$1.00 A Year

From the Office of the Dean

Monday night, October 11, Dr. Gipson met with the newly appointed annual staff to discuss the work of the coming year. A great deal of interest and enthusiasm was shown by all. Dr. Gipson expresses her wish that every girl in school will cooperate with the staff in having her picture taken on time, and sign up to take the Annual. The staff is planning to get out a book that everyone will be proud of.

Dr. Gipson received a letter from Alma Reitz, the editor-in-chief of the Linden Leaves last year, who sent the unusual rating of the Annual of 1936. The scholastic rating of the Linden Leaves was first class honor position, and the total points score was 25 points above average. Dr. Gipson is hoping that this year the Linden Leaves will be as good, if not better than last year's edition.

Ye Editors for 1938

Well-Chosen Group to Direct Linden Leaves.

This year's staff of the Linden Leaves has as its editor-in-chief, Lois Margaret Null of St. Charles, who is a member of Alpha Sigma Tau, Poetry Society, and Athletic Association, secretary of the senior class, and president of the St. Charles students; business manager, Sue Sonnenday of St. Louis, who is a member of Sigma Tau Delta and the Poetry Society; assistant business manager, Alice Belding of St. Charles, a member of Alpha Sigma Tau, Mu Phi Epsilon, and the German Club, treasurer of the junior class, and vice-president of the St. Charles students; literary editors, Gwendolyn Payne of Wood River, Ill., who is a member of Alpha Sigma Tau, Beta Pi Theta, League of Women Voters, and International Relations, and vice-president of the Athletic Association, and Helen Margaret DuHadway of Jerseyville, Ill., who is a member of Alpha Sigma Tau and Beta Pi Theta; organization editor, Rosemary Williams of Murphysboro, Ill., who is a member of Alpha Sigma Tau and the Spanish Club, and vice-president of Y.W.C.A.; humor editor, Marian Hull of Washington, Mo.; art editors, Nina Jane Davis of New Castle, Ind., and Ada Lee Weber of St. Charles; snapshot editor, Jeanette Klitzke of Hammond, Ind.; assistant organization editors, Betty White of Marissa, Ill., Dorothy Wagner of Palestine, Tex., Marguerite Dearmont of Cape Girardeau, Mo., Harriet Hall of Michigan City, Ind., Martha Jane Reubelt of Eufaula, Okla., Marion Stumberg of St. Charles, Mary Elizabeth Shannon of Concordia, Kan., Mary Bates of Richmond, Mo., Minnie Jo Curtis of Oklahoma City, Okla., Helen Haldane of Uravan, Colo., June Jordan of Brady, Tex., Mary Anderson of Granite City, Ill., Pauline Keehner of Granite City, Ill., Mary Dillion of Vinita, Okla., Rachel Britain of Shawnee, Okla., and Jane Black of Quincy, Ill. This organization is very busy contacting engravers, printers, and photographers, and work will get under way very soon. Sales will start in a few weeks.

conference at Lake Taneycomo, located two miles from Hollister, Mo. The camp was made up of students from Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, and Missouri.

The program was divided into three parts; first, Sara Lee Auerbach gave a talk entitled "Sketches of Interesting Personalities on the Campus"; second, Gwendolyn Payne told about the every-day life on the campus; and Catherine Donnell told of the recreation provided for them.

Dr. Harmon took Lindenwood's representatives to the camp which has a hundred cabins, and this summer the attendance was 250. Sixty colleges and universities were represented by various races: white, Malay, Japanese, Chinese, and Negro.

Lindenwood Choir Elects Officers

Includes Many Talented Members

The members of the choir under the direction of Miss Gieselman, have chosen as their officers: Alice Jones, of St. Charles, Mo., president; Cordelia Buck, Little Rock, Ark., vice-president and accompanist; Sara W. Nickols, Glasgow, Ky., secretary-treasurer; Barbara Johnston, Rocky Ford, Colo., and Charlotte Dalin, Ottumwa, Iowa, librarians.

The other members of the choir are: Irene Altheide, Margaret Behrens, Mary Beth Benner, Jessie Benson, Betty Ann Brown, Maxine Bucklew, Virginia Carter, Rebecca Lou Cox, Kathryn Craig, Corneille Davis, Maurine Dillon, Vera Jean Douthat, Ruby Drehmann, Margaret Edgington, Bernadette Fehlgan, Mary Ann Fowler, Virginia Froman, Mary Lou Fugate, Peggy Garden, Margaret Jeanne Gaskill, Helen Haldane, Mimi Hanna, Estelle Hays, Lois Hausch, Jane Hill, Ruth Hoeck, Marian Hull, Patsy Lee Ivey, Wanda Jennings, Elizabeth Johnston, June Jordan, Betty Jane Kelloway, Jeannette Lee, Beverly Mayhall, Josephine Miller, Nelle Motley, Marjorie Morgan, Dorothy Nieman, Nancy Patterson, Elaine Reed, Dorothy Rhea, Doris Rogers, Kay Ruester, Mardell Seeley, Harriet Small, Kathleen Storrs, Moila Strickler, Robinette Sutherland, Eleanor Watson, Wannette Wolfe, and Miriam Wedeking.

"Escape From Futility"

Dr. H. M. Gage, president of Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was the guest speaker at the vesper service Sunday, October 3, at Roemer Auditorium. Dr. Roemer presided at the service.

Dr. Gage chose for his main thought, "Escape From Futility", and advised the girls how they might successfully seek deliverance from futility.

"Girls of Lindenwood, you cannot escape from futility by going alone. There must be a worthiness of membership and partnership with all infinite forces in the world," Dr. Gage said.

"A girl entering college should enter it wholly and not with a one-sided interest; she should have interest for everything. School is not to be considered as a college but as a community, and co-operation is of vital importance."

"We are all one body in Christ and members in particular," said Dr. Gage. "try to make people happy; be true to yourself and others as God is true to you."

The vesper service was opened by singing the hymn, "Glorious Things of Thee Are Spoken"; following the invocation, the choir, directed by Miss Gieselman sang, "Turn Ye Even To Me", after which the responsive reading was led by Dr. Roemer. Elaine Reid sang a solo, "Come Ye Blessed". The recessional hymn was, "Saviour, Again To Thy Dear Name."

Lindenwood's Big Event

Noted National Speaker; Metropolitan Opera Star.

The observance of Founders' Day, which will inaugurate the 111th year of Lindenwood College, will be Thursday, October 28. Classes will be dismissed for the day at 11 o'clock, at which time Mrs. Walter W. Seymour, of Chicago, will be the guest speaker in a special assembly. Mrs. Seymour is a graduate of Lindenwood, and has since studied at Vanderbilt University, has taken a law course at the University of Chicago, and also special art courses at the Art Institute of Chicago. Mrs. Seymour is very active in civic, welfare, community, and church affairs. She is second vice-president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs.

The processional hymn is to be "Holy, Holy, Holy", followed with the invocation. An anthem number will be, "The Omnipotence" (Schubert), sung by the choir. The address entitled, "A Candle in Her Hand", given by Mrs. Seymour, will precede a special number, "Lift Thine Eyes", sung by the Lindenwood sextet.

After luncheon, there is to be a meeting of the Alumnae Association at 1:30 o'clock; at 3 o'clock, the physical education department is to put on a program for the student body in Roemer Auditorium.

The guest for the evening's program is to be Miss Elda Vettori, noted Metropolitan Opera star, who will present a concert.

V. P. Pageant and Ball

Lindenwood Girls in Numbers at Brilliant Ceremonies.

Tuesday, October 5, six busses and six taxis carried a large per cent of Lindenwood girls to St. Louis where they viewed the Veiled Prophet Parade. The girls left about 6:30 p. m., and returned about midnight after a very exciting evening. The parade consisted of various multi-colored floats, all representing Mother Goose rhymes. The crowd was great, and the girls are still talking about the grand time they had watching the parade and eating at Garavelli's afterwards.

Wednesday night was a big occasion for several of Lindenwood's girls as well as the people in St. Louis. It was the night of the V. P. Ball and the crowning of the new queen. Among the people from Lindenwood were: Dr. and Mrs. Roemer, Margaret Behrens, Ruby Drehman, Kay Donnell, Beverly Mayhall, and Sue Sonnenday. Dr. Roemer was in full dress with white tie and tails. Mrs. Roemer appeared in a new fall model of maroon color. Of course she wore some of her beautiful jewelry. They sat on the Mezzanine and watched the crowning of the queen.

The ballroom was a glorious mass of color and beauty. The audience

Columbus Appreciated or Resented?

Columbus Day was on Tuesday, October 12, but no one seemed to know it! At least everyone who was asked what day it was said, "Tuesday", and that's all they thought about. When informed that it was Columbus Day, some girls said "so what!" Of course that was a very fitting answer, because after all he only discovered the land in which we live. Now some people might resent the fact that he hoped and thought America was India when he came here, and base their non-enthusiastic attitude on that. However, a little credit is due the "old boy," because after all, we might not be here now. There is a slight chance that someone else could have later decided that there was something worth while across the monster-infested seas, and risked his life to find this land, but that raises the problem of generations. Perhaps if this had happened, we might be living in the wrong age; shall we say, "thirty years too soon" or even sooner. Who knows?

Founders 110 Years Ago, And Others

Founders and their "prodigies" have been honored and revered for hundred of years but we college students are so busy dashing from one year to another, that we fail to give the founders much thought or attention.

Journalism aspirants, who was responsible for your "career desire"? No, it wasn't Gutenberg, who invented the printing press in 1438; going back several centuries, it wasn't an Egyptian ruler writing on clay tablets. You owe your thanks to Benjamin Franklin! He founded the ideals and basic code of good journalism. Today the Saturday Evening Post makes known the fact to the million readers that Benjamin Franklin founded the magazine.

Business institutions look with pride to one broad-minded, far-sighted individual who had courage enough to start the foundation of a small, shaky concern, that in years to come would be a mammoth industry of one kind or another.

National organizations such as Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, American Legion, Red Cross, and countless other clubs have been founded by one person or a small group of individuals. Today, those individuals or groups are honored and remembered. Their ideals have been handed down year after year; their organizations have been kept alive, have aided and helped humanity in every possible way.

Can you not see why there should be an observance of definite purpose for founders? We owe them something, certainly, and that is the least we can do.

Suppose we retrace our steps and go back 110 years ago (1827, in case you're slow). At St. Charles, Mo., a school was founded by a man and his wife, Major George C. Sibley and Mrs. Mary Easton Sibley. It was a small school but it grew rapidly and as it grew in size, it grew in purpose, ideals, and knowledge. Today it is a large college; unlike the first Lindenwood of 110 years ago, we have a large faculty, many buildings, and a beautiful campus, but, the standards of Lindenwood have not altered from the standards that Major and Mrs. Sibley established. So, as we observe Founders' Day, let us keep the ideals and say, "Long Live Lindenwood."

Fifteen Fair Freshmen

A great deal of interest is being taken in tomorrow night's Style Show in Roemer auditorium at 6:45 o'clock, whereby 15 fair freshmen will show all their arts and graces on parade in their best dresses (their own or borrowed?) as candidates for the honor of Hallowe'en Queen. This is the bright idea each year of the Lindenwood Y.W.C.A.

The girls are to appear first in a street outfit, while music is played, soft and low, by some student volunteer. The speech department will co-operate, it is expected, by lending one of its most talented girls as announcer. Then the 15 will make a second bow and a second grand, graceful walk across the stage, this time in formals. Miss Stookey is arranging the program.

Three of the candidates have been nominated by upperclassmen. The Hallowe'en Queen last year was Doris McReynolds, a freshman from Clinton, Ia.

Distinguished Recital

All Lindenwood would like to go to the event tomorrow afternoon, if that were possible, in which last year's much-liked accompanist, who gained the B.M. degree, will take part. Quoting from press announcement:

The Music Section of the Monday Club of Webster Groves will present Miss Marjorie Hickman, young St. Louis composer and pianist, at 1:30 p. m., in a piano recital which will include some of her own compositions. Miss Hickman is a graduate of Lindenwood College and also studied with Leo Miller. Mrs. Francis M. Allen is chairman for the afternoon. Mrs. C. Reuben Culling, chairman of the section, invites the club members to bring guests.

COLLEGE DIARY

By A. S.

Oct. 1: The first of the month doesn't seem to signify bills at school, but already the girls are marking the calendar when a month passes. So, the conclusion may be reached that it is the beginning of another month and calendars will rest in peace for at least 30 days.

Oct. 5: Whenever the rustle of fashionable skirts is heard to-day it isn't a fashion parade—it is only some fair bit of femininity dashing to St. Louis to see the parade of the Veiled Prophet. It seems that "everybody is doing it" and expects a riotous good time.

Oct. 6: With the passing of brilliantly lighted floats the Veiled Prophet parade is once again a "has been" until next year; however, it was an impressive affair, even though many of the girls were obliged to sit on the curb in order to see the parade. But didn't we all have a good time?

Oct. 9: The campus is rather quite today, for practically all of the students have made the "trek" to St. Louis. When one goes, they all go. It seems that the Washington University-Southern Methodist University football game is the subject of much discussion and interest—especially among the Texas girls.

Oct. 11: The freshman tea is a source of enjoyment and pleasure today and tomorrow. The major problem seems to be indefiniteness of formals or afternoon frocks; however, each girl will undoubtedly wear the dress which she believes becomes her most and have a delightful time making "tea conversation."

Oct. 13: Already the campus conversation tends to come under one heading—the date dance. "Have you a date"—"Where is he from"—"What does he look like? Can he dance"—"How about trading a dance with me" are questions that are worn out in no time. Clothes are always a topic for discussion and especially before dances—but after all, the first date dance is sort of a coming-out party for Lindenwood, is it not?

Ambitious Young Farmer Raises Lindenwood's Crops

It is known that Lindenwood has a farm? Yes, 83 acres of land on which corn, wheat, hay, and oats are grown; also there are two head of horses, 30 head of hogs, and many chickens.

The young man who does this work with the help of only one man, is Earl Doerrie, a very ambitious person, who is to be admired. He goes to school every day and to church on Sunday, and still gets his job accomplished. He lives in a lovely stone house with his mother, about a quarter of a mile from Lindenwood proper, and has three dogs for pets. The house is situated on a hill which has a beautiful view all around it. On one side one can see the hills of Illinois, and on one side the buildings of Lindenwood, and on remaining sides, the lands of Missouri. It is a most picturesque viewpoint.

The Doerries have lived on the farm for 12 years, and "even though it gets very cold in winter, we really like it," Earl said.

After graduating from school, Earl will spend most of his time working out there because of his high interest in farming.

He is a nephew of Mr. Ordelleide, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

Names and More Names

Andersons Lead with six

Has anyone ever stopped to think how interesting names are? In a group the size of Lindenwood this year, they are many and varied. The Andersons are in the lead with six, and the next largest number of one name is three: the Browns, Coxes, Davises, Fowlers, Martins, Smiths, and the Wagners.

Nature is well represented by Marjorie Fish, Peggy Garden, and Betty Dew. Lindenwood has a Ford and a Nash. Then there are Ruth Faucett and the Tanke twins.

The colorful representation includes Jane Black, the three Browns, Dorothy Blue, Barbara and Pauline Gray and Mary Ann Green. International delegates to our convention are Elizabeth Ann English and Caroline Irish.

Perhaps the trickiest, oddest, or hardest to pronounce of the names this year are Annette Avergerinos, Constance Schwarzkopf, and Irene Tsveitkov.

What One May Hear In St. Louis Music

Lindenwood college held its second chapel service, Thursday evening, October 7, in the auditorium, with Mr. Richard Spamer of St. Louis as guest speaker.

He used for his theme, "Music". Mr. Spamer witnessed the Veiled Prophet parade and said that there was a noticed improvement in the general scheme of the parade. He also remarked that his particular high light was, in seeing the busses that came bringing Lindenwood girls. His comment was that "the girls were just as beautiful as the Prophet, because they were representatives of a great institution."

"To the girls", Mr. Spamer said, "the parade is a novelty; if there wasn't novelty, the old customs would corrupt the world, and therefore we look for novelty."

An opera is a form of novelty which every girl should strive to see, he said. There are also various Symphonies and other musical programs that each Lindenwood girl will have her chance to attend during the school year.

First on the list of symphonies this year is the "St. Louis Symphony Orchestra," followed by "The St. Louis Philharmonic Orchestra," and lastly, the "Civic Music League," which presents five concerts throughout the school year.

There are five operas scheduled for this year, which include the well known operas; "Barber of Seville", "Carmen", "Faust", "Tristan and Isolde", and "Lohengrin."

Heading Important Group

The following girls have been elected officers of Beta Pi Theta, the honorary French organization. They are Helen Margaret DuHadway, president, Betty White, vice-president, Gwendolyn Payne, secretary, and Sara Margaret Willis, treasurer.

Art Students Active

In the art department, Kappa Pi, national art fraternity, recently elected officers. Ada Lee Weber was elected president and Barbara Nan Johnston, secretary. The remaining officers will be chosen at a later date.

Marguerite Raymer, Effingham, Ill., and Gracia Lou Arnold of Kahoka, Mo., both active students in the art department of Lindenwood last year, were visitors in the art class last week.

SPORTS

Lindenwood A. A. Elects Officers

The Athletic Association held its first meeting of the year on October 6, in the gym. New officers and heads of sports were elected. Mary Books was chosen as president, Gwendolyn Payne vice-president, Martha Jane Reubelt, treasurer, and Frances Brandenburg, secretary. The heads of sports are Marjory Peabody, tennis; Lois Renn, golf; Betty Harper, archery; Alicia Young, posture; Betty Lee Lemley, swimming; Julia Lane, dancing; Marion Daudt, riding; Sara Hurdis, hiking; and Effie Reinemer, head of hockey.

The tests for new membership begin soon with the new heads busily planning many activities for the coming year.

Night Swim Lessons

Miss Reichert is in charge of extension swimming classes held in Butler swimming pool every Monday night. The people of St. Charles are free to attend these classes. A group of 27 includes seven advanced swimmers and 20 beginners, three pairs of sisters and a mother with her 10-year-old daughter. The beginners are progressing nicely, and the swimmers are rapidly improving their strokes.

Biological Trips Made

Visit Interesting Places in St. Louis

On field trips to St. Louis on the second and ninth of October, the botany class visited Shaw's Gardens and the Jewel Box and the zoology class visited the zoo. The trips were made by bus under the direction of Dr. Talbot and Dr. Dawson. The botany class studied leaves of plants, various types of roots, and stems. They saw a small collection of orchids, as well as many orchids not yet in flower but on the bark of trees and on branches in the green houses. The zoology class studied animals and their adaptation to their environment. Several interesting field trips in the future are planned for both classes.

Dr. Dawson extends an invitation to anyone who would like to visit the greenhouse. It is open at all times. Although it is still in a stage of preparation, the plant is progressing, and soon the girls will start to work.

Most probably everyone has noticed that the trees are beginning to change and are dressed in many beautiful colors. Anyone interested in the reasons for this change in foliage should visit the exhibit of the brightly colored foliage on third floor of Roemer this week.

Practice Teaching

Dr. Garnett has announced that there are several girls doing practice teaching at the present time. Mary Elizabeth Baptist is teaching algebra in the St. Charles High School. Lois Null and Sara Auerbach are working on special problems and teaching in the Benton elementary school in St. Charles. Marion Thompson is working on special problems in educational sociology and a research study at the various elementary schools in St. Charles. All of the girls are seniors this year.

Social Educational Talks

Dr. Schaper has made several talks to various types of organizations during the month of October. Thursday, October 7, the St. Charles Branch of the American Association of University Women met at the Hollywood, when she spoke on "The A. A. U. W. in the Vanguard of Democracy." She brought out the importance of the A. A. U. W. in democracy when she said: "The A. A. U. W. is one of the most important organizations for women in the country, particularly in the work of adult education. We realize that adult education is basic for democratic processes today, because there are constant changes in our social life that must be understood by adults."

On October 15, she talked to a district meeting of the Parent Teachers Association on "What I Have Come to Think of the P. T. A." The session was held in the St. Charles High School.

The Business and Professional Women's Club of St. Louis County will hold a meeting on Tuesday, October 26, at the Castlereagh Hotel. Dr. Schaper will be the guest speaker. Her address will be on "Interpreters of the Era."

Clemens Speaks Thursday

Associates Bermuda with "The Tempest"

Dr. Cyril Clemens, head of the International Mark Twain society and a collateral descendant of Mark Twain, gave a talk on "Shakespeare's Debt to Bermuda" in Roemer Auditorium Thursday morning, September 30. Dr. Clemens said that Shakespeare received ideas for his setting of "The Tempest" from sailors just returned from Bermuda. He also read a number of books about the island. In the early seventeenth century much interest was stirred about Bermuda, and the Earl of Southampton, patron of Shakespeare, underwrote the colonization of the territory in 1615.

The tremendous storms, the bright yellow sands, and St. Elmo's fire, which make up the atmosphere of "The Tempest", are direct references to Bermuda, he said. The first Indian and the modern American girl are introduced in this play. In all, there are at least 100 references to Bermuda and many to America, as well.

Likes Orient Best

Sandoe Traveled Abroad

Margaret Sandoe, whom we know as "Sandy," traveled in many different countries last year with her father. On September 20, 1936, they sailed from New York on the Queen Mary.

In London, England, they joined a friend who is an interpreter for the League of Nations. Christmas was spent in China, New Year's Eve in Japan, and Easter in India. Sandy has an interesting collection of souvenirs from the various places she visited on the trip. Among reminders of her trip are several attractive dresses from Paris, France. She likes the Orient best and intends to go back some day.

At the end of May, Sandy and her father returned to the United States. June, July, and August were spent in a summer camp at Elkhorn, Wis. While there she was an instructor in sailing, canoeing, and swimming.

Sandy entered Lindenwood this fall as a freshman. She is majoring in social science.

Students Perform At Second "Y" Meeting

The second Y.W.C.A. meeting was held October 6, at 6:45 o'clock in the Y. W. parlors in old Sibley Hall.

Martha Roberts, president, announced that the program was to be composed of student talent. First was Marian Hull who sang four songs, two of which were from the musical comedy, "Charm School". Both of the songs were written by Lindenwood students.

Second on the program was a trumpet solo by Lola Prather. She played two numbers of the new favorites. Next Ruth Ettin, in her southern drawl, gave a reading about a friend who had a nervous breakdown, "of course my dear, if you want me to say that." This was followed by a novelty tap dance given by Martha Jane Reubelt.

The meeting was closed by everyone repeating the Benediction.

OCTOBER IN IOWA

By Lucile Vosburg, '40

It's October again and in spite of cold weather and snow threatening us, we cannot be prevented from reveling contentedly in the sights, sounds, and smells which are being served to us this month.

In my home-state, Iowa, we would see the golden glow reflected from the shining maple leaves, hear the brisk call of a hardy bird and the chatter of squirrels, busily gathering nuts, and be aware of that pleasant smell of wet leaves with which many of us are familiar. The October weather such as we have there is not typical all over the country. Climatic conditions are responsible for the gay autumn leaves as well as for the Indian summer spells intermingled with brisk and frosty periods. Because all plants in the north are accustomed to an earlier ripening season, the trees in Iowa wear their fall tints sooner than they do in the southern states. A drought in late summer and autumn produces the finest colors, so indications were that the trees this year would not be so gaily colored as they have been some years.

Surprises and sunsets usually appear more beautiful at this time of the year. The sun rises a few minutes before six in the morning—a time conveniently arranged so that one doesn't have to get up too uncomfortably early to view its beauty—and it sets just after six in the evening.

On clear, still days the atmosphere takes on a smoky appearance, tinting the distant landscapes with purple. This smoke is usually due to dust and smoke which is made visible by the quiet atmosphere. Bits of spider webs—long silver threads fastened to trees, bushes, and fence posts—fly about in the early morning hours.

I never fail to read Bliss Carman's short poem, "A Vagabond Song", some time during this month. After reading this poem I cannot help wanting to drop my work and just walk and walk until I, too, see the "scarlet of the maples" and the "frosty asters like smoke upon the hills". Truly, October is a gypsy who "calls and calls each vagabond by name."

Speaking German

The German Club plans a meeting in the near future. The officers of the organization include Leonora Blackhurst as president, Marion Daudt as vice-president, and Rose Willner as secretary-treasurer.

WHO'S WHO

"Toodie, you don't know what's going on around here." But she does, definitely. Five feet and three inches tall, black hair that falls carelessly into curls, brown eyes that have moments of flashing, and all together pleasingly plump. Horse back riding and golf are her main interest. From the "Rogues Gallery," in her room one thinks it must be quantity as well as quality that counts. And too she takes an active interest in all school activities.

FASHION NOTES from TOTSy

Three-piece suits are in the lime-light this fall. I have seen some very good looking ones on this campus; some fur trimmed and others sport. The latter features a dark suit with a very light colored top coat, while some are all the same color. Texas' Kay Ross sports a pretty green one.

Veils, veils, veils! Both long and short are seen. Have you noticed Franny Hickey in hers? She certainly looks stunning. Also the hats have high crowns, and that is swell for the smaller girls.

Sweaters and skirts are still the thing for school. Pearls add smartness to them. Eleanor Finley wears a blue one with a brown skirt that is darling.

About three years ago, watches worn around the neck on chains and black cords became stylish again after years of being considered passe. This year they are more popular than ever among college coeds. Betty Barney wears a lovely one which has been in the family for generations.

For those who wear shirts, the ideal "neckchief" is a silk or satin one with names of colleges, pictures of pencils and engagement memorandums or a map of the United States on them in the brightest of colors. Jane Black's are the last word in style.

Art Club Starts Year

The Art Club has recently elected the following girls as officers of the organization; Shirley Spalding of Lima, Peru, president; Jeanne Hirsh of Teru, Haute, Ind., vice-president; Geraldine Weiss of Mattoon, Ill., recording secretary; Aileen Vandiver of Ogallala, Neb., corresponding secretary; Eleanor Kaps of Denver, Colo., treasurer.

Making Judas Personal

Sunday night October 10, Rev. Robert W. Fay delivered his first sermon of the year at Lindenwood College. There was a large attendance of both students and St. Charles people.

Dr. Roemer presided over the vesper service, and the choir under the direction of Miss Gieselmann sang the "Ave Maria" by Schubert.

Mr. Fay's sermon was on the theme of the Lord's Supper. "At the Lord's supper He told them one of those present would betray him. As we all know, Judas replied 'Lord, is it I?'"

"Although Judas is seldom the hero of sermons, he should be, and more often.

"In judging others we should always say 'Is It I?'"

Sidelights of Society

Delightful Faculty Party

Dr. and Mrs. Roemer entertained the faculty at a reception Monday evening, at 7:30 o'clock in the Library club rooms. Eight of the ten teachers who received scholarships for research work gave interesting accounts of their work during the past summer. Dr. Roemer introduced the speakers and also told of the college in which each studied. Those teachers who gave reports were:

Dr. Linneman, at the Art Institute of Chicago; Miss Elizabeth Dawson, University of Iowa; Miss Hankins, New York University; Dr. Schaper, University of Chicago; Miss Engelhart and Miss Gieselman, both of whom went to the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago; Miss Morris, University of Iowa; and Miss Karr, University of Chicago.

There were musical numbers by Miss Walker, Miss Isidor, Miss Englehart and Miss Shrimpton. Refreshments were served.

Juniors Spent Two Days Entertaining Freshmen

The annual junior class tea was given Tuesday and Wednesday, October 12 and 13, by the junior class for its sister class, the freshmen. Two hundred and seventy-seven guests attended. In the receiving line were Jean McFarland, president; Maurine Potlitzer, vice-president; Rosemary Williams, secretary; and Alice Belding, treasurer.

Tuesday afternoon Dr. Gipson and Miss Gordon poured tea. Miss Gordon is the junior class sponsor. Wednesday afternoon tea was poured by Mrs. Roemer and Dr. Dawson, freshman class sponsor. A lace cloth covered the table, and in the center was a large bouquet of assorted chrysanthemums, snapdragons, and ferns. On each side were lighted yellow candles in tall blue holders. An attractive color scheme of yellow and blue was carried out.

Committees in charge of the arrangements for the tea were as follows: hostess committee, Margaret Du Hadway, chairman, Sue Sonnenday, Alice Jones, Marian Hull, and Gwendolyn Payne; decorating committee, Mary Brittin, chairman, Mary Books and Margaret Hull; Food, Mary Belden, chairman, Sue Eby and Sara Willis.

Business Girls Organize

The Commercial Club had a called meeting Sept. 30 as its first meeting of the year. Virginia Carter was elected to the office of vice-president, to take the place of Catherine Foltz, who did not return this year. The officers elected at the close of the last school year were introduced. They included: Sue Smith, secretary; Helen Brown, treasurer; and Anna Ruth Seaman, reporter. The main purpose of the meeting was to determine the dates for the club meetings throughout the year. The club has 52 members on the present enrollment. Miss Lillian Allyn is sponsor.

Mrs. Roemer Entertains

Mrs. Roemer took all of the house mothers for a lovely drive over the new highway Monday afternoon, October 11. After the ride they had a delightful dinner.

Mrs. Roemer entertained her club Friday, October 15, with a luncheon in the tea room. All of the house-mothers were invited to the luncheon. The members of the club are from St. Louis. Mrs. Roemer has been a member for 27 years.

Miss Walker, one of Lindenwood's voice instructors, did some very interesting work this summer at churches in the East. For the past two summers, she has been working on her Master of Arts degree at Columbia University. She did solo work in the St. Paul's Chapel Choir at Columbia University and was a member of the choir at Riverside Church where Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick is pastor. Miss Walker is the soprano soloist at the Second Presbyterian Church in St. Louis.

Elizabeth Anne Wilson and Mary Borum had several guests to visit them Sunday, October 10, from their home town Blytheville, Arkansas. The guests were Mrs. Edgar Borum, Miss Lillian Stanley, Jane McAdams, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wilson and their son Billy.

Martha Ann Lynch, from Washington University spent last weekend with Mary Borum. Martha Ann was very much impressed with the activity of the Lindenwood campus.

Dorothy Keyes attended the football game October 9 between Washington University and Southern Methodist University.

Mimi Stumberg entertained at a wiener roast at her home on October 2. Those who attended were Martie Lawler, Kathleen Botani, Eloise Stelle, Betty Riley, Virginia Aylesworth, and Georgianne Theis.

Alice Belding went on a hayride given by the Delta fraternity of Washington University on the ninth of October.

Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 13, Miss Wurster, instructor in French, entertained at her home, the girls whom she advised at the beginning of the school year. Miss Wurster served buffet refreshments.

Jerry Weiss spent the weekend in St. Louis at the Hotel Statler with her parents.

Jane Raber and June Jordan spent the weekend in St. Louis visiting Jane's parents.

Patsy Lee Ivy spent the weekend in Centralia, Ill., visiting friends.

Spanish Club Honors Merit

The Spanish Club under the sponsorship of Dr. Terhune has elected officers for the coming year. They are, Rosemary Williams, president; Martha Lou Mundy, vice-president; Katherine Wagner, secretary and treasurer.

Martha Lou was given an honorary membership in the club, on the merit of her outstanding work last year.

Dr. Terhune said they are planning an interesting program for the coming year, but will announce details later. The next meeting will be held November 2.

as well as the court officials were a spectacular sight. All of the new fall fashions appeared, and the rich warm color of the gowns and flowers lent a pleasing effect. First the Veiled Prophet made his return appearance in white satin and royal purple, with a crown of gold. The retiring queen wore an original model of gold cloth and carried red roses. The maids of honor and the ladies-in-waiting were dressed alike in silver cloth with trains. Each maid had a train in pastel velvet. The new queen wore an original Hollywood model of silvery cloth with a long train. Over this she wore a regal train of ermine. She carried a bouquet of orchids. After the queen had taken her place on the throne, and the retiring queen had taken her place, the Veiled Prophet gave his command that all of the court should dance. After the court had danced, the floor was left for the spectators to dance. The St. Louis Symphony played appropriate music all through the evening. The seats and standing room were all filled to capacity. After the dance, the queen and her court retired to Jefferson Hotel for a banquet, where approximately 1200 appeared.

Dr. Roemer said he believed this ball to be the most picturesque and beautiful he had ever seen. The decorations seemed more magnificent and the gowns of the women lovelier. Mrs. Roemer was greatly delighted with the harmony of the ensemble.

Singing Fireman A Hit

Quartet Entertains Assembly

At chapel, Thursday, September 22, at 11 o'clock Dr. Roemer introduced various men of great importance to everyone about Lindenwood. Dr. Roemer said a few words in introduction, and Mr. Motley introduced the men. They included: Mr. Frank Feuerstein, chief of the fire department of St. Charles; Mr. Arthur Smith, Chief of Police of St. Charles; Mr. Hugh Holmes, Postmaster of St. Charles; and Mr. Ed. Pundmann, the Ford dealer and also president of the Kiwanis club of St. Charles. Two state highway patrolmen; Sgt. Shaw and Sgt. Hagen were with them.

Four firemen from St. Louis were also here. William Klausberg, Otto Brexler, Charles Christiansen, and Lou Steiner. The quartet accompanied by Joe Vaccaro entertained the girls by singing several numbers including: "It Looks Like Rain", "Sweet as a Red Rose in June", and numerous others. Mr. Klausberg spoke to the girls on fire prevention and told them about the Grand National Horse Show which is held in St. Louis every fall.

After the assembly, the girls all went to their halls where a scientific fire drill took place. Each girl went to her own room and when the fire gong was rung, girls were seen scattering down stairways and fire-escapes, each holding a towel to cover her face. The girls gathered in front of their own halls and the housemothers called the roll to see that no one was missing. Later everyone adjourned to the dining served.
