen Towles.

Helen Damsel, '22-'23, made a short visit to the college as the guest of Margaret Enlow.

Helen Riordan, '20-'23, Hannibal, Mo., spent the week-end with Marcella Holbrook and Helen Holmes. Helen is teaching the third grade in one of the Hannibal schools.

Elizabeth Bungenstock, '22, Carrollton, Mo., visited Alleen Guthrie and Harriet Gum.

Miss Carolyn Croll has been added to our faculty. Miss Croll comes to us very highly recommended by the faculty of Columbia University, to take a place in the Romance Language department.

Catherine Yount had as her guest Miss Frances Johnson of Cape Girardeau.

Gladys Campbell attended the centennial celebration held at Bowling Green, Mo., October 12. Gladys' grandfather and grandmother are among the first settlers of the town. Incidentally, Mr. Guy C. Motley is one of the famous people who hail from Bowling Green.

Mrs. John L. Roemer has returned from a ten days' visit with her brother in Morgantown, West Virginia. Dr. Roemer is just back from attending the fiftieth anniversary of Boston University, where he represented Lindenwood College.

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE

Miss Alice Linnemann, head of the art department, took her art classes to St. Louis to see the exhibition of work now on display by American artists.

Dr. Harry C. Rogers, pastor of the Lindenwood Presbyterian church, Kansas City, was the guest of the college for a short time. He addressed the student body at the Thursday assembly on "The Touchstones of Life." Being a member of the board of trustees, Dr. Rogers has always had a great interest in the college, but this year that interest has been more than doubled—all due to the fact that one Betty Rogers is numbered in our Lindenwood family.

A new Buick truck has taken the place of the good old Ford which used to carry the mail back and forth. The new truck is better looking but it will be sometime before the girls will have the same feeling for it that they had for "the little red truck."

Secretary Guy C. Motley has offered a prize of $100.00 to the person who submits the best cover design for the new view book and catalogue. The contest is open to everyone, the only requirement being that the design be something typical of Lindenwood.

A great deal of interest has been manifested in the tennis tournament this year. Games have been played and players eliminated until now there are only three players left: Julia Ayers, Marian Gum and Janet Robinson. They will play to decide the championship of the college.

R. A. Guthrie, Macon, Mo., visited his daughters, Allene and Mary Sue, at the college.

ALUMNAE NOTES

Helen Peyton who graduated last year writes from Anthony, Kansas, where she is head of the Romance Language department: "I can truthfully say that I am in love with both the place and the work. The superintendent came to visit my Spanish class today and I wasn't a bit fussed—thanks to early training. Best wishes for a wonderful year in Lindenwood College and the education department."

Kathleen Fleming, '23, Jerseyville, Ill., spent the week-end at the college as the guest of Adeline Ayers and Miss Florence Bartz. "Kap" is still as enthusiastic about Lindenwood as she has always been.

Leah Thompson, '23, writes that she is teaching in one of the Joplin schools and enjoys the work immensely.

Mildred Silvers, '22, Butler, Mo., was selected to represent Butler in the Priest of Pallas festival in Kansas City, October 15.

Dorothy Ely, '22, writes an enthusiastic report of her work in the English department of the Napoleon, Ohio, high school. "I can say that Napoleon fulfills all of my expectations. It is a beautiful place. The high school is a new three-story brick building with tennis courts and a well equipped athletic field behind it. Everything is up to the last minute in management and equipment. I have been able to use a great many of the things I learned in "special methods." It seems queer not to be in the swing of affairs at Lindenwood again, though I'm very well satisfied with my position. The superintendent of schools passed such a compliment to Lindenwood College that it was too good to keep. I felt that I must pass it on to those to whom the credit was due. The State Board of Education in Ohio is evidently very strict about granting their state teachers' certificates. Anyway, the superintendent here is having a hard time getting certificates transferred for two teachers; one is a graduate of an Ohio college, and the other comes from the State University of Michigan. The authorities here could not understand how it happened that my Missouri certificate and my credits went through without any questions whatever. To satisfy their curiosity, the superintendent came to ask me all about Lindenwood and what sort of a college it was. Since he is a Michigan graduate himself, he hated to admit that Lindenwood credits went over Michigan ones; but he had to conclude by saying that only a college with a very efficient and thorough faculty and a very progressive course of study could out-do Michigan, and therefore Lindenwood must be a very good school. Of course I agreed."

Velma Pierce, '23, writes from Burt, Iowa: "I am enjoying my work immensely here. It's just a pleasure to teach. I have a very large men's Glee Club in which most of the voices are trained. We are working toward a concert for Thanksgiving time. I am busy writing music to be used on the program. I have a great deal of time to myself and am practicing more than ever. Give my very best wishes to everyone at Lindenwood."

Stella Rowland, '22, Hobart, Oklahoma, writes, "I have not forgotten Lindenwood and all its charms. I often think of it and all the good times I had there. I enjoy the Bulletin so much that I can hardly wait for it each month."

One of the members of the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club, Mrs. Priscilla Alden Settle, is a lineal descendant of John Alden. Her little son, John Alden Settle, is tenth in line of direct descent from the John Alden made famous in Longfellow's "Miles Standish."

Miss Agnes Adams, '12, has accepted a position as cost accountant with the United Drug Company in St. Louis. She is also taking a business course at Soldan night school.

Miss Lillian Zacher has returned from Fulton, Mo., where she attended the Christian Endeavor Convention as a delegate from the Tyler Place Presbyterian Church, St. Louis, Mo.

Genevieve Yost, '23, writes from Cape Girardeau, Mo., "I am cataloger and assistant librarian in the Cape Girardeau State Teachers' College. I enjoy my work immensely." Genevieve received a diploma in library science last year, from Lindenwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph White (Eunice Holman) have just moved into their new home in University City. Their new address is 7516 Washington Ave.

Miss Mable Nix, '11, is in Chicago taking a post-graduate course in piano under Signor Boguslansky.

"It is such a pleasure for me each month to receive the Lindenwood Bulletin. I feel that I am still one of the girls, when I read of all the lovely entertainments you have there, because it brings back to my memory the delightful days I spent there in 1909-'10," writes Mrs. Raymond P. Conner (Eusebia Dudley). "Some time before long I hope to visit you all, and renew my acquaintances of former years."

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Gentry (Ann Whyte, '90-'91), Chicago, will sail November 15, from New York on the "Franconia" for a trip around the world.

"I am writing to give you my change of address as I do not wish to be deprived of the pleasure of reading the monthly Bulletin," writes Mrs. Susan Ustick Burritt, president of the Lindenwood Club of New York. "I now live in New York City at 750 Riverside Drive. I should be pleased to be given names and addresses of former Lindenwood students who are attending Columbia University. The Lindenwood College Club of New York would extend a hearty welcome and do all in its power to make their stay a pleasant one."

Mrs. Carl Rakenius (Alma Goebel), Ratzeburg, Germany, a student at Lindenwood in 1886-'90, was the guest of her college classmate, Miss Alice Linne-mann, October 9.

Mrs. Rakenius is a daughter of the late Rudolph Goebel, St. Charles, who was known as the "oldest photographer in Missouri." For the last twenty years she has lived in Germany and sailed from Hamburg, September 6.

"The people in Germany who used to live in comfort are now almost starving. My daughter who lives in Berlin used to buy meat once a week but now she cannot do that. The pension of a captain for one month is just enough to buy a loaf of bread. Chicken is 10,000,000 marks a pound. We don't use much of it."

"People can stint on food, but they must be clothed. Clothing is the most gratefully received of anything that the American people can send us. My maid would much rather be paid in goods than in money, for she can do nothing with the money."

At present Mrs. Rakenius is visiting in California with her sister. She will soon return to Germany.

MARRIAGES

Emma Florence John, '20, Abington, Ill., to John C. Jackson, October 11. At home after December 1, in Joy, Ill.

ROETZEL-HIGHTOWER

A pretty high noon wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Roetzel, 600 Rock street, Tuesday morning when their daughter, Mildred, became the bride of Horton Chapman Hightower of Oklahoma City. The ceremony was performed by Dr. John Boden, pastor of Christ church, at the home of the bride, which was beautifully decorated with yellow chrysanthemums. An altar of these same blossoms combined with Southern smilax was built at one end of the room and large wicker baskets of flowers were placed at either end.

Before the service Mrs. R. L. Davis sang "At Dawning" and "Because," and the wedding march was played by Miss Lee Sims. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of white georgette trimmed with embroidery and pearls. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Cecil Roetzel, sister of the bride, as maid of honor wore a dress of orchid radium and georgette. Mrs. George Griffith of Alexandria, La., was matron of honor. Edward M. Peck was best man.

An informal reception was held, and refreshments were served in the dining room by the Misses Helen and Texas Roemer, Elizabeth Bolton and Mrs. Norman A. Beller, Jr. and Mrs. Ira Stanton. Miss Marie Saxe was in charge of the bride's book.

Mr. and Mrs. Hightower left for a brief wedding trip and will be at home in two weeks in Oklahoma City. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. George C. Griffith, St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. George A. Griffith, Alexandria, La.; Miss Marie Saxe, Monroe, La.; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Beckwith, Dermott; L. O. Cranford, Bald Knob, and W. G. Phillips of Mobile, Ala.

The above is reprinted from a Little Rock paper.

Mrs. R. L. Davis (Pauline Rice), Miss Lee Sims, and Miss Mildred Martin are all old Lindenwood girls.

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE

CLUB NOTES

ST. LOUIS

On Tuesday, October 16, the members of the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club were the guests of Dr. Roemer at the college. As usual we were royally entertained by Dr. Roemer, Miss Tempelin, faculty and students.

In the morning informal exercises were held in Roemer auditorium and the club was honored by being invited to seats on the platform. Members of the club were called upon for a few words to the students and those who responded were Miss Agnes Adams, president of the St. Louis Club, Mrs. Arthur Gale, president of the Alumnae Association, Mrs. Lulu Hynson, Mrs. David Hardy, Mrs. William K. Roth, former president of the club, and Mrs. Victor Rhodes.

After a number of songs by the student body, the seniors escorted the visitors to luncheon.

A meeting of the club was then held in Butler parlors and a collection of $14.25 was taken up for the purpose of buying books for the library. Some of the members gave books. A rising vote of thanks was given to Miss Janet Stine for her liberal donation to the Mary Easton Sibley Scholarship Fund. After a vote of thanks to the college for the entertainment, the meeting was adjourned and the members were free to inspect the new golf course, the hockey field, the archery grounds, the tennis courts, and all of the buildings and equipment.

Those present were Miss Agnes Adams, Miss Lillian Zacher, Misses Janet and Adele Stine, Miss Sarah McElhenny, Miss Betty Weatherly, Hannibal, Mo., Mrs. Arthur Gale, Mrs. Lulu

Thurman Hynson, Mrs. William K. Roth, Mrs. Lorraine Thompson Bernero, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. H. B. Kooser, Mrs. Arthur Krueger, Mrs. Harry Montgomery, Mrs. Elizabeth Christy Lowry, Mrs. J. B. Brouster, Mrs. David Hardy, Mrs. Victor Rhodes, Mrs. Priscilla Alden Settle, Mrs. Jesse Mellor, Mrs. Frank Koenecke, Mrs. Margaret Baetz Bezenberger, Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. Arthur Krueger,

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

The Lindenwood College Club of Southern California was most pleasantly entertained on Saturday, October 13, by Mrs. C. H. Baker at her home, 1080 Arden Road, Pasadena.

After a charmingly appointed luncheon carried out in yellow and white, the club members participated in a needlework contest. The "cash prizes" were presented to the treasurer, forming a substantial addition to the Mary Easton Sibley Scholarship Fund.

CHICAGO

October 19 was a red letter day for the Chicago Lindenwood Club. We had about 30 present, Dr. Roemer being the "star" attraction. The date was postponed one week having been arranged for his convenience.

The residence of Mrs. George Lown was gay with scarlet dahlias. A delicious luncheon was served. Mrs. E. R. Gentry was the other hostess.

There was a delightful informality about our meeting, all business having been deferred until November. It was our pleasure to have with us a number of visitors, mothers whose daughters are students at Lindenwood. Mrs. J. C. Nemeč (Martha Scroggins) who graduated from the Chicago Art Institute this year, was our guest for the second time and is to become a member of our club.

Our two brides, Mrs. Kenneth Colegrove and Mrs. Eric Foote, were presented with silver compote, gifts from the club.

Dr. Roemer's talk was interesting and stimulating. He aroused our enthusiasm for the Mary Easton Sibley Scholarship Fund to even a greater height. We realize the privilege of fulfilling Mary Easton Sibley's desire to bring education and happiness to those less fortunate, by providing the means to attend Lindenwood. The need is most appealing. Ways and means will be discussed at the next meeting.

Ann Whyte Gentry,

Entertains College Club

Mrs. B. W. Melick and daughter, Miss Ruth, entertained the members of the Lindenwood College Club of St. Joseph at an informal tea yesterday afternoon at their home, 1401 North Twenty-fifth street. The tea, which followed the business meeting, was served from a table centered with a bouquet of yellow and white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Leo Von Baker, Mrs. Vern P. Meyer, and Mrs. John Netherlands assisted the hostess. Plans were made by the club to give a bridge party Nov. 24, when the public will be invited. The proceeds of the party will be divided between a local charity and Lindenwood College.
