ECONOMICS WEBINAR FOR K-12 EDUCATORS SCHEDULED FOR OCT. 10

September 24, 2018

Dr. Tawni Hunt Ferrarini, from Lindenwood University's Plaster School of Business & Entrepreneurship, will present an economics webinar titled Cryptocurrency and Blockchain Technology on Wednesday, Oct 10, from 6 to 7 p.m.

The controversy surrounding cryptocurrency has led to full discussions of how blockchain technology can change the way property rights are recorded, validated, and authenticated. Join this webinar to learn more about both.

This session is free for all K-12 educators teaching in the disciplines of economics, business, technology, and social studies. Registration is required.
