Missouri Court of Appeals to Hear Cases at LU Sept. 26

September 23, 2013

Lindenwood University will host two sessions of the Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District, at 9:30 and 10:30 a.m. on Thursday, Sept. 26, in Harmon Hall's Elizabeth Dunseth Auditorium on the St. Charles campus. The sessions are open to the public.

This marks the second consecutive year the court has held dockets at Lindenwood. The hearings are part of the Eastern District's tradition of convening outside of St. Louis, Mo., where regular sessions are conducted.

Robert M. Clayton III, chief judge of the Missouri Court of Appeals, will be joined by three other participating judges, including Roy Richter of Montgomery City, Kurt Odenwald of St. Louis County, and Lisa Van Amburg of St. Louis. They will sit in panels of three to hear oral arguments from attorneys in four appeals from the St. Charles County, City of St. Louis, and Jefferson County courts.

"We are honored to return to Lindenwood at the invitation of Dean Roger Ellis of the School of Business and Entrepreneurship," Clayton said. "Our court strongly believes in holding oral arguments outside of St. Louis, and St. Charles is an important part of the district. We look forward to visiting Lindenwood's premier educational institution."
