LINDENWOOD

Student Research Symposium April 17

April 8, 2013

Lindenwood University will host a Student Research Symposium and Exposition from 3-7 p.m. on Wednesday, April 17, in the Spellmann Campus Center's Anheuser-Busch Leadership Room on the St. Charles campus. Faculty members will judge student projects, ranging from posters to presentations and then award cash prizes to the winning undergraduate and graduate entrants.

Posters will be student-created original works that may include, but are not limited to, portfolios of photographs, graphic art, and fashion design, research projects in all fields, science experiments, senior capstone projects, theses or dissertations, marketing campaigns or team research consulting projects, archival collections and oral history collections, community service projects, theatrical set lighting, costume designs, original choreography, or music compositions.

Presentations may include, but are not limited to, poetry or fiction readings, conference-style paper presentations of research methodologies and findings, theatrical and music performances, or original video documentaries and film screenings.

Two undergraduate participants and two graduate participants will be selected as winners from each of the university's nine schools. The first-place winners will receive $200, and the second-place winners will receive $75.

For more information about the event, contact Tameka Moore in the Lindenwood School of Education at 618-616-7027 or tmoore@lindenwood.edu.
