Danielle Darling '17 Named to Delta Zeta's 35 Under 35

September 3, 2024

Lindenwood University alumna Danielle Darling '17 has been named a 2024 recipient of Delta Zeta Sorority's esteemed 35 Under 35 award. This prestigious award recognizes Delta Zeta alumnae who have demonstrated exceptional professional achievements and made significant impacts in their respective industries before the age of 35.

The 35 Under 35 award celebrates young professionals who exemplify the values and ideals of Delta Zeta Sorority. Recipients are chosen based on their outstanding accomplishments, innovative spirit, and commitment to making a difference. Darling's recognition is a testament to her unwavering pursuit of excellence and her ability to inspire others.

Darling joined Delta Zeta Sorority - Omicron Omicron Chapter during her time as a Lindenwood undergraduate student while majoring in business administration.

"My time at Lindenwood was transformative, especially through co-founding the University's first-ever investment club, which has contributed to success thus far in the finance industry. The club now thrives as a student-managed portfolio with over six figures in assets," Darling said.

Darling's undergraduate experience has led her to a successful career in the finance industry. She works as a financial advisor and is a certified divorce financial analyst with Resource One Advisors in Saint Albans, Mo. In addition to making a profound impact in her industry, she in turn has given back to Lindenwood and is committed to making a difference in the lives of others.

"Inspired by my experiences and connections, I established the Danielle Darling Annual Scholarship in 2024 to pay forward the incredible support I received."
