4-20-2018

Lindenwood Online Video Game Design Program Ranked Top Five in the Country

Lindenwood University

Lindenwood Online Video Game Design Program Ranked Top Five in the Country

April 20, 2018

BestColleges.com ranked the Lindenwood University online Game Design program fourth best in the United States.

The Game Design program offers students the opportunity to earn a Bachelor of Arts degree in an online or hybrid setting. Courses are designed to prepare students for working in a game studio environment. The curriculum for the game design degree includes advanced game design and production courses, covering key industry concepts ranging from aesthetics and immersion to usability and game economics, plus topics like storytelling and character development.

Ranking factors include academic quality, affordability, and online programming.

BestColleges.com partners with HigherEducation.com to provide students with direct connections to schools and programs suiting their educational goals through program rankings. The rankings are intended to inform and guide prospective students toward institutions that provide a quality education and a meaningful learning experience at an affordable cost.