$1.00 A YEAR

News from the Dean's Office

Dr. Gipson is much pleased with the outlook for the year 1934-35. The size of the freshman class runs about 75 over last year, and it is a class of extremely high standing. A very large proportion comes from the upper third or upper fourth of the classes at home.

The Dean is pleased also to see the courses of study in the new curriculum so well elected. Almost one-fourth of the entire senior and junior classes are taking the "Family" course, and about as many are in the class in "Child Development". In fact, almost all the courses under the new plan are heavily elected, indicating a general approval of the plan of "Patterns of Living". The new plan has received wide publicity through the press.

Something new this year is the system of faculty advisors for freshmen. These teachers have helped the freshmen in their registration as regards academic work, and are trying to get them well started in all their subjects.

Dr. Gipson has accepted the position of State Chairman of Education for American Association of University Women. She has several important appointments at outside college celebrations. Last week the Dean as Lindenwood's representative attended the fiftieth anniversary celebration of Cotley College for Women, at Nevada, Mo. She leaves today for Rockford, Ill., to take part in the academic procession of Rockford College at the installation of the new president.

Delightful Summer Trip

Dr. and Mrs. Roemer, with "Frank" driving, covered 4,480 miles on their trip into Canada this summer.

From St. Charles they went to Indianapolis, to Detroit, and through the tunnel under the river, into Canada, Toronto was the first Canadian city they visited. From there they went to Montreal, called "the Paris of North America". In Quebec, Dr. and Mrs. Roemer stayed at the Frontenac Hotel, which is situated on a rocky cliff overlooking the St. Lawrence river. Mrs. Roemer said, "Quebec is most interesting in its combination of the old and the new." They drove through the Laurentian mountains, down to the St. Lawrence and took a boat trip to River de Luppe. Going through the Laurentians again they arrived at St. Johns, a very English city.

The high light of the vacation was the visit in Halifax, Nova Scotia, where Mrs. Roemer said, "There are the most beautiful public flower gardens I have ever seen". Motoring on from Halifax, they went through the Evangeline country, so well known in poetry and song. At Digby they took a boat on the Bay of Fundy back to St. Johns. Then back into the United States at Portland, Maine. They passed through Newberry, Mass.,

Four Great Imperatives

President of Lindenwood's Board Gives Inspiring Address.

Dr. John W. MacIvor, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of St. Louis and president of Lindenwood's Board of Directors, was the speaker at the first Thursday assembly of the school year on September 27.

Dr. MacIvor said that he had been coming to Lindenwood for eighteen years but that "believe it or not" the students now seem more mature than ever before. He said, "Each new class that comes in is better looking than the last."

His subject was, "The Great Imperatives of Life". What are we here for? And his answer was "The Quest of Life", "Education", he said "is a leading out into life."

The great imperatives of life as listed by Dr. MacIvor are: I ought; I can; I will; I have.

Daniel Webster's greatest thought was a sense of responsibility, he said. That is a sense of "oughtness". The first imperative applies to us. We ought to grow, to serve our fellow students, to learn to cooperate. "All human achievement hinges on will, on character," Dr. MacIvor said. The great thing in life is to stand up to life and say, "I can." God can do nothing with one who says, "I can't."

According to Dr. MacIvor, the sublimest spectacle is the man who has been going wrong and says, "I will. I will go right." He compared life to a block of marble in that we can shape it at our will.

To be able to say "I have" Dr. MacIvor said, is genius. If we follow the imperatives and say "We ought", "We can", "We will", someday we can say, "We Have."

In conclusion Dr. MacIvor named the three functions of women: To keep ideals in the world; To keep the triumph in failure; To Christianize the human order. "Stand up to life honestly, sincerely, but stand up to it," he urged.

where Mrs. Roemer's great-grandfather was reared. In Boston they encountered terrifically hot weather, also in Wheeling, West Va., Dr. Roemer's old home. Mrs. Roemer said they were happy to get back to their new air-conditioned room in "The Gables".

Home Economics Elects

The Home Economics Club held its first meeting Thursday, September 27. Mary Belle Grant, president of the club, presided over the meeting and the following new officers were elected:

Ethel Gard Barry, vice-president; Virginia Sodemann, secretary; and Susan Lischer, treasurer. Invitations were sent out to all girls eligible to become members of the club.

Plan of the Year

Dr. Roemer, President of Lindenwood College, delivered the annual convocation address to the faculty and student body at Roemer Hall, Sunday evening, September 23, opening Lindenwood's 108th school year. Dr. Roemer and Dr. Case led the newly organized student choir of 44 girls down the central aisle and on to the stage. The choir sang, and Dr. Chase offered the opening prayer. The students joined in the responsive reading, led by Case, and in the singing of hymns.

In Dr. Roemer's address, "The New Direction", he pointed out that changes bring changing obligations. The progressive attitude of today is the result of a trying out of new ideas, to the betterment of conditions and methods, as brought about by the demands of different people. He spoke, too, on the trend in education that Lindenwood College is taking today.

Dr. Roemer opened his address with a welcome to both old and new students. "Have patience", he said, "Be true to the high ideals you had when you thought of going to college. Give attention to your duties and remember your responsibilities."

He spoke particularly to the freshmen who are of course making such necessary adjustments. He stressed these three responsibilities of the freshman: first, she has a responsibility to her home. It is up to her so to conduct herself that good reports may be sent back home; secondly, she has a responsibility to the school she left; thirdly she has a responsibility to Lindenwood, her new alma mater.

Dr. Roemer pointed out that the world is changing every year, and the school should be "in the world and part of it". He compared the changes to the way the wind blows, and told his audience to follow the winds, not to pull against them. He cited examples of changes that have taken place in the world, especially in the educational world. He quoted the words of Walter E. Meyer: "Learning has little meaning unless related to personal and social welfare".

In discussing the new curriculum, Dr. Roemer said: "Patterns of Living is our aim. We want our graduates to know life and its demand. We want them to evaluate their education in terms of personal and social welfare. We want them not only to be good but good for something".

Dr. Roemer spoke in detail of four things of great importance to the students. "A cultural background," he said, "is every subject that best fits us for the field of our chosen life in my opinion. The practical side of life is the cultural side of life." The new curriculum at Lindenwood must have a cultural background.

His second important point was that the curriculum must concern itself with adaptation, for the personal equation cannot be overlooked. Dr. Roemer illustrated his point by saying: "Christ when upon earth, declared 'The Sabbath was made for

Student Board Organized

Mary K. Dewey, of Cairo, Ill., will serve as president of the Student Board for the forth coming year. Mary K. is a Senior and last year was vice-president of the Board. She is a member of Alpha Sigma Tau, and in her sophomore year was awarded the Sigma Iota Chi scholarship.

Helen Lightholder of Streator, Ill. last year's "pop-queen", has been made vice-president of the Board. She served on the Board last year as secretary.

The secretary, chosen from the sophomore class, is Mary Nell Patterson of Oklahoma City. She was an outstanding freshman last year.

The Y. W. C. A. president is also a member of this governing body. Nancy Montgomery of Grove, Mo., holds that office. Nancy was secretary of her class last year and has been outstanding throughout her college career.

Other than these the Student Board is composed of the presidents of the various dormitories: Sara Crews of Fulton, Mo., represents Butler Hall; Florence Wilson of Chicago, Ayres; Mary Belle Grant of Bachelor, Mo., Sibley; Alie Mae Bornman, Clarksdale, Miss., Irwin; and Jane Meyers, Tulsa, Okla., Niccolls.

man, not man for Sabbath'. Progressive education must declare: 'The curriculum was made for the student, not the student for the curriculum'. The human equation is greater than a fixed course of study."

The curriculum must be alive to the needs of the day. "The need of the hour", said Dr. Roemer, "is for our schools to realize the life that now is, and to assist in making the life that now is, more abundant. One time Andrew Carnegie belabored our college students for lack of newspaper reading. He might make a few remarks on that subject now. 'Haven't time', is the general excuse. If you are alive in the world you live in, read a newspaper every day at the expense of sacrificing some curricular activity. The new direction in education is toward living the present life to its fullest and best."

Dr. Roemer's fourth and last point was that the curriculum must stress spiritual values. Today as never before in pulpit, platform and press the word "spiritual" has attained prominence. Dr. Roemer defined spiritual values as values that are as lasting as the ages, values that are as lasting as the ages.

Dr. Roemer closed the service with this short poem:

"Begin, my Soul, a life of loftier aim.

A life unchained by base and earthly things.

No more 'et self and sense the homage claim,

But rise with dignity on spirit wings."

Advancing in "The Useful Life"

Welcome to Lindenwood College. This year Lindenwood is offering splendid new opportunities to its large enrollment of students. It has as a definite objective the training of women for the use of their leisure time, for the taste and ability to judge between the fine, the mediocre, and the bad in the world of fine arts is very important for the educated woman.

Dean Gipson, in her booklet, "Patterns For Living", explains the new curriculum. Lindenwood College emphasizes character training. In order to help develop its students as citizens of the highest sort, Lindenwood College plans to direct their course along four lines: better training in the relations of the family; training to become intelligent leaders in their communities; training in the political obligations of citizenship; and training in the languages and customs of other countries. Lindenwood desires to give its graduates real patterns for living. "A college-bred student should be charming, and interesting and upright."

Lindenwood is also offering new opportunities for those interested in horseback riding. There is a new paddock on the campus near the tennis courts, and a new addition which doubles the size of the old stables. There are twenty-one horses. Mr. Dapron, the riding master, invites all those who like riding to come out.

Improvements have been made in the various halls, too, this year. An immense electric ice-box has been installed in the kitchen for salads and so forth, and a new refrigeration system for one of the storage rooms.

New lighting systems have been placed in the halls, and several of the buildings have been repaired and fitted with new furniture and papering.

Again, welcome to Lindenwood. The new curriculum and the new advantages and opportunities offered are balanced only by the many friends you will make during the forthcoming year.

"Columbus Day" Is At Hand

Just 442 years ago, on October 12, 1492, Christopher Columbus blazed a trail across an untraversed ocean to a new land, our land. It was a raw, unbroken territory then, and now it is covered with millions of people. We are all familiar with the account of his courageous voyage, but we usually think of him only as "the man who discovered America". He was more than that. He was one of the most admirable men in history and we should be proud that he was the man who played such a part toward the settlement of our country.

Columbus was a man of strong natural genius, who had to contend with privations and impediments. One of the remarkable features in his history which enhances the grandeur of his achievements to us, was the scantiness of his means in every undertaking. Through his own energy and invention he was able to effect great purposes. He possessed a valiant spirit, a strong mind, and an appreciation of beauty. The quickness of his temper was counteracted by the generosity of his heart and his keen sense of injustice. In the progress of his discoveries, he contributed many important principles to the stock of general knowledge, made possible by his wonderful quickness of perception.

His stormy career was filled with long and difficult voyages, and every form of misfortune and hardship, but through all his bitter life he remained true to others and to himself. He died in ignorance of his discovery, believing that he had merely opened a new route to the East. How his magnanimous spirit would have been consoled could he have anticipated the splendid civilization which today is spread over the beautiful world he discovered.

Has Had Practical Work

Miss Yvonne Bailey of Kansas City, Kansas, has been added to Lindenwood's faculty this year as instructor in bacteriology and physiology. Miss Bailey is a graduate of Baker University, Baldwin, Kansas, where she was affiliated with Zeta Tau Alpha sorority. Last year she studied at the Gradwohl School of Medical Technology in St. Louis. She later taught there and did research work in Allergy. This past summer she had charge of the Laboratory and Ex-ray department of the Helena hospital, Helena, Ark. She also was employed in Springfield, Missouri.

Miss Bailey is living in Butler Hall.

Miss Leland, Pianist

Miss Hildur Leland, a new piano teacher added to the music department at Lindenwood this year, is a member of Mr. Phi Epsilon, and will be welcome in Lindenwood's chapter.

She has the degrees of A.B., A.M., and B.F.A. Miss Leland after completing early work at St. O'af School took four years in piano and in organ at the Juilliard School in New York City, for which she received certificates. Her Master's degree is from Smith College. She has taught piano at Concordia Conservatory, North Dakota State College and more recently at the Louisiana State Normal. She will be resident there.

"Seeing Is Believing"

Don't you think that the seniors deserve recognition? Now that they've reached this high position, must they still be taken for freshmen? Perhaps you will be surprised at seeing some of these names in Lindenwood's list of seniors. Look them over.

The officers of the class are:

Allie Mae Bornman, president;
Geraldine Robertson, vice-president;
Mary Roberts, secretary;
Virginia Porter, treasurer

Others are:

Betty Bell
Barbara Bennett
Catherine Blackman
Kathryn Burkhardt

Helpful Toward Vocations

This year a vocational shelf may be found in the library for those persons who are interested in having a job after graduating. Many new books on the shelf cover all fields that young women could possibly be interested in. There are forty volumes.

Some of the outstanding new books to be read are: "Finding a Job", by Babson; "The Student Library Assistant", by Bennett; "Make Your Own Job" by Ryder; "I Find My Vocation", by Kitson; "Jobs For College Graduates in Science", Menge; "Foreign Language Students After College—What?" Schwartz; and "Vocations For Women", Pierce.

Qualifications Raised

The first meeting of the Triangle Club was held in the College Club room October 2. Miss Rutherford, the sponsor of the club, introduced Miss Bailey, of the biology department, who is to be one of the co-sponsors of the organization.

The officers for this year, who were elected at the last meeting in the spring, took charge of the program. These are: Lillian Willson, president; Geraldine Robinson, vice-president; and Jean Kirkwood, secretary-treasurer.

For the first time in the history of the club, the constitution was amended, by unanimous approval, to raise the qualifications to honorary standing. The amendments adopted were: All applicants must be a major or minor in science with an average of S in all science courses, and an average of M in other subjects; no grade I, two-hour course can be offered for admission; an application form will be given to each student eligible for membership.

All the plans were made, and all the committees were appointed for the entire year.

Dr. Gipson in Northwest

Dean Gipson's vacation covered a great deal of territory this summer. About the middle of June she left college and spent several weeks at her home in Caldwell, Idaho. She said that she didn't notice the drought there, since it is always dry during the summer and the crops are irrigated.

The first of August she went to the coast and visited her niece in Seattle. She said that she believes Seattle is fast developing into one of the leading industrial centers. She prefers the climate of the northwest coastal region to that of many other places. She visited Portland and several other cities.

From the coast Dr. Gipson journeyed to Wisconsin and spent a short time at a few of the resorts.

A visit to the World's Fair, which she had also seen last year, completed her vacation program. She was disappointed to find that Ford's exhibit one of the best of its kind in her estimation, was not there this year. "The open-air concerts and the replica of Shakespeare's Globe Theatre gave me the most enjoyment", she said.

Miss Biggers Pleased With New Appointment

Miss Geraldine Biggers will be head of the Public Speaking department, for the coming year. She is taking the place of Miss Gordon, who is on a leave of absence and is in the east and of Miss Lucille Cracraft, who has embarked upon the marital ship with Dr. William Jordan Wills.

Miss Biggers is a graduate of the Emerson College of Oratory, Boston, Mass. She has done professional work with Walter Hampden, Robert Mantell and Genevieve Hamper's companies in Shakespearean plays.

She has also studied with Henrietta Robinson in New York, and has done dramatic coaching in Kenmore School Boston, and the Morse School of Expression in St. Louis.

Miss Biggers is also known to the radio world over KMOX, KSD, and KWK in St. Louis. She has written several dramatic sketches and plays.

Miss Biggers feels that the girls of Lindenwood College are an inspiration to her in their strong desire to develop and progress.

She said of Dr. and Mrs. Roemer, "Their graciousness, kindness, and social ease brings joy to anyone who is a newcomer to Lindenwood College."

Y. W. Charms With Music

The "rafters rang" repeatedly at the Y. W. C. A. pep meeting held Wednesday evening, September 26, from 6:30 to 7:30 o'clock. With Nancy Montgomery and Helen Lightholder acting as song leaders and with Marjorie Hickman "tickling the keys", a fair-sized attendance of new and old students drilled in the favorite Lindenwood songs. These included the "Loyalty Song" and "Home of Our Mothers".

The school cheer was mastered and rendered vigorously with Evelyn Brown in the role of volunteer cheer leader.

Margaret Lyn Winder, freshman, delighted her hearers by singing several popular song numbers.

This was the first meeting of the year and was held to acquaint the new students with the school songs and to enjoy a very informal dance.

The officers this year are: Nancy Montgomery, president; Helen Lightholder, vice-president; Constance Osgood, secretary; Margaret Barber, treasurer. Dr. Terhune, head of the modern language department, is the sponsor.

SPORTS

New Significance

In Physical Education

Miss Margaret Mantle Stookey, head of the Physical Education department, spent the greater part of her vacation studying at the University of Iowa.

Miss Stookey has many new plans to put into effect in her department this coming year. She believes that the new curriculum at Lindenwood also applies to the physical education department. Girls when they leave college must be physically fit as well as mentally alert, she says. Tennis and swimming are two of the many sports offered which will have a "carry-on" value to Lindenwood girls as they leave college to take their places in the world. The ability to dance gives poise to those with that ability, and eradicates self-consciousness.

Dorothy Hope Miller, who attended Lindenwood College two years ago had unusual talent as a dancer and is a good example of Lindenwood's teaching. Miss Stookey recently received a letter from Dorothy who is now in Mexico City doing solo work. She danced with the Poll-Mar girls in the Chase Hotel in St. Louis last winter, and she is now touring with them. The Poll-Mar dancers have been in Mexico City a little over a month and will probably stay three or four more weeks.

Athletic Association

Elects Officers

At the first meeting of the Athletic Association, Monday evening, October 1, several new officers and heads of sports were chosen. Geraldine Robertson, chosen president last year, presided at the meeting.

Other officers in the Athletic Association are: vice-president, Nancy Montgomery; secretary, Helen Foster; treasurer, Mary Roberts. The heads of the various sports are as follows: tennis, Betty Butler; hockey, Constance Osgood; swimming, Virginia Rugh; posture, Beatrice Hill; archery, Eleanor Hibbard; golf, Mary Elizabeth Null; hiking, Adele Nichols; dancing, Camille McFadden.

All tests in the various sports are to begin this week, and all students are asked to try to get points for the Athletic Association.

Points To Be Earned

Girls, sports are fun! There are hockey, swimming, riding, basketball, and many others. For each one in which you participate gladly and wholeheartedly outside of class, you will receive points. 125 points will make you eligible for membership in the Athletic Association. The Athletic Association promotes sportsmanship, friendship, competition. We want you to become a member of the Lindenwood Women's Athletic Association.

Points are awarded in the following way:

Teams: 25 points for four practices; 50 points for playing in two full games of hockey, baseball, basketball; 50 points for playing on one of the following teams, swimming, track and field.

2. Honors: 25 points for coming out ten hours, aside from class periods for tennis, golf, archery, swimming; 25 points for riding six times outside class; 50 points for passing posture test; 25 points for four hikes or 50 points for six hikes.

3. Tests: 25 points if you pass the beginning, intermediate, or advanced tests in tennis, golf, archery, swimming, dancing; 25 points for passing the Senior Red Cross Life Saving Test.

4. 50 points for solo dancing 25 points for group dancing.

5. Officers and heads of sports, 50, 70, 100 points; Head of sports, 50 points; vice-president, secretary and treasurer, 75 points; president, 100 points.

Monuments At Lindenwood To "Man's Best Friend"

If you should be strolling down by the golf course one of these pleasant autumn days, you would see a neat, white washed board fence surrounding a plot of ground about ten feet square. And if you would go closer to see why the fence was there, you would see two monuments. "Kurt-Faithful Until Death—1921-1934"; "Lin—Devoted Dog Friend of Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Roemer—1916-1925". Simple words carved on two slabs of marble, side by side, expressing the kind of attachment that mysteriously exists between humans and their dogs. The spreading branches of two trees meet to form a sheltering arch above the quiet spot, and small acorns and yellow leaves, dropping silently, cover the ground with a protective blanket. A caressing breeze gently stirs the tall grass growing up to the fence, and a mellow sun bathes the earth with warmth. The sky is bright overhead and the subdued tones of a pipe organ drift sweetly on the air. All is peaceful, even to the satisfied hum of busy insects. What a fitting resting place for Kurt and Lin!

Dr. Schaper On Staff Sociological Journal

Dr. Florence W. Schaper, head of the Social Science department, has recently been honored by being appointed to the Editorial Council of the Journal of Educational Sociology. The members of the Editorial Council represent a wide interest in the field of sociology.

The Journal of Educational Sociology is a monthly publication issued during the fall, winter, and spring months. It is a magazine of theory and practice and should be most helpful to persons working in the fields of sociology and education. It may be found on the magazine rack in the Lindenwood library.

Assistant in Expression

Miss Arline Alberta Aegerter is the new assistant to Miss Biggers, public speaking teacher. Miss Aegerter is from St. Louis. She was born and reared in St. Louis, graduated from Roosevelt High School, and spent three years at Washington University.

Miss Aegerter comes from the Morse School of Expression, and teaches at Lindenwood two days a week, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Officers of Music

The members of the Lindenwood College orchestra and choir have chosen their officers. President of the orchestra is Virginia Krome; vice-president, Margarette Winder; secretary-treasurer, Beatrice Hill.

Rachel Hinman is president of the choir; Carolyn Heins, vice-president; Dorothy Ball, secretary; Marjorie Hickman, treasurer.

All Classes Elect Officers

Seniors Add Honors.

The senior class held its election of officers Wednesday, September 27, at 5 o'clock in Roemer auditorium. The meeting was opened with a few words from the sponsor, Miss Reichert.

Allie Mae Bornman of Clarksdale, Miss., was reelected as president of the class. She is a member of the Student Board and president of the honor society of the music department. Geraldine Robertson of Carthage, Mo., president of the athletic association, was made vice-president. The secretary is Mary Roberts, Little Rock, Ark., who also is treasurer of A.A. The class chose Virginia Porter as its treasurer. She is a member of Alpha Tau honor society, Pi Gamma Mu and Sigma Tau Delta, Virginia is from McLeansboro, Ill.

New Officers for Juniors

The Junior Class held its class election of officers on Wednesday afternoon, September 26, at 5 o'clock.

The results of the election were as follows: Florence Wilson was elected to the presidency, succeeding He'en Lightholder, who was the able president of the class for the last two years; Camille McFadden was elected as vice-president, Marie Ellis was elected secretary, Wilma Hoen, treasurer, and Nancy Smith was chosen as the pianist by a committee appointed by the president, Florence Wilson.

Sophomores Insist on Sue

Sue Perrin was unanimously reelected president of the sophomore class at a class meeting held for election of officers, September 20. Sue, who is from St. Louis, spent nine weeks in England this summer.

The other new officers are: vice-president, Nan Latham of California, Mo.; secretary, Katherine Morton, St. Joseph, Mo.; treasurer, Virginia Rugh, Decatur, Ill.; pianist, Majorie Hickman, St. Louis; song leader, Dorothy Bal' of Bowling Green, Mo. Miss Hanks, classical language and literature teacher, is sponsor.

The appointment of committees and plans for the year are to be discussed at the meeting.

Officers From Four States

The freshman class elected its officers in a meeting on September 25. Ruth Anne McSpadden from Nowata, Okla., is president; LaVerne Rowe, Kirkwood, is vice-president; Virginia Estes, Oklahoma City Okla., is secretary; Catherine Schroeder Cheyenne, Wyoming is treasurer. They have chosen green and white for their class colors. The freshman class song, Onward Freshmen, is being learned. The words were written by Marion Randolph, the music by Arabelle Wycoff.

Had Triumphs Abroad

Miss Pearl Walker, a new voice teacher in Lindenwood's music department, is the soprano soloist in Dr. MacIvor's church, the Second Presbyterian, in St. Louis.

Miss Walker has her A.B. from Illinois State University, and her B.M. from the Chicago Musical College, among other degrees and distinctions. She had four years of continued success in Berlin Germany, where, after passing the National Examination for the German Opera Stage, she enjoyed many splendid opportunities in concert

WHO'S WHO?

She's tall and dark and has the curliest hair imaginable—says she's letting it grow. She has the funniest little nose and the most infectious laugh. Recently was found talking to herself as she surveyed her newly decorated room a la—I mustn't tell. There's no doubt that she is a leader, for she has served as president of her class for two years. She had a most atrocious time learning a little verse that went "I'm a frog, all agog, etc." Remember? For the new girls I'll drop this hint—she lives in Ayres, she spent 6 weeks in England this summer and just loves potatoes. Speaks often of "Gil". He's 6 feet 4, she'll tell you.

Courage Excels Cleverness Mr. Motley Says

Mr. Motley spoke to the Y. W. C. A. on Wednesday evening, October 3, on college leadership. In the first place but above all college is a place to which to come and learn from books, but above all college is a place to come to and learn how to live with other people.

The calibre of women as a whole used to be that of "a clinging vine", and one of dependence upon man, but now the woman of today is showing herself to have the courage and independence of any man. Mr. Motley stated, "Education means for us to profit by experience, and meet any situation with all courage". Therefore Mr. Motley pointed out that any woman, in order to be really educated, must have courage and the ability to face any situation bravely, and master it. He also said that he would be disappointed if the students here at college did not miss their homes, but he would also be more greatly disappointed if they could not "stick it out" here at college.

Mr. Motley gave the students a brief resume of that which is expected of them at college. "Cleverness is not expected so much in college, as courage, the students are able to fool their teachers and other members of the administration, but they cannot fool their fellow students; their estimate of a girl is most important. The idea is to be able to make friends, and then have the ability to keep them as sincere friends."

One must cultivate decisiveness in college, and especially in religion. Mr. Motley closed by saying, "To me, religion takes nothing out of life. If you miss the Y. W., you miss the most component part of your life. The Bible is necessary, for there is an infinite force driving the waters to the sea, and it is in your life and mine. There is only one force that can keep your feet securely on the ground, and that is your belief."

and opera, also in the radio abroad as well at home, and in singing classical numbers for the famed Telefunken records.

Her voice is a beautiful lyric soprano. She will come out from the city to teach, several days a week.

German Club Meets

The German club held its first meeting October 2. It was a social affair. Mrs. Ordeltelheide, mother of Harry Ordeltelheide, superintendent of grounds, spoke to the members in German and told them of her trip to Germany this past summer.

The officers are: Wilma Hoen, president Alma Reitz, vice-president; Dorothy Copps, secretary-treasurer.

Sidelights of Society

President and Mrs. Roemer have sent out invitations for a faculty reception in the college club rooms tonight at eight o'clock.

Friday night, September 21, marked the opening of social affairs at Lindenwood when the faculty met the students at an informal dance in Butler gymnasium. The receiving line, composed of members of the faculty, was headed by Dr. and Mrs. Roemer. "Big Sisters" escorted their "Little Sisters" to the dance, and the new students were introduced to every officer of administration and instruction.

The walls of the gym were hung with the various state pennants, and a large Lindenwood banner adorned the orchestra pit. Students and their hosts and hostesses danced to the rhythm of Lester Blackner's six-piece orchestra which has furnished the music at various Lindenwood entertainments for the last four years.

The grand march of the faculty, led by Dr. and Mrs. Roemer, was followed by a parade of each class. After the various grand marches there was an intermission during which punch was served. Dancing was resumed and the dance music continued until 10:30 o'clock.

Guests at the Ball

Dr. and Mrs. Roemer attended the Veiled Prophet Ball Wednesday evening, October 3, and took Susette Hausler of Centralia, Ill. with them. Others who went were Mary Willis Heeren, LaVerne Rowe, Bertha Kent, Ruth Bewley and Susan Smith.

Dr. Florence W. Schaper, head of the social science department, spent her summer at home with her family, except for a week or two in and around Chicago.

"Quiet Hour" Sunday afternoons has been changed from the hours of 2 o'clock until 4 o'clock to a schedule from 1:30 o'clock until 3 o'clock. This is done for the better accommodation of guests.

All the Ayres girls gladly trooped downstairs Thursday evening, September 27, to have their first house party of the year. The main purpose of the party was to get everyone acquainted with everyone else. After all the girls had arrived in the Ayres parlors, Florence Wilson, president of the hall, gave a reading which was greatly enjoyed. The party lasted from nine until 10:30 and games were played after Florence finished reading. Dixie cups and cup cakes were served.

Co-Ed Dance

The first "date dance" of the year is to be given Saturday night, October 13. The dance is sponsored by the student board. The decorations are to be in the autumn colors. Orange paper is going to line the walls and a ceiling of yellow, orange, and brown is to be shaded in crepe paper. The dance will be informal.

Two members of the administrative staff enjoyed a delightful summer vacationing in the north. Miss Cook, with her sister, Miss Gertrude, and Mrs. William A. Hall, motored through Wisconsin, traveling as far north as Gills Rock in the northern peninsula. They enjoyed a trip of 2400 miles, through the lonely mountains of the north, wooded heavily with balsam pines, making short stops at Lake Geneva, Sturgeon Bay, Fish Creek and other choice spots. They returned home through Milwaukee and so to St. Charles.

Mrs. Roberts, housemother of Ayres Hall, spent the summer traveling. She went to Philadelphia to be with her daughter, Mrs. I. A. Sturgis. Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Sturgis took a liner from Philadelphia to Boston and while in Boston visited Harvard and Radcliffe and made a trip to Concord along the old Paul Revere trail.

Saw the V. P. Parade

126 Lindenwood students ventured to St. Louis to view the Veiled Prophet Parade, Tuesday evening, October 2. There were 15 from Butler, 16 from Ayres, 24 from Sibley, 26 from Nicco's, and 45 from Irwin. The chaperons were: Lynne Hansen, Adele Cote, Kathryn Burkhardt, Ethel Gard Barry, Mary Greer, Mary K. Dewey, Sara Crews, Ruth Kelley, Bettie Aylward, Heleni Lightholder, Evelyn Brown, Catherine Blackman, Alice McCawley, Guinivere Wood, Mildred Atkinson, Pinky Stuhler, Camille McFadden, Rachel Van Winkle, and Helen Foster. Four special busses were chartered to convey the girls to and from the city.

Mrs. LeMaster spent a most delightful summer with relatives. The first two months she and her little granddaughter were in A'edo, Mo., guests of Mrs. LeMaster's sister. The remainder of the summer was divided between the homes of her two daughters in Columbia, Mo. and Boonville, Mo. She also saw the World's Fair.

Margaret Lyn Winder spent six weeks this summer as the guest of Mrs. Grady McCall in Little Rock, Ark. Mrs. McCall is the daughter of Gov. John M. Futrell of Arkansas.

Geraldine Robertson of Carthage, Mo., taught swimming for girls at the Y. M. C. A. pool in Carthage this summer.

Virginia Krome visited the Grand Canyon during her tour of the West this summer.

Nancy Montgomery, president of the Y. W. C. A. and Helen Lightholder, vice-president, went to Fulton to a Y. W. conference. They returned Sunday.

Eleanor Collinson, a freshman living in Ayres Hall, spent the summer in the West, touring the Grand Canyon and Arizona. Eleanor is from Topeka, Kansas.

Betty Turner vacationed at the White River and spent three days in the Ozark Mts.

Barbara Elkins spent five weeks in Europe this summer with her step-mother. The main purpose of the trip was to see the Passion Play at Oberammergau, but she also took a trip up the Rhine. Roberta is from Mounds, Ill.

Barbara Hall of Benton, Ill., spent the greater part of the summer at Lake George, New York, visiting relatives. Barbara's mother visited her Wednesday afternoon and they went to St. Louis for the day.

Betty Bell who lives in Hudson, New York, spent the last few weeks of vacation in St. Louis visiting Ruth Kelley.

Ruth Ann McSpadden was a participant in a tennis tournament in Miami, Okla., this summer.
