The semester is off to a fast start and there are a lot of exciting things happening! Football Head Coach Jed Stugart and I are headed to the inaugural Football Kickoff Luncheon at Chicken N Pickle today to connect with supporters and build excitement for the season. Dr. Mark Penny and I are meeting with two high school principals this week to identify opportunities for direct involvement and enrollment pipeline growth. In addition, we are hosting the Tri-County luncheon Friday with local superintendents to help strengthen partnerships. I'll be at the football home opener Saturday at 6 p.m. and hope to see you there. Make it a great week!

Q2 Moments

Director of the Writing Center and Associate Professor of English Sue Edele is an incredible boss. In addition to navigating complex changes to the Writing Center and teaching numerous courses, she makes her colleagues feel welcome, valued, and supported. When I had a minor health complication, she texted frequently to check in and offered to drive me to an urgent care or deliver supplies to my apartment. She prioritizes staff and students' mental health and makes working at the Writing Center a joy!

Assistant Athletic Director for Athletics Marketing and Customer Experience Mike Barone went above and beyond in a timely and friendly manner. After cashing-in my Lindenwood loyalty points for a sweatshirt, I sent an email as directed in the app. Same day, Mike responded and offered to personally deliver my LU shirt to my office! True to his word, he arrived in the timeframe he said he would, smile on his face and cheerful manner. This type of service to a colleague goes a long way. He is a credit to his unit and himself. Well done, Mike. You made my day a little happier.

Program Manager, K-12 Professional and Continuing Education Azam Nathaniel is such a positive enthusiastic part of the Lindenwood team. Azam guides our graduate workshop students with prompt customer service whether it has to do with payment of fees or students receiving grades in a timely manner. Despite technical issues, Azam remains positive and works with students to resolve issues as quickly as possible. He is a true team player, who always helps students and coworkers with a smile. Azam exhibits Q2 daily.

During move-in week, Associate Professor of Athletic Training Dr. Tom Godar assisted a student with a flat tire in the Field House parking lot. Alongside two other students who happened to have a car jack, Dr. Godar stepped in to change the tire. The student was very grateful!
